Fernando de los Rios.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Any merchant vessels flying the American flag which attempt to transport implements of war to China or Japan do so at their own risk, President Roosevelt announced tonight.

The President specifically forbade merchant vessels owned by the government of the United States from transporting any of the arms, ammunition or war implements listed in the presidential proclamation of May 1, 1937, when Mr. Roosevelt invoked the neutrality act to apply to both factions in the Spanish civil war. The President talked today with Dr. Fernando de los Rios, the Spanish envoy, but neither would say what was discussed.

[An exclusive dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from Geneva reported that settlement of American claims arising out of the Spanish civil war had been agreed upon between the Spanish and American governments and will be announced in Washington today. See page 8.]

Trade at Own Peril.

Other American vessels, over which he has no control, unless he should choose to proclaim a state of war between China and Japan, may take the consequences of attempting to ship arms to the belligerents, the President warned. If they are bombed or torpedoed by either side, they may not expect any action by the United States.

The official statement said that "the question of applying the neutrality act remains in status quo, the government policy remaining on a 24 hour basis."

The order was expected to halt at Manila the westward voyage of the freighter Wichita, en route to China with a cargo of airplanes. Asked about the Wichita at his press conference today, the President remarked that ship merely was, at the moment, proceeding from one American port to another.

Cabinet in Special Session.

His later announcement warned that the Wichita forsook American protection if it went on from Manila for the China coast.

The order was issued after Mr. Roosevelt had summoned his cabinet into a special session a few hours after he returned to Washington this morning. He also conferred at length with Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Kennedy advised the President to forbid the shipment of war materials in ships operated by or under the commission. Attempts to run the Japanese blockade of the Chinese coast almost certainly would involve this country in dangerous complications, the President was told.

No Protection from U. S.

The President acted on his own initiative in advising all other American flag vessels not to attempt to run the blockade and not to expect American protection if they came to harm doing so.

It was the second time the President has used the phrase "at their own risk" in the last nine days in connection with the Sino-Japanese feud. On Sept. 5 he applied it to the 8,000 Americans still in China, urging them to leave immediately.

MOVE TO FORCE RELIEF ROLLERS BACK INTO JOBS

Only Hope in Crisis, Conferees Agree.

There is only one way out of Chicago's relief crisis—employment in private industry.

There is only one thing to do about it—find some way to bring about that employment.

These were the conclusions on which fifty city and state leaders in business and public life acted yesterday at the Union League club as they grappled with an emergency in which the city faces a $1,000,000 shortage in relief funds for September and each of the other remaining months in 1937.

The meeting was called by State Treasurer John C. Martin, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Leo M. Lyons, IERC executive secretary and Chicago relief administrator. The group included Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board.

Resolve to Solve Problem.

The assemblage agreed to assume the responsibility for solving the relief problem. It instructed Chairman Martin to name a research committee to make a quick investigation and report back to the plenary group in two weeks with recommendations on ways to reunite employable relief clients and jobs.

Seriousness of the relief problem was underlined by figures given the conference by Chairman Martin.

"It is alarming and dismaying," he said, "that after five and one-half years, $448,000,000 has been spent in Illinois from state, federal, and local funds for direct relief, and since 1935 a total of $230,000,000 by the Works Progress administration, yet the Illinois relief problem is not diminishing. It is growing."

Only $235 in Poor Fund.

Explaining this latest crisis, Secretary Lyons pointed out that Chicago's estimated relief expenditures for 86,488 cases this month is $3,111,853. Of this the state supplies $2,108,460. But because only $235 remains in the poor relief fund raised by city taxes for 1937, a shortage of $1,003,158 exists.

Employment of 15,000 relief clients in private business would go far toward canceling the need for the absent $1,003,158, Mr. Lyons said.

Gov. Horner agreed that private employment is the only practical approach.

Three Possible Solutions.

"There are three ways to meet the problem," he said. "We can cut down the amount of relief by spreading thinner the amount we have. We can increase taxation, but I have heard no cheering for that. Or we can find places in private industry. Somewhere a way must be found to absorb some of those on relief rolls in industry, because about half those on relief in Chicago are employable."

There was sharp discussion as to why relief clients have not left the dole for jobs. It was touched off by Mayor Kelly.

"I wonder," he said, "whether the relief rolls could not be sifted so as to discover those folks who think they are better off on relief, and make them go to work."

Federal Policy Blamed.

This idea was carried along by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Community fund. "Support of families by the government prevents their return to industry," he said. "There is not sufficient incentive for them to leave the relief rolls."

B. C. Heacock of Peoria, president of the Illinois Manufacturers association, attacked the charge that industry will not employ older men.

"Employers hire men according to their ability, not their age," he said. "Manufacturers have done more than their share in reëmploying people and so has agriculture. The utilities and railroad industries have lagged because of government restrictions."

Doctors Move Stomach of Two Week Old Baby

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Northwestern hospital physicians today successfully operated on a two week old baby to move its stomach from well up in the right chest to its natural position below the left ribs. They said they considered the case unusual because of the age of the child and the great distance the stomach was found from its normal position.

Heiress' Death Is Charged to Anti-Fat Pills

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Mary Brown Warburton, Wanamaker heiress and prominent in New York society, died today in her Park avenue apartment, apparently a sacrifice to the fashionable vogue for the "pencil silhouette."

Her own physician, Dr. John H. Morrissey, believed she died of a heart attack following strenuous reducing efforts.

This explanation failed to satisfy police, however, and an autopsy will be performed tomorrow to decide whether a more sinister cause lay behind the heiress' sudden collapse in her bathroom.

Recall Hollywood Disasters.

It was recalled that cases of anemia and tuberculosis had followed a Hollywood reducing fad not long ago. Then the desires of women of many sizes, in that movie city, for slender figures had sacrificed both pounds and health.

Some capsules found in Miss Warburton's flat, 277 Park avenue, were believed by doctors to contain thyroid extract — a common panacea for obesity.

Although Miss Warburton—known as "Brown" to her friends—frequently visited health resorts to shave 20 or 25 pounds from her normal 200, friends refused to believe she "reduced" so drastically as to endanger her health.

Planned to Visit Springs.

Her father, Maj. Barclay Warburton, said she had her tickets bought for her customary autumn trek to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. There she always dropped poundage. He and Mrs. Warburton and their son, C. Edgerton Warburton, had returned from Europe Monday and dined with their daughter in her apartment.

"She looked badly," Maj. Warburton said. He was a former welfare director of Philadelphia. "She complained of a pain in her side," he added.

Her parents left her—and twelve hours later Dr. Morrissey pronounced her dead.

Former Collapse Recalled.

Miss Warburton was found by her maid lying unconscious on her bathroom floor. The maid called Dr. Morrissey, who sent for an emergency inhalator. Miss Warburton failed to respond after an hour and a half of treatment.

Police were not called until three hours later. Family funeral plans were balked today when officials took her body to Bellevue morgue.

A week ago Miss Warburton had collapsed on the street from vertigo.

A granddaughter of the late John Wanamaker and possessed of a lively, gay disposition, Miss Warburton was a favorite in New York's "party set." In 1927 she temporarily gave up society to promote a tea said to have fat reducing qualities.

Five years ago Betty Healy, wife of a screen comedian, sued her in a $250,000 alienation suit. The action was dropped, but Mrs. Healy sued for divorce.

MOBILIZE NORTH SIDE PATROL AFTER FIREBUG SETS TWO MORE BLAZES

Two more fires late yesterday, bringing to thirteen those set by a firebug in the Sheffield avenue district in the last three weeks, caused a mobilization last night of policemen, city fire investigators, and deputy state fire marshals on the north side.

The first of these two fires occurred at 4:21 p. m. in the rear of a laundry and meat market at 2833-37 Broadway. As firemen under Chief Alvin Brandt of the 13th battalion extinguished this blaze, they were summoned at 5:05 p. m. to another in the rear of a 55-apartment building around the corner at 540-48 Surf street. This fire drove 20 families from the three story building.

A witness who saw a man flee from the Surf street building before firemen arrived described the suspected firebug as having bushy strawberry-red hair. Another clew to the firebug came in an anonymous letter received yesterday morning by Chief Brandt. It warned him that "all the ramshacks" will burn in the next 4-11 or 5-11 fire.

"HEIL THE KING!" VIENNA FRIENDS GREET EDWARD

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Cries of "Heil the king! Heil Edward!" greeted the duke and duchess of Windsor tonight on their arrival from Hungary for an overnight stay. A crowd of 400 welcomed the former King Edward VIII. of England at the railway station. The duchess, wearing a dark blue traveling suit, carried a bouquet of roses given her by Budapest admirers.

Today Is Deadline for 3d Instalment of Income Tax

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, yesterday reminded taxpayers of this district that today is the deadline for payment of the third quarterly instalment of 1936 income taxes. Mr. Harrison's office will remain open until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, but returns postmarked before midnight will be accepted without penalties.

Predicts Cut in 1937 Tax Rate for City

Assessor John S. Clark asserted yesterday that hundreds of millions of dollars will be added to the assessed value of 1937 Cook county personal property rolls and predicted that the increase would be reflected in reduced tax rates in Chicago. The tax rate here reached an all time high of $9.52 per $100 of assessed valuation for 1936.

The increase in personalty assessments, Clark said, would come through higher valuations on factory machinery and the discovery in federal income tax returns of hitherto concealed assets.

Clerks Examine Returns.

Clark has a large staf of clerks examining income tax returns available to local tax assessors under a recent federal law. Clark's employes also are making studies of reports filed with the federal securities and exchange commission.

"The adding of these millions," said Clark, "will be a big break for all taxpayers except those of wealth who have successfully hidden their assets up to now."

Assessors in several north shore townships where many wealthy persons live are cautioning them to use care in the preparation of their sworn 1937 personal property schedules.

The assessors are advising well-to-do residents that they may find themselves in difficulty if there is too great a difference in values claimed in their personalty schedules compared with those on file in income tax returns which are open to Assessor Clark.

Changes Machine Assessments.

Clark said the six year old practice of debasing the value of factory machinery by 40 per cent before the 37 per cent equalization factor is applied will be discontinued. Machinery, which comprised more than one-third of the total $486,780,235 personal property assessed valuation in 1936, according to Clark, will be assessed at its full value. He said that machinery owned by corporations would be valued at the same figures as the corporation file in their schedule of assets in their income tax returns.

Clark issued a statement showing that the percentage of 1936 personalty taxes collected is the highest in many years. Ten days after the Aug. 31 penalty deadline 61.2 per cent of the 1936 personalty taxes was collected, compared with 50.78 per cent at a corresponding time after 1935 taxes fell due, and 40.76 per cent on 1934 taxes.

The reason for the improvement, according to Clark, is that assessments last year were more equitable. In 1936 more than 600,000 with personal assessment of less than $400 were dropped from the rolls.

Admits Rape and Torture of Choir Singer

An ex-convict, arrested on information given in a mysterious telephone call, confessed last night that he was responsible for one of the most vicious of the recent series of attacks on Chicago women. The victim is Miss Anna Brasy, 38 years old, a choir singer, who was raped and tortured last Nov. 21 in the bedroom of her home at 4752 Lincoln avenue.

The ex-convict is Robert Conroy, 24 years old, 3933 North Whipple street, father of two children. He is a thin, undersized man with bulging eyes and long sandy hair. At the time of the crime he was working as a vegetable peddler, and when he fled after the assault on Miss Brasy he left behind the knife he carried in his business.

Terrifies Victim with Knife.

He used the knife to terrify his victim before he gagged her, tied her with stockings, and raped and mutilated her. She was in a serious condition in the Ravenswood hospital for several weeks as a result of the attack.

Recently Miss Brasy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Brasy, received a telephone call from a woman who suggested that she tell police to watch the Whipple street address if they wanted to capture the rapist. The informant declined to tell her name.

Police watched Conroy's home, but failed to find him. The mysterious woman then phoned again, advising police to watch the end of the Milwaukee avenue street car line. Conroy was seized there last Sunday by Sergt. John Hanrahan and his squad, assisted by Sergts. Edward Dooley, James Zegar, and Donald Coakley.

Wishes to Spare Children.

Last night he told the story of the crime to Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle.

"I'll plead guilty," he said, "but I don't want to pose for a picture on account of my two little children."

Conroy said he had been drinking on the night of the attack and fell asleep on a Western avenue street car. The conductor woke him up, and he got off the car by chance near the Brasy home. As he walked up an alley, he said, he saw that a porch stairway led past the roof of a one story building. From the roof he saw he could climb through a second floor window—a window of the Brasy apartment.

Finds Woman Sleeping.

Inside the flat Conroy said he saw a woman sleeping. He awakened her, threatened her with his knife, and forced her to get out of bed and give him eleven $5 bills which she had hidden in a closet. Then, Conroy said, ignoring her cries for mercy, he raped and tortured her.

Next day, at his home, Conroy said he burned the lether jacket he wore during the attack and disposed of a Gladstone bag and several other articles he stole from the Brasy home. After reading a newspaper account of the crime he told his wife Concetta, 21 years old, he was in trouble and would have to leave town.

She looked at the newspaper account of the attack and asked him in horror: "Was that you?" Conroy

BUT PRESIDENT SAYS HE'LL HOLD OFF COMMENTS

'Wait Until Justice Comes Home.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Despite persistent reports in the capital today that President Roosevelt might request the resignation of Justice Hugo L. Black, whose life membership in the Ku Klux Klan has been exposed by newspaper articles, the President declared at his press conference that he could not discuss the matter pending Black's return from Europe.

The President made it clear, however, that he is not unmindful of the gravity of the Ku Klux Klan revelations by reading a prepared statement, which said:

"I know only what I have read in the newspapers. I note that the stories are appearing serially and their publication is not complete.

"Mr. Justice Black is in Europe, where undoubtedly he cannot get the full text of these articles.

"Until such time as he returns, there is no comment to be made."

Deferred Action Significant.

The fact that the President deferred comment "until such time" as Black returns from Europe tended to corroborate the reports emanating from sources close to the White House that he would demand a full explanation of the Ku Klux Klan revelations. These same reports went so far as to suggest that the President might ask Black to resign if it should transpire that he concealed information concerning his connection with the klan.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had not communicated with Black since the klan revelations began appearing serially in newspapers yesterday morning. Asked whether he had any information concerning Black's klan background prior to the Supreme court nomination on Aug. 12, the President's reply was a scarcely audible "No."

Asked what he might do if it should transpire that Black is a member of the klan, Mr. Roosevelt declined to answer, saying it was an "if" question.

President Seems Concerned.

The President appeared to be greatly concerned by the sensation which the klan disclosures have created. Nervously filling a glass with water from the carafe on his desk, the President gulped a drink and then told the unusually large aggregation of reporters that he knew why they were there. He said he would anticipate their questions and answer them immediately, in order to save time. He then proceeded to read the formal statement.

Earlier in the day both congress and the President were called upon by congressmen to conduct impartial investigations into the situation.

Representative Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] asked for a congressional inquiry into the former Alabama senator's reported membership in the secret hooded order. If such an investigation showed Black a klansman, he said, "congress should certainly take action."

The Minnesota congressman, who has served eleven consecutive terms in the house, was not daunted by statements of attorneys generally that the only way to remove Black from the high tribunal was to impeach him.

"I am not so sure the senate will not find a way to act," he said. He did not amplify the remark.

Demands President Act.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] called on President Roosevelt to set up an investigating agency to study new and sensational statements that Black, whose appointment to the Supreme court by the President caused a great furor, was and is now again a "klansman of the invisible empire."

The senior senator from Massachusetts declared at Clinton, Mass., that the Alabaman "owes it to the President, the senate, and the country to declare publicly whether he is a member of the klan."

Justice Black in Europe, has refused to comment on his alleged affiliation with the secret order. Although besieged by press representatives in Paris and London, he steadfastly declined to discuss the tempest raised here over status with the klan.

"The only practical thing that can be done to prevent Justice Black from serving on the United States Supreme court is through presidential action," said Senator Walsh.

"It is inconceivable that the President believes for one moment that Senator Black was a member of the Ku Klux Klan at the time of the appointment, or that he thought Black had any sympathy with the principles of that organization.

"The President could now, in view of the alleged new evidence that he is a klansman, which never was before him or the senate, ask some impartial agency to obtain all the facts. Then, if the President, through such an investigation, found Black to be a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he can ask for his resignation.

"The senate cannot act until January and then it can only investigate the facts, but could not remove him even if he was found to be a member of the klan.

Says It Is Up to Black.

"In any event, it seems to me that a public statement should be made by Black to relieve the President of embarrassment and the charge of selecting, unknowingly of course, a klansman for the Supreme court. He should indicate in unmistakable language his repudiation of the klan and its principles.

"It should be remembered that Black was given the large vote for confirmation he received in the senate, not so much for his own qualification or his own merit, but because Democrats had faith in the President, believed he was entitled to name one who possessed his own economic policies, and accordingly supported him."

Bridges Justifies His Stand.

United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire at Concord declared tonight that the charges relating to alleged membership of Associate Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black in the Ku Klux Klan justifies his fight in the Senate for public hearings prior to his confirmation.

"If such hearings had been held," Senator Bridges said, "hearings which were requested in fairness to Senator Black, the senate and the country, the issue which now arises would have been settled then and there.

"The reason that the administration opposed public hearings was that it did not dare to submit the nomination to such an inquiry because they were afraid of what might be brought out."

Moore Would Have Opposed.

Senator A. Harry Moore [D., N. J.] said in Jersey City today he would not have voted to confirm Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama as Supreme court justice if it had been proved that Black was a member of the Ku Klux Klan at the time of the vote.

If, however, Black had been shown to be a klan member who had resigned, Moore said he would still have voted to confirm him.

Moore said "Justice Black should be given the opportunity either to affirm or deny this charge. After all, it is a charge, and has not been proved yet.

"Senator Bankhead said on the floor of the senate that Black was not a member of the Ku Klux Klan. I took that at its face value. When a senator makes a statement on the floor of the senate, it's supposed to be the truth."

Storm of Demands.

From many quarters came demands for Black's resignation following the publication yesterday of a story distributed by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc., that he has held a life membership in the klan since 1926.

According to the widely circulated article, information on which it is based was taken from a klan stenographer's report of the meeting at which Black was awarded a gold life membership card. The transcript of the meeting was taken from the archives of the Birmingham, Ala., klan, it was said.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby of Alabama declared he had a photostatic copy of the card granting Black life membership in the klan. Kilby also said similar copies were used in Black's senatorial campaign in 1932.

Graves and Black.

The published charges said that Gov. Bibb Graves of Alabama clasped hands with Black at the historic meeting in Birmingham on Sept. 2, 1926, and both were given imperial passports of gold before a cheering audience of some 2,000 "exalted cyclops, kludds, kleagles, and kladds of the klan."

Graves at that time was governor-nominate and Black was senator-nominate, but the elections of both were mere formalities in that one party state. The meeting allegedly was one of mutual congratulation for the success of the klan-indorsed nominees.

Today, however, Gov. Graves said in Atlantic City that he could not recall ever meeting Black at any klan meetings or conferences.

"I never knew Black to be a member of the klan," Graves said, "and I never saw one of the life membership cards in the klan which Black and I were supposed to hold."

In Birmingham, Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.], Black's senate partner, also declared that the new justice's status with the klan was resurrected in the interest of Senator Copeland's mayoralty campaign.

"The matter was finally settled when Black was confirmed, took the oath, and received his commission," Senator Bankhead said. "If the senate can reopen consideration of Justice Black it also can reconsider its confirmation of Justices Butler, McReynolds, and Sutherland, the conservative members of the court of whom there has been so much criticism."

May Circulate Petitions.

While the Ku Klux Klan revelations continued to rock the nation's capital a nonpartisan and nonpolitical movement was under way to induce religious organizations throughout the country to circulate petitions demanding that President Roosevelt ask Black to resign.

This plan, conceived in Washington by nationally prominent figures who did not want their names divulged at this time, was being urged upon the New York headquarters of national church councils, federations, and conferences representing all denominations and all faiths, Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish.

It is the theory of the promoters of the petition plan that, once taken up by the churches throughout the country, it would immediately spread to citizens' organizations generally and that Mr. Roosevelt would be deluged with petitions bearing hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of names.

During the controversy over the President's project to pack the Supreme court petitions poured in upon congress from religious organizations of all creeds in opposition to the scheme. Senators received more than a million telegrams in all. One of them, Senator Hiram Johnson, filed with the judiciary committee petitions bearing 100,000 names of California citizens.

President Roosevelt would be placed in a difficult position if this plan should materialize and the churches of the country should unite in demanding that he request Black's resignation. If he refused to do so, he would be represented as condoning membership, even for a Supreme court justice, in a secret, terroristic society founded upon racial antipathies and religious intolerance.

Democrats in congress, notably Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York and Representative Eugene E. Cox of Georgia, called the Black appointment an outrage upon the Supreme court and an insult to the nation, while foes of the court pack bill generally said it illustrated the character of men the President would nominate if he had the right to name six.

Has Difficult Choice.

On the other hand, if the President did request Black's resignation, he would be represented as doing so under the pressure of public opinion and thereby acknowledging a mistake of transcendent import.

White House attachés today took the position announced yesterday by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, namely, that the department of justice did not investigate Black's qualifications and the administration consequently had no knowledge of his Ku Klux Klan membership.

They repeated the attorney general's statement that Black's "career of public service" and the fact that the people of Alabama twice elected him to the senate constituted ample evidence of his suitability.

It was universally known and conceded, however, that Black's first election to the senate was made possible by the support of the klan, which was so powerful in Alabama in 1926 that its indorsement was a prerequisite to election to any public office. Black's klan support was given national publicity at the time, and the Birmingham newspapers stated casually but unequivocally that he was a member of the hooded order.

Borah Believed Denials.

Some senators who opposed the motion to recommit the Supreme court nomination, for the purpose of investigating Black's Ku Klux status, privately denied the allegations. Foremost among such senators was Senator William E. Borah, veteran liberal Republican of Idaho, who vehemently denied that there was any evidence linking Black with the klan.

Some of these same senators now declare, privately, that the evidence of Black's lifetime membership in the klan is conclusive and bitterly deplore their mistake in assisting the railroading of the confirmation without an investigation. There is much speculation as to whether Black mentioned anything about his klan background to President Roosevelt.

If he did not do so, constitutional authorities declare, he would be subject to impeachment—assuming that such a proceeding could be politically feasible with the overwhelming Democratic majorities in congress—because of the incompatibility of the oath he took as a member of the Ku Klux Klan with the oath he took as a justice of the Supreme court.

Basis for Charges.

Whether or not this constituted perjury, in the opinion of constitutional experts, it would constitute conduct unbecoming a Supreme court justice, or misbehavior within the meaning of the constitution. It would amount to concealing facts which, in themselves, would render him unfit for the office, say the constitutional authorities.

The oath Black took as a kluxer closed with this passage:

"I swear that I will most zealously and valiantly shield and preserve by any and all justifiable means and methods . . . white supremacy. . . . All to which I have sworn to by this oath, I will seal with my blood, be Thou my witness, Almighty God. Amen."

This was an oath to support race supremacy, which is clearly incompatible with the judicial oath. The by-laws and regulations of the klan are said to refer specifically to the Jews and Catholics, and the religious bigotry of the organization is well known.

The solemn judicial oath Black will take when the Supreme court convenes on October 4, follows:

"I, Hugo Black," do solemnly swear [or affirm] that I will administer justice without respect to persons and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent upon me as associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States, according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the constitution and laws of the United States. So help me God."

OATH TAKEN BY KLANSMEN

SECTION 1.—OBEDIENCE.

(You will say) "I" —— (Pronounce your full name —— and repeat after me) "In the presence of God and Man —— most solemnly pledge, promise and swear —— unconditionally —— that I will faithfully obey —— the constitution and laws —— and will willingly conform to —— all regulations, usages and requirements —— of the * * * * —— which do now exist —— or which may be hereafter enacted —— and will render at all times —— loyal respect and steadfast support —— to the Imperial Authority of same —— and will heartily heed —— all official mandates —— decrees —— edicts —— rulings and instructions —— of the I* W* thereof. —— I will yield prompt response —— to all summonses —— I having knowledge of same —— Providence alone preventing.

In this section of the Ku Klux Klan oath allegiance the klansman pledges to obey the edicts and summonses of klan officers. In the fifth line from top, substitute "Ku Klux Klan" for the row of asterisks. In third line from bottom, I. W. stands for imperial wizard.

ENVOY CONFERS WITH BLACK ON ORDER FROM U. S.

Then Ex-Senator Takes to Hideout in Country.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The barrier of seclusion surrounding Hugo L. Black, former senator from Alabama and newly appointed to the United States Supreme court, was lifted temporarily when an American embassy official interviewed him, it was disclosed tonight.

The interview, according to what can be learned, took place presumably on instructions from Washington.

What passed between Black and the embassy envoy was not disclosed. The embassy, like the justice, maintained complete silence and inquirers were told there was no statement to make.

The former senator, though he was reported to have been at a hotel since Sunday, managed to keep his presence a secret for a day. He kept his hotel suite as inviolable as the most secret meeting place of the Ku Klux Klan, of which he is declared to be a member. Even when he ventured out for a brief walk with his wife and was caught by a photographer and reporter, he refused to confirm or deny or discuss the report that he is a life member of the klan.

Late today he left for a secret place in the country by auto.

Although Black has been in London two full days, British newspapers, with the exception of the News Chronicle, devoted little space to reports of his connection with the order.

The News Chronicle, however, splashed the story from its New York correspondent on the front page of its Wednesday edition under the heading: "Roosevelt faces new Supreme court crisis."

Evidence that Black is a life member of the klan has "landed the President into uncommonly hot water," according to the correspondent.

BLACK TURNED DOWN CATHOLICS FOR U. S. JOBS, K. C. HEAD SAYS

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Dr. A. L. Stabler, head of the Knights of Columbus in Alabama, charged today that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, when a senator, ignored Dr. Stabler's recommendations for appointment of Catholics to federal positions.

Dr. Stabler said he submitted several lists at Black's request, but he stopped sending in names when he found his recommendations ignored.

Justice Black, he said, was a political opportunist, seeking support from the Klan when it was strong and disowning it when it began to decline. His support of Smith against Hoover in 1928 was not vigorous, Dr. Stabler said, and he did not fight the Klan strongly even in 1930, when he supported Senator Bankhead.

CHICAGOANS CALL BLACK UNFIT FOR SUPREME COURT

Klan Affiliation Viewed as Bar to Impartiality.

Lawyers and laymen, business and professional men continued yesterday to comment unfavorably on the appointment of Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama to the United States Supreme court.

The consensus was that Black's alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan was a disqualification for membership in the court of last resort in this country. A number of lawyers said that as a matter of ethics they believed Senator Black should have made a frank statement on klan connection when his name was submitted to the senate for confirmation.

The comment of a number of citizens regarding Justice Black is as follows:

Peter B. Carey, former president Chicago Board of Trade—"I don't think any one who belongs to the K. K. K. or any similar organization should be permitted to be on the Supreme court."

Judge Eugene L. McGarry—"Any man who proved to be a member of an organization such as the K. K. K. could not be fair minded in a position as judge of the Supreme court and could not apply even-handed justice."

Benedict J. Short, attorney—"I am very much opposed to Justice Black as a member of the Supreme court. I don't think he has the right kind of experience and I don't like his membership in the K. K. K., carrying with it religious and racial prejudice. I don't think he should have anything to do with administering American justice."

John T. Dempsey, attorney—"The fact of Justice Black's membership in the klan apparently was and is proved. Such prejudices as membership in that kind of an organization would indicate precludes his being a fair and impartial judge."

Charles W. Hadley, attorney and former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission—"The appointment of Justice Black was a bad one in many ways. It is difficult to believe that a man with his record and association could possibly administer or give fair and impartial justice to all."

John E. Northrup, attorney and former prosecutor—"I think it is amazing and incomprehensible that President Roosevelt did not examine Justice Black's klan affiliation in view of the reports at the time."

H. B. Grommon, president of the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association—"I am opposed to the appointment of Senator Black because I feel that he does not have the unprejudiced judicial mind that would qualify him to pass on important questions before him."

Harry A. Ash, former assistant attorney general—"How could Hugo L. Black make a fair minded justice if he has taken an oath in an organization opposed to a large portion of the American citizenship? His appointment was political."

The Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, president of De Paul university—"For the position of justice of the Supreme court is required a broadness of view as to the fundamental rights guaranteed by the constitution. This view is not consonant with membership in the Ku Klux Klan. If Senator Black is proven to be a member of the klan, I think a sad mistake has been made."

Leo A. Ryan, River Forest—"The whole manner in which the appointment of Senator Black was handled is shameful. Even a casual investigation would have disclosed his unfitness for the office. It was rushed through as a purely political measure. He is even an imitation as a lawyer. If the senate had had the opportunity to elect one of its members, Black would have been the very last man chosen."

Judge Kickham Scanlan, of the Illinois Appellate court—"Any American who loves liberty and equality objects to a man attached to the Ku Klux Klan sitting on the Supreme court bench."

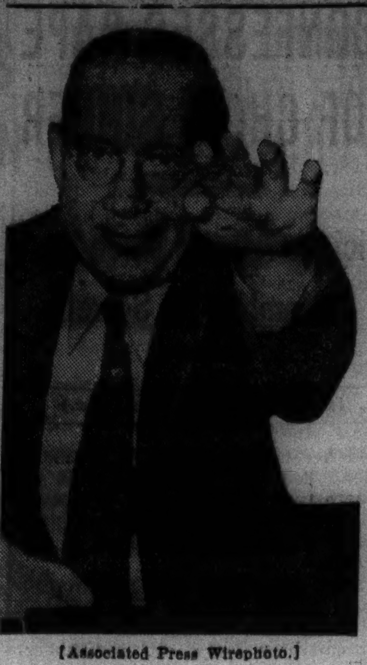
Frances J. Naphin, attorney, former president of the Chicago chapter of the National Catholic Alumni—"I have always been a Democrat but I consider the appointment of Senator Black a bad one, because it impairs the prestige of the court. Any decision he makes touching on religion or the civil liberties will have a shadow cast over it."

The Rev. Joseph Eckert, 6045 South Michigan avenue—"I think the appointment of Senator Black a very unfortunate one. His Ku Klux Klan affiliation should have been investigated before this. If he was actively engaged, and showed bigotry and antagonism against racial groups, he probably will do the same on the Supreme court bench."

Judge E. I. Frankhouser of the Superior court—"Any man who would curtail or hinder another from worshiping his God according to the dictates of his own conscience couldn't be a fair judge when these other persons came before him asking justice."

Dr. Raleigh W. Stone, associate professor of industrial relations, University of Chicago—"If Senator Black is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he is obviously unfit for the Supreme court. If he at any time was a member he would still be unfit unless there was a profound change in his character and opinions. If either proposition be true he should resign from the Supreme court."

Klan Salute



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Ku Klux Klan salute given by Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans in Atlanta, Ga., as he declared Justice Black "is not now a klansman."

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, who declared last night that Hugo L. Black was not now a member of the klan, declared at his office here today that there was no such thing as a "life-membership" card in that organization.

The former dentist who heads the klan said he had no knowledge of any past membership on the part of Black. He "could not recall" attending or addressing a klan meeting at Birmingham, Ala., on Sept. 2, 1926, in celebration of Black's victory as a klan-supported candidate in the Democratic primary for senator.

At that meeting, according to published accusations, Mr. Black and Bibb Graves, the present governor of Alabama, accepted gold "grand passports" or life membership cards, and Imperial Wizard Evans boasted of the success of the klan in getting "possession of the machinery of government over a great deal of American territory."

"We do not make our membership lists public," said Dr. Evans, "but I can say that Justice Black is not a member of the klan."

"Was he ever a member of the klan?"

"I cannot recall that he was," the imperial wizard replied.

BROTHER OF DEAD CONGRESSMAN IS PRIMARY WINNER

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—Drawing the lines for a sharp Democratic-Republican election clash two weeks hence, Lawrence Connery, Democrat, and state Representative Edward D. Sirois, Republican tonight won primary contests for the seat of the late United States Representative William P. Connery, Democrat. Connery is a brother of the late Representative.

With the balloting completed in the 125 precincts of the seventh Massachusetts congressional district counted, Connery led his nearest opponent by 17,693 votes. On the same basi Sirois led by 1,542. The Democrats polled 21,600 votes and the Republicans, 15,500. The election will be on Sept. 23.

PRESS DEMANDS BLACK CHARGES BE INVESTIGATED

Leading Papers Call for Action.

Here are editorial comments by representative newspapers on the charges that Justice Hugo Black is a member of the Ku Klux Klan:

BIRMINGHAM [ALA.] POST—Mr. Black no doubt has regretted many times that he ever heard of the Klan. . . . Identification with such an organization is something which most men admit with the greatest reluctance. But in 1925 in Alabama, shameful though it was, it was . . . expedient for an office seeker to have the Klan's support. . . . We have never seen any direct evidence that Mr. Black was a member of the Klan, but it has always been generally accepted that he did have the Klan's support when he was elected to the United States senate. . . . The Klan scarecrow has been worked to death in Alabama and the issue itself is dead.

BUFFALO COURIER-EXPRESS—The allegations certainly call for complete and convincing explanations. To put it mildly, it is unpleasant to feel that the same sort of vicious intolerance characteristic of the Klan may now find expression from the high court of the United States.

CLEVELAND NEWS—If Mr. Justice Black was an honest member of the Klan in 1925, he has prejudices which belong anywhere but on the highest court of the land. If he just "went along" as a politician who decided that success was better than moral conviction, then Mr. Roosevelt picked for our supreme bench the outstanding hypocrite in public life.

LOS ANGELES TIMES— . . . If Black, as asserted, was and still is so closely connected with this un-American and Fascist organization as to be one of the half dozen "life members" he is morally disqualified for the bench and should resign immediately. . . . It is too much to expect that Black will resign voluntarily, but the pressure of public opinion may force him off.

NEW YORK TIMES—Unless Mr. Justice Black can avail himself of the opportunity, thus far refused, of disclaiming his association with the Ku Klux Klan, his appointment by the President will indeed cause a loss of prestige by the court and do far more to widen a chasm between court and people than all that has gone before.

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE—The first issue is not one of the Klan at all but of the appointee's personal integrity. And it is an issue, moreover, which reaches farther than Mr. Justice Black. Did the President know whether Mr. Black was a Klan member or not? . . . A statement is called for from the President almost as urgently as from his appointee.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE—If Justice Black has any answer to these charges he should make it immediately and for once he should make it frankly, telling the whole truth. If not, he should relieve the President from embarrassment, the court from disgrace, the nation from calamity, and himself from the scorn of men by resigning his office.

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT—It is unthinkable that a man who held membership in that organization [the Klan] . . . should be permitted to take his seat on the bench of the United States Supreme court. It is apparently assumed by many that nothing can be done about it. . . . But surely this isn't true. The President can and in all conscience should demand his immediate resignation.

BLACK AGAIN IS STORM CENTER OF CAMPAIGN IN N. Y.

Revival of Klan Stirs Up Opponents' Oratory.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Developments came thick and fast today as the New York primary campaign became a crescendo of bitter recrimination, blistering charges and counter charges, with the injection of national issue expected to have a profound effect on elections to follow.

Principal of these was the aftermath of the publication of documented charges that former Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama, recently appointed to the United States Supreme court, had been and still is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

First brought into the mayoralty campaign by Senator Royal S. Copeland, Tammany supported candidate on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, the klan-Black issue became the center of high powered political pyrotechnics from two of three candidates—Copeland and Jeremiah T. Mahoney, the senator's Roosevelt sponsored rival on the Democratic ticket.

Sticks to National Issues.

Clinging to his campaign on national issues, Copeland wordily continued to justify his opposition to President Roosevelt's court reform plan by emphasizing the disclosure about Senator Black's alleged klan affiliations, while Mahoney attacked Copeland bitterly for attempting what he charged is a desperate bid to attract racial and religious support.

An offshoot of the verbal duel between Copeland and Mahoney was the unexpected "revival" of the Ku Klux Klan itself. Even as Mahoney deplored any mention of the klan, and while Senator Copeland denied charges that he himself once had enjoyed its support, there came a statement from a self-styled klan grand dragon that the organization will keep a hooded eye on "this un-American city" to learn how to combat "foreign elements," using it as a proving ground for tactics in the national campaigns of 1938 and 1940.

At Copeland Headquarters.

The announcement was made by J. L. Baskin, who says he is grand dragon for Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. His presence in New York was revealed at Copeland headquarters. He disclaimed any interest in Senator Copeland's campaign, asserting he is here only to address "a few meetings" in the metropolitan area, where he estimated there are 60,000 to 70,000 members.

Senator Copeland again discussed the klan issue and Black appointment in an address early in the day before a large audience of women. He restated his previous demand that Justice Black resign from the Supreme court, and pointedly denied the charge made by Mahoney, a former Supreme court justice, that the senator had been supported by the klan in 1928, in 1932 and in other years.

Disclaims "Un-American Votes."

"If the klan ever supported me," Senator Copeland said, "they did it without any invitation from me. I don't want their votes. I don't want the votes of Nazis, klansmen, or any other individuals representing such un-American institutions."

Senator Copeland dropped the subject long enough to warn his Republican audience that any support lent Mayor F. H. La Guardia would mean help only in building up La Guardia as a leader in a radical third party to run with John L. Lewis in the 1940 presidential campaign.

"Mayor La Guardia has the support of the C. I. O. and all the radicals," the senator asserted, "and I warn you votes for La Guardia mean the creation of a political Frankenstein which in the end will destroy you."

Mahoney topped off his attack on Copeland by calling him the "straw man of Kluxism." Senator Copeland answered in kind, and more fireworks on the klan topic is expected tomorrow night on the eve of the primary, when former Gov. Al Smith makes his second address in behalf of Senator Copeland, whose selection by Tammany is largely credited to Smith.

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Was Jacqueline Jean Gaston or her 2 year old twin sister, Joyce, killed Monday in a train-auto crash which killed the children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gaston of Burlington, one of their daughters and the family maid? Only the surviving twin in the hospital here can tell, and thus far she has been in no condition to speak her name. Relatives are divided and it was said only the parents could tell the two apart.

SON-IN-LAW AND ONLOOKER SHOT IN FAMILY FIGHT

Luke De Legge, 31 years old, an ex-convict, was wounded in his right forearm last night in a pistol duel with his father-in-law, Michael Fedanzo, 48, of 723 North Drake avenue. The shooting occurred at the De Legge home, 1110 South Whipple street, where, police said, Fedanzo had gone to rebuke his son-in-law for mistreating his wife.

One of the six shots fired by the two men grazed the forehead of Frances Fosco, 15 years old, as she looked out of a stairway window on her way to her home on the second floor. Fedanzo fled after the exchange of shots, but later surrendered to the police. De Legge and the girl were treated at the Mount Sinai hospital and De Legge then was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Police said he served a term in Pontiac reformatory for robbery.

HER SECRETARY JOB HER PATH TO HER MILLION

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 14.—(AP)—In 1890 a young woman visiting Rochester got a job as secretary to George Eastman, president of the Eastman Kodak company, and began a career that resulted in her leaving an estate appraised today at $1,265,888.

That fortune was amassed by Miss Alice K. Whitney Hutchison, who served the kodak president as private secretary for 42 years until his death in 1932. She was the first woman officer of the company holding the position of assistant secretary when she retired in 1934.

She died last April leaving a one page will in which she bequeathed her entire estate to her husband, Charles F. Hutchison.

Murder Mystery in the Bag! Gang Victim a Straw Man

Two breathless telephone callers and one excited motorist informed Gresham police last night that they had seen the body of a man tossed from a rapidly moving car at Vincennes avenue and Halsted street. They suspected a murder. Desk Sergt. William Smith sent Policemen Thomas Kane and Gerald Buckley to investigate. They found the supposed body. It was a burlap bag stuffed with straw and clad in a sweater, a pair of trousers, a hat, and cotton gloves.

UNCLE SAM'S TAX BARGAIN SHOWN BY PRIVATE LEVY

Offers a Twelfth Normal Rate on Home Projects.

The extent of the government's advantage over private owners of flat buildings in Chicago if the three Public Works administration housing projects representing a 13 million dollar investment are charged only $39,731 annually for city service in lieu of taxes was disclosed yesterday by the record of tax payments on comparable properties.

One such privately owned property is the Marshall Field Garden apartments at 411 Blackhawk street. The full value of this property for 1936 taxing purposes was placed at $1,857,696. Yet the owners must pay a tax bill amounting to $67,271. This is 41 per cent more than the payment to be made by the PWA projects, although the investment for the latter is $13,847,211.

Claim Tax Exemption.

The reason for this situation is that PWA officials have announced their housing projects on the south, west, and north sides of the city are tax exempt because they are owned by the federal government. They agreed, however, to pay the city the $39,731 for civic services, and the city council on Monday recommended that it be accepted.

That the government's civic service payment of $39,731 is indeed a tax bargain also is proved by a comparison of the values involved in the PWA projects with those of a comparable though smaller housing project at 47th street and Michigan avenue. This is the Michigan Garden apartments, constructed and operated by the Julius Rosenwald estate.

Cost 1-12th; Taxes More.

The full value of this property for 1936 taxing purposes was placed at $1,229,481, including land and buildings. A tax bill of $43,307 was levied by the county treasurer. The total investment here amounts to 8.87 per cent of the federal projects, yet the taxes paid are $3,576 more than the $39,731 offered by the PWA for city service.

Tax records show that if the federal housing projects were owned privately the assessor would compute their assessed valuation by taking 37½ per cent of their full value of $13,847,211. That would be $5,192,704. The rate for city townships is $9.52 for each $100 of assessed valuation. Thus the tax bill would be $494,355.

The difference between this sum and the $39,731 offered the city is $454,624, which represents the amount of taxes the state, city, county, and other municipalities will lose by accepting the PWA offer.

The three government housing projects are the Jane Addams house and addition at Gilpin place, Sibley, Lytle and Taylor streets; the Trumbull park project at Cottage Grove avenue and 38th street, and the Julia Lathrop Homes at Diversey Parkway and the river.

TOMMY MANVILLE MAKES A DEAL FOR DIVORCE: 'NEVER AGAIN'

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Tempestuous Tommy Manville, the asbestos heir who has devoted considerable time, money and thought to becoming a bachelor again, wrote a series of checks today and sat back to await results.

The checks, eleven in number and representing a total of $200,000, more or less, of the Manville asbestos funds, were written in pursuance to a "gentlemen's agreement" with attorneys for his [fourth] wife, the beauteous Marcelle Edwards.

The general idea is for Marcelle to repair forthwith to Reno, obtain a divorce, and then collect the eleven Manville checks. The "gentlemen's agreement" was worked out at a conference between Frank B. Devlin, Tommy's new attorney, and the two lawyers looking after Mrs. Manville's interests.

Manville gave all credit to his friend, Dr. William H. Bishop, who sat in on the conference, and to his new lawyer, Devlin. Beyond that his only announcement was that he never, never would marry again.

"It has cost me too much, he said.

told her he was guilty. The family then fled to Washington, D. C., where they lived for several months with Mrs. Conroy's parents. Conroy found employment there as a tile setter.

Soon after they returned to Chicago several months ago, Conroy's wife left him, taking their children, Rosemary, 3 years old, and Robert Jr., 2. Mrs. Conroy told police her husband often beat her.

Learn of Family Trouble.

Police also learned that the confessed rapist was on unfriendly terms with his brother, James, and his brother's wife, Frances. In 1930 James and Frances were sentenced to federal prison for forging money orders, and a year later Robert was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for nine months on a similar charge. In 1935 he served a year in the Bridewell for malicious michief.

After his confession last night Conroy was taken to the state's attorney's office, where Miss Brasy positively identified him as the man who had assaulted her. Later he was taken to her home, where he reënacted the crime.

Chief Sullivan said Conroy would be questioned about numerous other attacks on women in the last year, including those in downtown hotels and hospitals. The chief expressed doubt, however, that the prisoner was guilty of any of these.

SUSPECT IS SEIZED

John T. Cobb, 29 years old, colored, was arrested last night and identified by Mrs. Nellie Sanchez, 30 years old, as the moron who beat and choked her and robbed her of $15 last May 21 in her apartment at 812 East 51st street. Mrs. Sanchez said the same man followed her home four times after the attack.

Last night she pointed him out to Policeman George Harding, who was on duty at 51st street and Cottage Grove avenue as he followed her for the fourth time. Police pointed out that the attack on Mrs. Sanchez occurred about two blocks from the Chicago hospital, 811 East 49th street, where Miss Anne Kuchta, 18 years old, a student nurse, was beaten to death and raped last Aug. 21. Cobb was to be questioned about that and other recent attacks on women.

EXPECT COUNTY AGE PENSIONS TO BE PAID BY END OF THIS WEEK

With the first of the old age pension checks for August received here yesterday, Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, said all 34,908 pensioners in the county may expect their checks by the end of this week. The checks average $20.83 each. In April 36,984 persons received old age checks in Cook county. Moss said the decrease was due to deaths and removals and the fact that no new names have been added to the list since March. "There are 8,731 Cook county pension applications which have not been acted on in Springfield," Moss said.

OUT OF NIGHT'S TRAFIC RUMBLES A POLITE DRIVER

Freight Truck Chauffeur Wins $5 Prize.

BY HAL FOUST.

W. A. Constant.

A few hours after the sun has set, an army of trucks appears on the main highways radiating from Chicago. Until well after midnight the main movement of the vans is outbound from the city on overnight delivery service from factories and warehouses.

Shortly after midnight the incoming commercial stream swells in volume and continues until sunrise. This movement includes live stock and farm produce for the big Chicago market.

Mingling with the trucks are passenger cars, interstate tourists, traveling salesmen, and motorists returning from social engagements. There are many accidents.

It is this night trafic that is responsible for the increase in the motor toll in the last few years. Local experience verifies the national trend for which these statistics are available:

In 1930 there were approximately 15,000 fatal automobile accidents in darkness and 17,000 deaths in daylight. In 1936, night deaths had increased to 22,000 while daylight fatalities dropped to a few more than 15,000.

Three Drivers Arrested.

THE TRIBUNE roadster at daybreak yesterday ended a dawn to dusk survey of this night trafic in search of an appropriate recipient for the newspaper's daily award of $5 to a polite driver. A courteous driver of a cargo carrier was singled out for the prize, while three other truck chauffeurs were being arrested by state police for driving faults.

U. S. 66 between Joliet and Wilmington, where there have been ten deaths since Jan. 1 on the 17 miles of two lane slab, was selected for the survey. With State Highway Policemen Joseph Videticn and Clarence White, this stretch of road was cruised from 8 o'clock until midnight. It was soon evident that the vast majority of the vans were in competent hands and that the annoyance and danger they cause to passenger travel were due more to the nature of the vehicles than to the conduct of their chauffeurs.

One of these vans was followed for three or four miles at about 30 miles an hour. Its headlamps were consistently dimmed well in advance of requirements for oncoming trafic. Its right wheels followed a steady course on the outer edge of the slab. When overtaken, its red clearance lamps were flickered as a signal that it was safe to pass.

1,400,000 Miles on Record.

Its driver, W. A. Constant, 57 years old, of Plymouth, Ind., was awarded THE TRIBUNE'S $5 courtesy prize. He said he has been operating a truck continuously since 1917, that he has covered approximately 1,400,000 miles with one arrest and one accident.

At 3 a. m., just north of Wilmington, Policemen Forrest Gray and William Glenney halted a truck that was being driven astride the center line. The driver, Otto Milke of Seymour, Wis., paid a fine and costs of $5 to Justice of the Peace R. M. Bennett.

Fatigue Causes Bad Driving.

At 3:45 a. m. the state patrolmen overtook a truck loaded with live stock five miles north of Wilmington. It was wandering onto the dirt shoulder and across the center line of the slab. Its fatigued driver, Carl Dochterman of Luray, Mo., was given a court summons.

At 4:45 a. m., north of Joliet, Mose Hiley, colored, 1217 Peoria street, was given a ticket because his coal truck was hogging both the northbound trafic lanes, forcing passing cars to cross the center line of the 40 foot slab.

BROKER DROWNS AS CAR PLUNGES INTO A LAGOON

Auto Crashes Over Wall; Companion Escapes.

A freak trafic accident early yesterday caused the death of Tobias F. Peterson, 141 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, a real estate broker, and former manager of several loop buildings. He drowned when his automobile plunged over a retaining wall into a five foot lagoon in Fox River Grove, near Cary.

The accident occurred while Peterson and Mrs. Bernard J. Maloy were driving to the Fox River Grove railroad station to meet Mr. Maloy, an official of the North Western railroad. A thick fog caused Peterson to lose his way, and the car plunged over a wall at a dead-end street.

Peterson was pinned beneath the car on the lagoon bottom. Mrs. Maloy broke from the car and waded to safety.

Launch Quiz in Death of 3.

Morton Grove county highway police yesterday began an investigation into the accident which took three lives when a fast train struck an automobile at the Dempster street crossing near Ferris avenue, Morton Grove.

The accident occurred at 7 a. m. yesterday, but it was several hours before the motorists were identified. They were Michael Heiberger, 637 Willow street, the driver; George Racine, 4911 Louise avenue, Niles Center, and Stefan Trendler, 4133 North Central Park avenue. The train was a southbound Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific flyer.

Trees Obscure Vision.

Heiberger had stopped for a northbound train, but apparently failed to see the second train on the other tracks. He started his car immediately after the first train passed and drove into the path of the flyer. A wigwag signal and warning lights at the crossing were operating, but trees obscured vision north of the crossing.

The party was on the way to Genoa City, Wis., where Heiberger owns a 400-acre farm.

Henry Walner, 70 years old, a laborer at the Olympia Fields Country club, was killed early today when he was thrown from an automobile which overturned in a field after the driver failed to make a turn at 127th and State street, where State street ends. The driver, Thomas O'Neil, also an employé of the country club, was treated at Roseland Community hospital.

Frank Zubrysky, 5 years old, 1539 West 46th street, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile in 46th street near his home. He died early today in Evangelical hospital. The driver, Robert Wytasek, 24 years old, 3657 South Marshfield avenue, was charged with reckless driving.

William Ferguson, 79 years old, 11043 Drake avenue, a retired painter, died in Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries incurred Sept. 10 when he walked against the side of a moving automobile at 111th street and Drake avenue.

Mrs. Christina Vanderwall, 11335 Drake avenue, the driver, was not held.

John De Lap, 33 years old, 415 South 18th avenue, Maywood, died early today in the Westlake hospital from injuries suffered last Saturday in an automobile collision at Wolf road and Lake street, west of Melrose Park. Raymond F. Gieske, 33 years old, 308 South Cook street, Barrington, was killed and two other persons seriously injured in the crash.

Report Car Death Indictment.

The Kane county grand jury at Geneva is reported to have returned an indictment charging John Bauler, 814 Front street, Aurora, with manslaughter, reckless driving, and driving while intoxicated as a result of an automobile accident in Aurora a week ago yesterday, in which Mrs. Nancy Bosworth, 63, of 5020 Concord place, Chicago, was killed. Bauler is accused of failing to stop his car at the entrance to a state highway.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 734 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 565 were killed in Chicago, where 15,911 were injured in the same period.

[See editorial page for the massacre clock.]

SUIT TO OBTAIN LAND FOR LARGER AIRPORT MAY BE FILED SOON

Mayor Kelly yesterday reiterated his belief that the Chicago airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue will be enlarged in time to accommodate the 40 passenger four engined airliners expected to be placed in operation by certain of the airlines in the autumn of 1938.

He said condemnation proceedings probably will be instituted soon by the city to obtain title to land upon which the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks are to be relocated. The transfer of these tracks, which now bisect a square mile of land available for airport purposes, will enable the present 320 acre field to be expanded to 640 acres.

An ordinance accepting the terms agreed upon by appraisers for the city, for the railroad, and for a New York bank which is the trustee for the railroad's mortgage bonds, may be introduced at the next council meeting on Sept. 22, the mayor added.

Shut Drive Link Tomorrow for Work on an Underpass

Pavement connecting Stockton drive with Lake Shore drive at North avenue will be closed for a week starting tomorrow for construction on a pedestrian underpass. The west roadway of Lake Shore drive will remain closed at North avenue and also at Division street where a second pedestrian underpass is under construction. North and south express trafic will continue to use the two east roadways in Lake Shore drive between Oak street and North avenue.

All Policemen Take Hand in Forcing Safety Lane Tests

At the request of Edward J. Gorman, deputy vehicle license commissioner, Police Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday ordered all city policemen to give summonses to those motorists whose automobiles have not passed the safety testing lanes. Previously only the accident prevention squads issued tickets. All cars, according to the order, must bear a safety sticker issued between April 1 and Sept. 30.

CHINESE MACHINE GUNS MOW DOWN JAP INVADERS

Defend Shanghai Line; U. S. Marines on Guard.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Vicious machine gun fire from concrete nests all the way from Shanghai northwest to the Yangtze estuary today mowed down rows of Japanese attacking in an effort to crack the new Chinese defense line. The battle surged around the northern border of the international settlement along Soochow creek, where the Chinese right flank rests. American marines sprang to the settlement barricades to guard the thousands of Americans and other foreigners.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japanese forces massed guns and men today for a supreme assault on Chinese entrenched to pit "our flesh and blood and valor" against Nippon's military might.

Japan moved tanks and artillery across flooded rice fields to back up waves of infantry that swept after Chinese forces retreating to new defense positions prepared some four miles behind their old stand.

The new line stretched from Shanghai's North station 30 miles northwest to the banks of the mighty Yangtze. Behind the new Chinese positions were other defense lines protecting against possible assaults toward Nanking, the nation's capital.

Casualties Total 45,000.

Chinese, who admitted they lost 35,000 dead and wounded in four weeks of Shanghai warfare, declared they were determined to prevent Japanese invaders from capturing Nanking. Japanese casualties totaled 10,000.

"If they took Nanking," a Chinese spokesman said, "Japan would ring China with a cordon of steel."

This morning Japanese land batteries poured shell after shell into the Chinese defense positions.

Chinese and Japanese fought doggedly for territory west of Kiangwan, where Japanese occupied the Chinese civic center yesterday.

Defeat Japanese Warships.

Chinese planes and guns defeated a Japanese war squadron in a major naval engagement far to the south, at the entrance to the Canton river.

Four Japanese destroyers and one cruiser had attacked the Bocca Tigris forts protecting the river entrance and the route to Canton, China's southern metropolis.

Chinese troops harried Japanese advancing southward from Tientsin in Japanese conquered North Hopei province. They blew up and derailed a Japanese military train. Roads to the south were bogged by rain, holding up the Japanese advance.

There were conflicting reports of engagements in the Mongolian province of Chahar, north of China's Great Wall. Chinese claimed they had recaptured Kalgan, most important city in the province. They denied Japanese claims to the capture of Tatung, strategic Shansi province rail point in North China.

Cholera spread in refugee-packed Shanghai. Medical authorities listed a total of 561 cases and 83 deaths since the epidemic began. One American was stricken by the disease. He was H. A. Ferguson of Buffalo, N. Y., reported to be in a serious condition.

Japs Attack on 9-Mile Front.

PEIPING, Sept. 15 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A long heralded Japanese cavalry assault against Chinese troops in North China began at dawn today, opening what appeared to be the most bitter battle of the undeclared war between China and Japan.

Twenty thousand Japanese horsemen thundered across five steel pontoon bridges over the Yungting river, 15 miles south of Peiping, to launch the attack. While the cavalry advanced, aerial and artillery bombardment was directed against Chinese headquarters at Kuan.

The cavalry drove back the Chinese along a nine mile front, splashing across flooded fields, and Kuan was captured before noon, the Japanese said.

The cavalry drive later turned toward an estimated 200,000 Chinese concentrated along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

SOVIET ORDER TO SHUT CONSULATES ANGERS JAPANESE

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Japan's foreign office announced in angry language today that "Moscow has dared to notify the Tokio government" that it must take its consuls away from Odessa, Ukrainian seaport, and Novosibirsk, a trans-Siberian railway point.

This, said the communique, was in spite of the terms of an agreement of 1925, under which each power was permitted nine consulates in the other's country. Russia, however, since has closed two consulates in Japan and "has decided it will not recognize business" conducted at the Japanese Odessa and Novosibirsk consulates after tomorrow.

Japan thereupon is closing the consulates, the announcement said, but "declares its reservation of rights."

Russia Offers Two Reasons.

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Soviet officials offered two reasons today for Russian orders closing Japanese consulates tomorrow at Odessa and Novosibirsk. They said Japan had eight consulates in Russia to the soviet union's six in Japan and, moreover, there are no Japanese residents in Odessa and Novosibirsk.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS LANDED TO HELP GUARD SHANGHAI

First Troops Sent In Since Boxer Rebellion.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—Premier Mussolini made an emphatic Fascist gesture in the far east today. Col. Enrico Andreini, commander of the Savoy grenadiers, announced Italy intended to station troops in China permanently.

The grenadiers—750 men and 25 officers—came here directly from Ethiopia, where they served throughout the entire Italian campaign and conquest.

Lodged in Japanese School.

The troops, after landing, proceeded to billets in a Japanese school and cotton mills. Following a parade and flag raising ceremony the Italians will occupy a sector of the barricades of the international settlement previously protected by Britons. They will be sandwiched between British and American troops. Their arrival increased Shanghai's foreign defense forces to 10,000 men.

This is the first time since the Boxer uprising in 1900 that Italy has sent forces to China. Their present strength is 1,100 men, including 300 marines. Sixty marines are stationed at Tientsin to guard the Italian concession in that city.

The crack Italian cruiser Raimondo Montecuccoli, which convoyed the liner carrying the grenadiers to China, was scheduled to anchor in battleship row tomorrow.

TOKIO FEARS AIR RAID

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—With Japan in the midst of a conflict with China in which aircraft is playing an important rôle and with danger growing daily that the powerful soviet Russian air force will be drawn into the warfare, the greatest anti-air-raid maneuvers ever staged anywhere were begun this morning in the district of which Tokio is the center.

For five days and nights every variety of anti-aircraft tests will be conducted, including the protection of the area from poison gas attack from the air. Every home in Tokio was ordered to paste up one room so gas cannot seep in. Tokio will be attacked by a formidable "enemy" squadron several times by day and night.

Five Engines Called Out.

As sirens proclaimed the opening of the maneuvers, gas masked reservists spread inflammable powder at busy street corners, fire engines were called out, and nurses carried persons simulating injuries from bombardments to hospitals.

At night lights will be extinguished several times. Inspectors will call at each house to see that regulations, including the stationing of water buckets at convenient places, are obeyed. The police announced a $5 fine will be imposed on persons who turn on lights during the "lights out" periods.

And advertisers, through their color pages in The American Weekly, send their sales messages forth into 6,000,000 homes located in the rich key markets at the rock-bottom cost of approximately ⅓c per home.

BRITAIN, FRANCE DEFY DUCE; BEGIN 'PIRATE' PATROL

Warships to Track Down "Fantom" Subs.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—Despite Italy's rejection of the arrangement signed at Nyon, Switzerland, today, to suppress piracy in the Mediterranean, sixty French and British warships will take up patrol positions at daylight tomorrow to enforce international law in the sea which Premier Mussolini calls "mare nostrum" [our sea].

This was reaffirmed by French and British spokesmen tonight following messages from Rome that the Italian government flatly turned down the invitations to participate in the arrangement.

Not only will the French and British fleets protect neutral ships from piratical attacks by submarines, as an outgrowth of the Spanish civil war, but the Nyon conference shortly will be reconvened to draft similar protective measures against airplanes and surface craft.

Sought "Absolute Parity."

The Italian statement demanded "absolute parity" in the patrol, otherwise, it said, "the situation which would result seems unacceptable."

[A London dispatch to THE TRIBUNE said diplomatic circles there understood Italy demanded the whole Mediterranean east of Malta as Italy's share in the patrol.]

The atmosphere at Geneva tonight was electric. Il Duce's press had loudly announced that no international action could be taken in the Mediterranean without Italy's coöperation, and now France and Great Britain, deputized by the lesser naval powers [Russia, Jugo-Slavia, Turkey, Greece, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Egypt], are proceeding to police the whole sea from east to west whether Il Duce likes it or not. Many observers fear Mussolini will find this harder to swallow than the sanctions [penalties] imposed during his Ethiopian campaign.

Suspect Cunning Trap.

Further it was realized that Italy's refusal —supported by Germany—to join the Nyon arrangement created an immediate danger since Italy is not obliged, like the signatory powers, to maintain its submarines in Italian territorial waters and there is the possibility of purely accidental clashes arising.

What impresses Geneva most, however, is the iron fist suddenly showing under the velvet glove of British-French diplomacy. It is beginning to look like Il Duce has stumbled into a carefully laid trap.

The "anti-piracy" accord was signed at noon in the community hall at Nyon, 13 miles from Geneva, then Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France, as chaiman, slipped in a discreet announcement that the Nyon conference had not wound up its work at all, but would meet later in Geneva to deal with other types of aggression, meaning surface craft and planes.

Strong Hint to Mussolini.

Following receipt of the Italian refusal to coöperate, it was reported the conference will meet again some time this week, maybe even tomorrow, to consider this refusal and tighten up the loopholes in the existing arrangement.

The announcement that surface craft and planes eventually will be dealt with in the same way as submarines was interpreted here as an unexpectedly strong hint to Italy that France and Britain do not intend to let Il Duce do what he pleases in the Mediterranean any longer.

In practice it means that they are going to chase the Italian navy and air force out of the Balearic Islands and the neighborhood of Malaga, Spain, as it is mostly from these bases that surface craft and planes operate against neutral shipping.

Furthermore, hunting down planes and surface craft, especially the latter, is much graver than hunting submarines. A submarine when hit disappears, and if you do not admit your submarines are attacking other people's ships you cannot very well protest when an unknown submarine is sunk. It is very different when a destroyer or other surface craft is attacked, since it is impossible to cover up its identity.

It is because the problem of surface pirates is loaded with dynamite that the conference has not tackled it yet. The fact that the French and British say they will tackle it reveals tougher fibre in them than anyone at Geneva expected to find.

Search Abandoned

PARIS, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Miss Ida Sackheim and Henry de Koven, aunt and brother of Jean de Koven, young Brooklyn dancer who has been mysteriously missing since late in July, decided today to abandon the search for her.

68 VESSELS IN AREA

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Ten more British warships got sailing orders for the Mediterranean tonight as the nine power "anti-piracy" patrol agreement went into effect.

The cruiser Cairo, the destroyer leader Kempenfelt and eight destroyers, composing the seventh and eighth divisions, were ordered to prepare to join the patrol.

The British fleet concentration in the Mediterranean will be the biggest since the Ethiopian crisis two years ago.

Britain will provide 36 warships and France 24 for the patrol duty, but it was disclosed that with new departures from England the British will have 68 warships in the Mediterranean, and France will have many other vessels from her Mediterranean fleet in addition to the 24. Britain's Mediterranean fleet normally numbers 42 vessels.

Reduces British Home Fleet.

The British apparently are worried over the fact they are tying up practically all available active ships in the Mediterranean patrol, and admiralty circles are talking about commissioning reserve destroyers so as to avoid withdrawing more ships from other services.

The home fleet now has only a single flotilla left to it, and if the British patrol quota of thirty-six destroyers is to be maintained, naval circles stated further, reinforcements will be necessary for relief duties.

It was further indicated that if Gijon, loyalist city in northern Spain, falls to the Spanish rebels and resistance to Gen. Francisco Franco terminates in northern Spain, five home fleet destroyers patroling off that coast also will proceed to the Mediterranean.

HITLER AND MUSSOLINI MAY STAGE A JOINT MEETING OF CABINETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Lest the world believe the supreme masters of Germany and Italy—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini—are getting together toward the end of this month merely to display their unity in an effort to make Great Britain grant them concessions, Italian and German diplomats are considering the advisability of holding a joint Italian-German cabinet meeting.

The men slated to attend, according to present plans, are Hitler, Mussolini, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister; Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister; Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staf; Gen. Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, German minister of defense; and Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German minister of air.

Other plans include arrangements for a vast demonstration in Olympic stadium in Berlin, where both Hitler and Mussolini are expected to deliver addresses.

PARAGUAY FREES TWO OBSERVERS SEIZED IN CHACO

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The seizure of two neutral military observers of the Chaco peace commission by Paraguayan troops was settled today.

The Paraguayan delegation to the peace conference here said the incident was closed "satisfactorily." It was understood that Paraguay replied, in answer to a conference protest, that the detention was an error.

The two agents—a Commander Lisboa of Chile and a Maj. Vedia of Uruguay—were held prisoners for five hours Sept. 10 by a Paraguayan patrol in the town of Santa Fe in the Bolivian department of Santa Cruz. Santa Fe has been partially occupied by Paraguayan troops since the end of hostilities in the Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THE TIMING OF CONVENTIONS

By CALEB

EVERY month in this "greatest summer resort city in the world" is a good convention month. There were between forty and fifty conventions in Chicago in August and in September there will be that many.

I marvel at the wide variety of interests which bring people together in associations and clubs which go out of their way to hold conventions. I marvel, too, at the timing and the orderly mechanics of society which avoid the embarrassments which might be the consequence were certain conventions to become mixed.

For instance, there seems something friendly about destiny when we observe the American Chess Federation getting safely out of our city before the Master Boiler Makers arrive. The National Pickle Packers Association leaves Chicago, and then the National Selected Morticians arrive!

Recently the National Association of Left-Handed Golfers was here. The International Apple Association has gone and the California Fruit Growers are soon to come.

Other groups recently in, or coming to, Chicago include the Amateur Softball Association of America, the National Association of Special Delivery Messengers, the National Association of Credit Jewelers, the Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers, and the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers.

We welcome convention visitors to Chicago and we gladly entertain many of them who wish to take escorted trips through our store.

Some day when I think more clearly than I do today, I am going to promote a convention to work out plans for a convention of convention arrangers. It is possible that with intelligent co-ordination an important national saving might be effected through a carefully woven schedule which would bring all people with common problems together at the same time. Meanwhile, there was probably no fore-planning in the fact that this month the Gas Pump Manufacturers' Association is meeting at the same time and in the same hotel with a national advertising association.

Uprooting the Perennials

Gardeners on the Tribune experimental farm at Wheaton are busy uprooting the perennials in the gardens, and setting out new ones in cold frames for the winter. Frank Ridgway's article on page 33 of today's Tribune gives an interesting account of their activities. Be sure to read it.

VATICAN WARNS GERMANY IT MAY FACE CIVIL WAR

Anti-Christian Teachings Under Papal Fire.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Osservatore Romano, official Vatican newspaper, said in an editorial today that if the anti-Christian movement in Germany continues "sowing seeds of hatred and vilification," the blood of priests may be shed there "as it was in Spain."

Prelates said Pope Pius XI. read and approved the editorial, which warned that the recent Nazi congress in Nuremberg has endangered the possibility of religious peace in Germany.

The newspaper envisaged strife such as has engulfed Spain for more than a year as the harvest of Nazi religious teachings.

Cites Early Spanish Events.

The editorial condemned the "fatal union of the state with forces hostile to Christianity." It said anti-religious writings in Spain preceded the strife and asked:

"Who can guarantee to the present rulers of Germany that the seeds of hatred and vilification of every sacred thing, which are being matured ever more powerfully under the eyes of the authorities, will not also produce on German soil the fruits which should bring terror to every true friend of the German people and of its future?"

The newspaper expressed its "sorrow" to have to report that the German state continued to support anti-Christian forces.

Makes Peace Difficult.

"This fact," it added, "tends to suppress the necessary conditions for that religious pacification for which the Holy See has sincerely hoped."

The editorial indicated that supposedly bettered relations between the Vatican and the German state do not exist.

The newspaper said the fight against the church resulted from four conditions in Germany—a continual crescendo of the already immoderate anti-clerical press; recent violations on religious teaching in violation of the concordat between the church and the Nazi government; Germany's demands for revision of the catechism in a Nazi sense, and the spread of government countenanced neo-paganism.

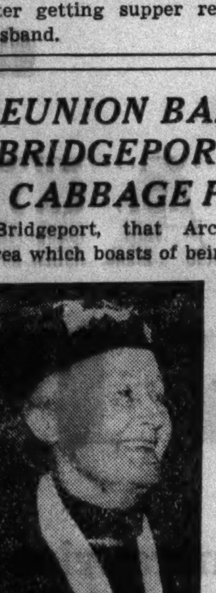
She says she wouldn't mind studying evening if she was't so tired after getting supper ready for her husband.

REUNION BARES BRIDGEPORT AS CABBAGE PATCH



Mrs. Annie Gahagan.

Bridgeport, that Archer avenue area which boasts of being the birthplace of more famous politicians and clergymen than any other Chicago neighborhood, held its second annual homecoming last night at Mark White square, 30th and Halsted streets.

Old timers were present who remembered when that square was a cabbage patch, where the wild Bridgeport and Dashiell gangs fought back in the '90s. And before that, they recalled Archer avenue was a plank road and Halsted street a mud swamp.

One Bridgeport native, Mrs. Annie Costello Gahagan, who is going on 79 now, remembers how her mother cooked dinner once for Long John Wentworth.

SPAIN SETTLES FOR $30,000,000 U. S. WAR CLAIMS

Pact Covers All Forms of American Losses.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—Settlement of American claims arising out of the Spanish civil war, amounting to some $30,000,000, has been agreed upon between the Spanish and American governments, THE TRIBUNE learned tonight.

It was understood that a statement announcing the successful conclusion of the negotiations and acceptance of the Spanish government's offer will be issued at the White House in Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

Details of the settlement could not be learned, but the total of $30,000,000 would cover every kind of damage suffered by American business in Spain since the beginning of the civil war.

Spain Makes Voluntary Offer.

This includes confiscation and appropriation of private property for military purposes, as well as loss from material damage.

The Spanish offer to settle all outstanding American claims was made voluntarily by the Valencia government a short time ago. Negotiations were carried out principally by an unofficial American friend of the Spanish republic, who dealt directly with President Roosevelt.

The news was expected to create a considerable impression at Geneva, as it is almost unprecedented for a government, in the middle of a life or death struggle, to take the initiative in negotiations for reimbursement of the citizens of another country who suffered loss because of that struggle.

It was noted that this was very different from the behavior of soviet Russia after its civil war, and most other revolutionary precedents. It is assumed that the Spanish government is anxious to emphasize the fact that it is not a revolutionary government, but the legally established and constitutional one, and considers that prompt settlement of private claims against it is one of the best ways of winning confidence abroad.

Rebels Attack Madrid.

MADRID, Sept. 14. — (AP) — Rebel forces outside Madrid launched a new attack on the city's western defense lines today, breaking a two weeks' calm. Government defenders repulsed the attack. Positions on the siege lines, locked around Madrid for ten months, were reported by the government to be unchanged.

Members of the government's general staf said a new major offensive against Madrid was expected from Gen. Francisco Franco's legions before winter weather sets in. It was believed that the rebel campaign plans called for two new drives—the Madrid offensive and a thrust aimed to cut Catalonia from other government held territory, thus isolating Barcelona and its important industries.

Anarchist Coup Reported.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish border, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Spanish rebel reports said today that anarchists in Gijon had seized control of the Spanish government army there and ordered the execution of high government officers who "lost Bilbao and Santander."

The sudden anarchistic coup d'etat resulted in severance of relations with the central government, establishment of Belarmino Tomas, Asturian dictator, and imprisonment of the general staf of the government's Gijon army, the rebels reports said. They said foreign military experts also were jailed.

The stroke came as an inland column of Gen. Francisco Franco's Fascist army continued its slow advance south of the Europa mountains in Leon province. The rebel column and others along the coast are seeking to join in a general assault on Gijon, last important government stronghold on the Biscayan coast.

Threaten to Kill Prisoners.

One of the first acts of the anarchists was to load two boats with prisoners with the warning that they would be sunk if the rebels bombed Gijon again, the report asserted.

The change in control did not stem the retreat of government forces, who continued to give way to the north. They retreated from their rocky entrenchments under terrific punishment from rebel land forces.

The French-Spanish border town of Portbou was attacked by rebel air bombers during the night. A railroad bridge was destroyed.

EDITOR WOUNDED BY MUSSOLINI IN SWORD DUEL IN 1921 IS DEAD

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Francisco Ciccotti, Italian Socialist editor, who was wounded in a duel with Premier Mussolini of Italy in 1921, died today. He was 57 years of age.

An editor in Rome when Mussolini was rising to power, Ciccotti vigorously opposed the Fascist leader. Mussolini challenged him to a duel because of comments appearing in the paper. They fought with swords for an hour and a quarter until Ciccotti was so weak from wounds he was unable to continue.

When Mussolini became the head of the government, the journalist sought refuge in France. He came to Buenos Aires in 1930.

QUESTION:
Is it worth while for Camel to spend millions more for finer Tobaccos?

ANSWER:
Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America!

IT is homespun fact that nothing man does to tobacco can take the place of what Nature does. People get more pleasure out of Camels because Camels are made of those finer tobaccos into which Nature put extra goodness and mildness. Camels are a matchless blend of FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

GAMBLING FIGHT NEAR SHOWDOWN IN RHODE ISLAND

Open Hearing on License for Narragansett.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The struggle for control of Narragansett Park, a 40 million dollar betting bonanza for politicians and sharpsters, approached a showdown today with the opening of a hearing on the proposed revocation of the track's license. Witnesses parading before the state racing commission testified to the juggling of bank accounts, intimidation of trainers and jockies, and abuse of state officials.

The fight is between Walter E. O'Hara, head of the track, whose financial dealings are under scrutiny, and Gov. Robert E. Quinn, dictator of the state. The ousting of O'Hara would mean that 1,000 choice race track jobs would be turned over to Quinn's state machine. Quinn has sworn to "drive O'Hara out of Rhode Island."

[Since Gov. Quinn's term began his dictatorship has been likened to the ruthless régime of Huey Long in Louisiana. Among Gov. Quinn's exploits have been the packing of the Supreme court of the state; the suppression of the legislature, and creation of an army of pay rollers. He has brooked no opposition.

Quinn engineered a coup d'état which in two months time transformed a Republican senate into a Democratic one, abolished eighty Republican commissions, and deposed a number of high Republican officials. O'Hara has been the leader of a faction of Democrats opposed to Quinn.]

O'Hara Defies State Order.

O'Hara, the dominating figure in horse track racing in New England and himself a seeker for political power, refused to obey the state racing commission's order to step down from his office. The case was carried to the Supreme court which quashed the order last week.

The next move of Gov. Quinn was the action to revoke the license of the track. It was widely rumored about the statehouse here this afternoon that if the governor fails in this effort he will call out the National Guard to close down Narragansett, where more money is bet than at any other single track in the country. Forty million dollars will be pushed into the pari-mutuel windows by the end of the season unless the governor succeeds in the premature shutdown.

The governor has openly declared that O'Hara wagers $40,000 a day at his own track and is net loser in the amount of $65,000 for the season. The opening session of the inquiry before the racing commission was devoted to an examination of O'Hara's fiscal gymnastics.

Attorney General John P. Hartigan drew from Frederick W. York, cashier of the Phenix National bank, testimony that $58,000 from a pool of winnings on uncashed tickets and $45,000 from another account had been withdrawn on May 1 and deposited in the main account of the racing association of which O'Hara is president.

A total of $201,536 in three checks was then drawn against this account and the cash taken to the track on the opening day of the season, according to York and other witnesses.

Auditor Backs Findings.

York's testimony was backed by Raymond L. Appleby, chief of the state auditors, who testified that the check for $58,000 had been drawn against the unclaimed ticket fund and that for eighteen days there was not sufficient cash in this account to pay off uncashed tickets if they had been presented. The $58,000 check was signed by O'Hara.

The hearing was expanded when Francis J. Kiernan, chief of the state racing division, overruled objections of O'Hara's counsel that new charges of the governor could be aired at this time. Among other things, the charges accuse O'Hara of calling the governor "a —— —— liar" on the front pages of the Providence newspaper, which the race track director runs. The blanks were filled in in the article in question.

BISHOP STEWART EXPECTS BATTLE ON DIVORCE VIEW

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago said yesterday he believed the triennial general convention of the Episcopal church, to be held in Cincinnati next month, will oppose the proposal that the church permit marriage after divorce.

One suggestion being debated is that bishops be allowed to determine whether a divorced person can remarry. Bishop Stewart said he was opposed to this and would express his opinion on the floor of the convention.

"Such a plan," he said, "would lead to many unfortunate situations. Pressure would be brought on bishops, who would be charged with favoritism in the granting of permissions. The church should get the opinion of the whole Anglican communion of 30 million before changing its canon on divorce. This can be done at the Lambeth conference of 1940."

MOTHER OF 7 CHARGES MATE RAILROADED HER TO MENTAL HOSPITAL

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Life, to Mrs. Helen McHale, of Bronxville, was one long succession of not-too-blessed events.

But, unlike the recent Toronto stork derby entrants, who competed for a $500,000 prize, Mrs. McHale charges that her reward for bearing seven children in ten years was to be railroaded to a mental hospital and to lose her husband's love to his secretary.

The charges were contained in Mrs. McHale's suit for separation, filed at White Plains.

She asked $200 weekly alimony from Vincent R. McHale, former chief bank examiner of federal loan banks. Her children range in age from 10 to 21.

McHale, now an investment broker, is accused of cruelty, non-support, and abandonment.

JUSTICE BLACK AND MR. ROOSEVELT.

Mr. Justice Hugo Black, President Roosevelt's recent appointee to the United States Supreme court, refuses to say whether he holds a life membership in the Ku Klux Klan. He declines to discuss the matter.

The charge is supported with a mass of documentary evidence. The fact that Mr. Black stands mute before the court of public opinion does not prove the truth of the charge, but it goes a long way toward doing so. If he were not a member of the klan he could say so without loss of judicial dignity. His silence is, to say the least, pregnant.

Of equal or greater significance is Mr. Roosevelt's behavior. He faces a dilemma. He might pretend that he didn't know of Mr. Black's membership in a secret organization devoted to hatred and persecution of Catholics, Jews, and Negroes. If he takes that position he confesses that the most important appointment he has made was undertaken without as much investigation of the candidate as would be appropriate for a third class postmaster. Scarcely had Mr. Black's name been sent to the senate than statements were made on good authority that he was or had been a klansman. Senators took the floor to say that they could produce witnesses to prove the charge. Mr. Roosevelt even then made no investigation. Instead he used all his disciplinary powers over the senate to obtain confirmation of the appointment without a congressional inquiry into the candidate's fitness for office.

There is no out for Mr. Roosevelt. It must be assumed that he knew who Black was and what he was. Any other explanation assumes on Mr. Roosevelt's part a degree of irresponsibility which not even his enemies attribute to him. He did not even consult Charles Michelson, his chief publicity man, who years ago as a reporter for the New York World had exposed Black's connection with the klan.

The manner of the nomination is itself an evidence that Mr. Roosevelt knew of Black's membership. Ordinarily before appointments to the Supreme court are made the names of men under consideration are given to the public. Leaders of the bar are consulted. This procedure was not adopted in the Black appointment. The first news that Black was being considered was the news that the President had sent his name to the senate. Thereupon every effort was exerted to prevent any formal inquiry into the man's fitness for office.

The proceeding of itself gives every indication that the President knew the facts and deliberately strove to keep them from the public and the senate. With little more evidence at hand than has been recited here, THE TRIBUNE had no hesitancy in publishing Mr. Parrish's telling cartoon showing Senator Black in klansman's hood, seated beside his black robed colleagues on the bench. Senators said they had evidence to prove Black a klansman. The President's behavior plainly indicated that he was afraid to let the truth become known.

Mr. Roosevelt has posed for more than four years now as the great friend, the only friend, of the oppressed and the persecuted. He pretends to be a great liberal, a great friend of all mankind. It is not Mr. Justice Black so much as President Roosevelt who has now been exposed. The Supreme court stands in our system as the guardian of all minorities who may be menaced by persecution. To that court Mr. Roosevelt has appointed a man who is committed to hatred of Catholics, Jews, and Negroes; who belongs to a secret organization which would deprive these minorities of their rights as citizens. Let Mr. Roosevelt explain if he can.

ANOTHER BAD MARKET.

On March 2, 1926, the interstate commerce commission forbade the Van Sweringen brothers to merge the Nickel Plate, Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, and Pere Marquette railroads. The decision precipitated a near panic and the second largest volume of sales in stock market history down to that time. In the disordered market, stocks of companies having no connection with the Van Sweringens, in fact far removed from the railroad business, suffered most. The recent recession appears mild when compared with the melting away of values on that March day 11 years ago. Extreme declines were Hudson Motors, 17¾ points; General Electric, 17 points; Allied Chemical, 10¾ points; General Motors, 9 points, and National Tea, 39½ points.

The day of extreme decline had followed several weeks of retreating prices and was followed by a further period of weakness. In 6 weeks securities fell nearly 20 per cent, which is approximately the amount of the recent recession.

Following the break in 1926 fears were widely expressed that a business recession was getting under way. A review of the indexes shows that the market then in its decline was not foretelling what lay ahead for business, nor did it affect the direction of the business curve. Business was in the ascendant phase of a cycle, and the main trend continued upward throughout 1926. The jittery market was followed by a recovery in which stock averages within a few months were at new high levels.

LICENSED GAMBLING.

We are told that there is illegal gambling in Chicago. The disclosure will hardly surprise the majority of our citizens, who to the number of some tens or hundreds of thousands are regular or occasional patrons of handbooks. There are relatively few adults who do not gamble, if not on the horses, then in some other way. Their gambling may be limited to a little contract bridge or poker, or an occasional bet on their college football team, but they gamble. And, within the limits of discretion, such gambling can hardly be called harmful.

The state of Illinois, however, has declared all gambling illegal. Its laws permit recovery of any kind of gambling loss. The state law makes but one exception. The gambler may bet legally at a racetrack, and the state then takes a share of the profits. At the track the horse player is an honest taxpayer. In the handbook he is a lawbreaker. If he shoots craps, or plays roulette, or drops a quarter in a slot machine, or, being a poor man, feeds his nickels and dimes to that particularly vicious lottery, the policy or numbers game, he is also a lawbreaker.

The men with whom he gambles are also lawbreakers, and since it is on them rather than their customers that sporadic attempts at enforcement fall, they are usually professional criminals. So long as gambling remains illegal it remains unregulated, and it remains a source of corruption of police and public officials, and a source of profit to underworld gangsters.

On the record of a hundred years it would appear that suppression of gambling in Chicago is impossible. It is doubtful that at any time since Chicago was chartered commercial gambling has been suppressed and kept suppressed for a period exceeding three months.

All that can be said for illegal gambling is that its illegal status helps to hold its volume down. If it were brought out in the open, judging from the experience of communities which have tried it, the volume might be more than the city could bear.

Nevertheless, the indirect costs of illegal gambling, in political corruption and subsidies to professional criminals, are tremendous. If licensed gambling could be surrounded with such safeguards as to prevent an increase in the volume of gambling, it would be preferable to the present corruption-breeding system.

SEDUCTION AND THE LAW.

A lady aged 35 is in the news for suing a septuagenarian. Her cause of action is seduction. We are invited to assume that her innocence was betrayed and overborne by the virile blandishments of the seducer, still going strong, it would appear, at 72, but of course the resistance of virtue was not overcome without the aid of rum.

Seduction suits belong in a category to which our legislators ought to give more attention. They are based on assumptions which need examination in the light of legal experience. They are rightly called scandal suits because they are aimed too often not at righting a wrong but at bringing pressure to bear to extract money. Their essence is blackmail. It is in the public interest that innocence and weakness should be protected by legal penalty, but not so as to invite the abuse of the process for the making of money by designing women and unscrupulous lawyers.

The state's concern for the protection of women is asserted in criminal procedure and not properly in civil action. But even criminal procedure needs more strict and practical safeguards from misuse, as experience has abundantly shown. There are plausible arguments for the abolition of this form of action, but if it be not abolished it is certainly in need of clearer restraints.

Editorial of the Day

FLIMSY FINANCE.

[Boston Transcript.]

It sounds incredible, but it is no less true than it seems funny. Officials of the Roosevelt administration, famous for efforts to safeguard investors through stringent SEC regulations, now would sell to trusting citizens of this state the stock of a company organized on a basis long since prohibited by Massachusetts law as constituting a risk far too great for safe investment.

The time tested statutes of this commonwealth require that no public service company shall have a bonded debt exceeding the sum of its paid-up capital stock. Nevertheless, the Federal Rural Electrification administration has sponsored an attempt to peddle $25,000 worth of stock in a new corporation—the Tri-County Electric company, intended to carry power into remote sections of Franklin, Hampshire, and Berkshire counties—even though the company will have no other source of capital funds except a loan which is expected from the REA in the sum of several hundred thousand dollars.

The proceeds of such a loan may indeed be used very merrily in the time of spending. The funds are to be employed for construction of power lines which Abraham C. Webber, chairman of the state department of public utilities, says would cover the distance between Boston and New York, if "strung end to end." But after the money has been put out there comes the cost, does there not, of serving the loan? Interest charges must be paid annually with an allowance, presumably, for amortization. Costs of this sort, as well as the heavy expenses of ordinary operation, certainly must be met before any dividends can be paid on the stock, or before any other step can be taken to give the shares even the slightest assurance of retaining any permanent value.

To pay the federal government $1,000, a company must offer ten hundred dollar bills—no more and no less than is required to discharge a similar debt held by a private creditor. If any one thinks that the conduct of a practical enterprise is all easy sailing after the grant of a government loan, let him read the lament of one such borrower recently published in the city of St. Louis. There a real estate development company which built a large group of dwellings with federal aid frankly admits that it cannot earn enough money to pay its annual loan service, to say nothing of a return from its private investment.

Only one of two judgments is possible. Either the federal government is trying to sell $25,000 worth of stock which has only a slim chance to retain a future worth of more than 25 cents a share, or else it is contemplated that federal loans, contracted on the REA basis, will not long be held subject to regular interest charges and later repayment. In either case, the transaction is of a kind which no private banking house or syndicate of investment firms would ever think of indorsing for public investment, whether in a prospectus of the complicated sort now required by the SEC or in any other form of advertisment and sales promotion.

Under these circumstances let the Massachusetts department of public utilities stand firm in upholding the state law as now written no matter how loud and angry may be the voices of protest raised in Washington.

THOSE BRIEF ballet skirts have a history. In 1721 a ballet dancer at the French court caught hers, because they came to the floor then, on a nail. The skirt pulled off and she hadn't a thing under it. The incident brought a royal order for scanties that became known as drawers of precaution. And then, because the dancers were so amply clothed, some one thought of shortening the skirts a bit. When they got up to ankle length, prudes started a riot.

AUTUMN PAGEANT.

Just beyond the reach of Summer's scene
Autumn's standing waiting in the wings,
Impatient for the cue when she comes forth
Upon the stage and with abandon flings
Her orange and yellow scarves athwart the breeze
As wantonly she dances down the lea
Tossing russet, brown and golden tints
Full splash against the leaves of every tree.

The scenes of Spring and Summer were delight
But now the Play is drawing to an end
And so the Scenic Artist has devised
These thrills of matchless beauty just to lend
A grand finale with its dazzling maze
Of splendor as the curtain's fall is due—
Autumn's Pageant winds across the stage
With glory ever old yet ever new.

BECAUSE they both knew the telegraph code they tapped out messages to each other, ever so softly, as they sat in the courtroom. "Stupid old fellow, the judge," one finally tapped, a little too audibly, perhaps. "Another one like that and I'll lock you up," came back a rapping from the bench. The judge, the telegraphers later learned, worked at their trade while studying law.

HEARING DEVICES.

INDIVIDUALS who have lost their hearing find themselves cut off from society to a greater extent even than those who are blind. Through the development of electrical devices and lip reading many of these persons can today understand what is being said.

The modern hearing aid consists of a microphone, a battery, amplifier, and a receiver, made so small that the apparatus can be worn inconspicuously. The microphone picks up the sounds, sends them through the amplifier, and the patient hears via the receiver.

There are two kinds of deafness, namely, inner ear or nerve deafness, and conduction deafness. In the first, that part of the structure which transforms the sound into nervous impulses is at fault and mechanical appliances may do good. In conduction deafness the eardrum and the bones which carry the vibrations to the internal ear are affected. It is in this variety that artificial contrivances have their greatest usefulness. However, those who are moderately deaf frequently cannot use the equipment because of the confusion between the sounds heard with the machine and with the other ear.

During the last few years a new device has been developed which fits against the back of the ear and transmits the waves directly to the bone. This is known as bone conduction and, in some instances, is better than the old or air conduction sort.

Many disadvantages attend the use of hearing machinery. Even the best distort the speaking voice somewhat and produce an additional hum. Furthermore, all of the noises which enter the microphone are amplified. The human ear, on the other hand, has the ability to select just the tones that are desired. Constant improvements are being made so that some types amplify only the pitches which the patient cannot detect.

It is very difficult for the person using the apparatus to determine the direction from which conversation is coming. Those with normal perception do this unconsciously by sensing the relative loudness on each side. Some people seem to be able to use an instrument easily and others have trouble at first, but by perseverance they master the intricacies and receive tremendous help from it. Practically every one has to spend some time not only in learning how to hear but in getting used to the feel of the receiver. These drawbacks and the appearance of the equipment are far outweighed by the ability of the deaf or partially deaf person to participate in ordinary conversation.

The selection of an amplifier should be made on the basis of performance. The different makes vary and the patient should try out and choose the one which gives the best results. The air and bone conduction forms in each brand should be tried. Reputable manufacturers are coöperative in assisting the sufferer to make the best buy. Do not yield to sales pressure. The matter is too vital and the expense considerable.

Another method of compensating for the loss of hearing is by lip reading. The art is troublesome to master, but if it is started before deafness becomes complete it may be acquired much easier. Some individuals move their lips but slightly and hence reading is almost impossible. The speaker's lip must be in full view and the light must be adequate.

Lip reading can become an adjunct to the moderately deaf and to those who use an aid. Its particular merit is in cases where an internal ear lesion exists—not benefited by outside means. Individuals faced with a progressive loss of hearing should master the plan. There are schools in most of our cities where public or private classes are conducted.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

W. R. B. writes: A recent correspondent asked if there is a difference between color blindness and color ignorance. I am color blind, and I would say that, ruling out those of inferior intelligence, the color blind person is color ignorant because of his deficiency. It is useless to ask color distinctions of a man who does not see differences. Then, too, a person who has suffered failure after failure will avoid the whole matter and doubtless be actually color ignorant to a degree unnecessary even to his condition.

My experience is that things do not appear dull gray, but rather beautifully bright. The trouble is that greens, reds, and browns are all the same. Blues I know, and grays if there is no green in them. For instance, a bright red barn is exactly the shade of the grass and trees about it, except that the trees may not be so bright.

I have driven a car in the city for more than twenty years and never yet got into stop-light trouble. Sometimes I can really tell a green light, for it looks blue, but there are other ways—chiefly watching what others do. One thing is certain: People like me drive more carefully than those with a sound color sense. To us a light does not mean "Stop" or "Go"; it means "Look both ways, watch trafic, take it carefully!"

REPLY.

As you know, there are various grades of deficiency in color sense. Complete color blindness is very rare, and is usually associated with other defects of sight. When the color sense is totally absent a dull gray is the predominant shade, ranging from light to dark, but lusterless. John Dalton once picked out a purple suit, thinking it was gray.

Red-green blindness is the common type, and in some persons the vision is more defective for green, in others for red. The sense of such persons for blue and yellow is practically normal. They consider green as blue if it is of a brightness similar to that of blue objects with which they are familiar. Cases of blue-yellow confusion are less common, though not so rare as those of total color blindness.

Your caution in driving is greatly to be commended. Would that all drivers—color blind or not—were as careful! For those who have difficulty with red and green lights, partially colored glasses have been made by which they can be distinguished.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS.

Mrs. D. M. writes: What is coronary thrombosis and what are the symptoms?

REPLY.

Coronary thrombosis is an obstruction of a branch of a coronary artery which supplies the heart with blood. As a result, a portion of this structure is deprived of circulation. Severe cardiac pain is a striking feature. Nausea and vomiting are common. The appearance of the patient is one of shock and collapse. A low fever and lowered blood pressure are usually present.

[THIRD ARTICLE.]

SHANGHAI.—The outstanding element in Japan's administration of Corea, as in Japan's other colonies, is the Japanese army or garrison. This consists of two divisions, stationed at Kanan and Rynsan, respectively, and the Sixth air regiment. The police and gendarmes are armed and numerous, and a thorough and efficient espionage system exists.

Japanese military spokesmen have often referred to the usefulness of Corea as a reservoir of troops for use in Manchuria and North China. The increase of the garrison in 1931 was motivated by the consideration that the dispatch of troops from Corea would not excite the great powers so much as if they were sent from Japan proper.

The first Japanese troops to reach Manchuria after the Mukden incident on Sept. 18, 1931, came from the Corean garrison. It was charged in the Japanese diet [parliament] that troop trains actually had crossed the border into Manchuria before daylight of the morning of the day following the incident, even before Tokio was aware that anything had happened.

The Corean 1935-'36 budget contained the following interesting items: Expense of the household of Prince Yi, scion of the former imperial Corean line, who is married to a Japanese princess, 1,800,000 yen; administration expenses, 4,247,582 yen; schools [apart from Keijo university], 1,527,875 yen, and the significant item, 5,226,199 yen for prisons. These figures are from the 1937 edition of the Japan-Manchukuo Year book.

Of special interest, in view of the fact that the Japanese language is compulsory and is taught exclusively, is the statement that there are only 833,612 Coreans who are "more or less conversant with the Japanese language." In view of the fact that at least half of Corea's present population of 21,000,000 was born and educated after the Japanese annexation, this figure would appear small.

Occidental missionaries and others familiar with the situation claim that the Coreans have in little respect been assimilated.

With respect to Japan's "excess population," which has migrated to Corea, one learns that in 1932, more than two decades after the annexation, there were only 500,000 Japanese in Corea. Of this number 231,591 were in Corea only because they belonged to the civil service. Of the remainder, 131,865 were merchants, 59,104 workers, and 55,806 farmers.

The Japanese have greatly increased industrial and agricultural production, but the general standard of life among the Coreans has deteriorated. Average income is 52.7 yen a year, equivalent to about $17.50 in American money. The average tenant farmer's income leaves him at the end of the year with a deficit of 17.2 yen and a food shortage of 5 bushels of rice and 1⅛ bushels of millet. The average debt of a tenant is 49 yen.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearning no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

REASON FOR PROBATE.

Forest Park, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if it is absolutely necessary to put a small estate through Probate court under the conditions described: There are only two sons of the deceased. Both are satisfied to do, as deceased had told them—to split everything on a fifty-fifty basis. There is [1] a house and lot and about [2] $100 cash to be divided. There is very little personal property, as most had been divided before he died.

H. A. S.

1. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to the real estate, but conceivably you might find a purchaser who would be willing to waive the requirement.

2. The necessity for probate as to the cash depends on whether it can be reduced to possession.

POLICE AND MOB PSYCHOLOGY.

Oak Park, Sept. 10.—I am greatly amused by the comments in the Voice of the People concerning the Memorial day riot. Scarcely a letter treating of this matter is without a serious bias either right or left. It is this type of thinking that is very effectively dividing our nation into two hostile camps—as it is doing all over the world.

In my opinion both the strikers and the police were at fault. With the Chicago police mob-handling psychology at that time reached a new low. The malcontents were wrong in attacking the police with stones and sticks. Moral suasion and the refusal to work are the legal weapons of the striker when he believes his rights are trampled. The police should not have been so hasty with their guns. They should have stood in a cordon stolidly until the stones began to come at them and then charged and bashed the heads of the stone throwers with their clubs and used only these unless fired upon by the mob.

The Chicago police will do well to read Lincoln Steffens' observations of crowds and mobs during times of stress. Had Mr. Steffens been on hand and allowed to manage the psychology of the police he would probably have taken up their guns and held them in a patrol wagon; releasing firearms only if the mob used the same, thereby avoiding the jittery hair trigger action which is perfectly evident in this incident. Mobs must be dealt with gently but firmly. London bobbies would have handled this situation far more tactfully. Violence breeds violence and this particular type serves only to accelerate the cleavage cited above. M. D.

KLANSMAN BLACK.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—The proof offered by today's papers of the membership of Hugo L. Black, recently appointed associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States, leaves no doubt that this man is totally unfitted for the office to which he has been appointed. I believe that there are millions of persons in this country like myself, who should protest his continuance in that office because his presence there is an insult to every Roman Catholic, Jew, and Negro and should be to all other American citizens.

How, it may be asked, can a man dispense justice who is sworn to a perpetual hatred of millions of American citizens?

CHARLES B. CANNON.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO SPAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—A highly misleading article in regard to organizations soliciting funds for Spain appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Saturday, Sept. 4.

In the first place—it is an insult to our organization to be listed with the pro-Fascist committee [American Committee for Spanish Relief], which sent absolutely nothing.

Our national office in New York points out with respect to the accountants' statement submitted to the state department that we had a bank balance of $11,419, which the article did not mention, and that we had sent personal packages valued at $13,000. Our running expense actually is 17 per cent of our income. EUGENE BECHTOLD, Secretary, Illinois Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Battalion.

New York, Sept. 9.—May we call the attention of your readers to the fact that the figures on our receipts and expenditures, given out by the state department and published in an article in your columns, do not represent a true picture of our work? They cover the period from May 1 to July 31, which, in the nature of things, is not a typical period. Our receipts naturally fell off during the summer months, as is the experience of all fund-raising organizations, and our routine expenses, of course, continued.

Our figures over a seven months' period indicate more clearly the true financial story. From Oct. 1 to May 1 total receipts were $10,169.97. Of this amount $5,343.05 was sent to Spain, $3,885.64 was expended for administration, publicity, and literature. On the face of it our expenses appear to be 38 cents on the dollar. Actually, however, this still does not represent the true proportion. Money expended for literature must go into the expenditures column, of course, but actually it is an investment, the money coming back to us, with a small profit, as the pamphlets are sold.

W. W. NORTON,

Treasurer, American Friends of Spanish Democracy.

ANTI-DOG.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Because of their habits the city council should forbid the taking of a dog into any store. Dogs are subject to about twenty diseases, ranging from fleas or mange to the hideous rabies, and are seldom free from one or more of them. The dirty habits and diseases of these animals render them unfit companions for children, and also make dogs very obnoxious to persons of refined tastes. Barking dogs are a pest and should be promptly eliminated. The use of dogs in game hunting should be forbidden, and it will be but a few years until any true sportsman will be ashamed to be found making use of them in taking game animals or birds.

H. E. BARTLETT.

THANKS.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—I would like to say thank you for the reward given to my daughter for the return of a radio which fell from the back of an auto on Elston avenue, near Milwaukee, on Sept. 3, this new and pleasant way we appreciate his kindness to the girl. H. SCHREIBER.

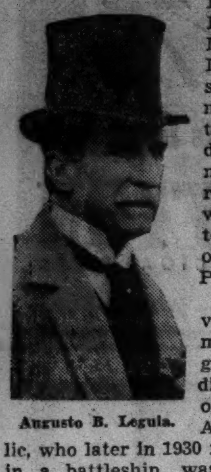
PISTOL WEDDING IN PERU CHARGED IN YANK'S SUIT

He Says Dictator Leguia Held the Gun.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—In a bill as romantic as a Richard Harding Davis story of Latin America, Lewis M. Clarkson, former commercial representative in Peru, today asked annulment of a marriage he said he was forced to enter under threat of death by a Peruvian dictator.



Augusto B. Leguia.

The figurative villain of the romance was Augusto B. Leguia, dictator president of the South American republic, who later in 1930 fled a revolution in a battleship, was captured, imprisoned, and died in 1932 in exile.

Threatened with "accidental" death if he did not marry Señora Mercedes de la Quintana Viuda de Ludewig, according to the suit, Clarkson was escorted to the church by an armed guard and, in the presence of Leguia, was forced to go through the ceremony.

Calls Her Political Plotter.

Clarkson went to Lima, Peru, in December, 1922, as sales representative of a large American manufacturer, and two years later became acquainted with Señora Quintana.

Clarkson said he visited Señora Quintana once or twice at her home in December, 1924, but never was intimate with her.

During January or February 1925, he related, a representative of Leguia called on him and said the president would like him to come to the executive mansion the next day.

He complied and Leguia informed him Señora Quintana was going to have a child and it was necessary that Clarkson marry her to protect her name, Clarkson's sworn petition to the court stated.

When the American protested, Leguia is said to have told him that if he did not marry her he would be "accidentally" shot.

About a week after this conversation, Clarkson related, he was formally notified that March 9, 1925, had been selected as his wedding date and if he did not appear, or if he attempted to leave the country, he would be killed.

An Armed Escort Arrives.

About 7 a. m. on the appointed day four armed secret service men called at his home, saying they had been sent to "escort" him to the church, Clarkson declared, adding that when he arrived Leguia and his personal military escort were waiting.

Fearing for his life, Clarkson then went through with the ceremony, he said. He never lived with his bride as a husband, but two or three months following the marriage a child was born to her, he said. Thereafter they did not even live in the same house, and Señora Clarkson then began associating with various government officials, including Leguia, the suit stated.

Clarkson averred upon information and belief that another child was born to Señora Clarkson in April, 1926.

In November, 1926, he continued, he persuaded Leguia that he might be able to win for him the aid of the United States in the territorial dispute then going on between Peru and Bolivia.

With this in view, Leguia permitted him to leave Peru, but before his departure forced him, by military escort, to go to the office of the American consul at Lima and register the two children as his own, Clarkson declared.

He explained the long delay in petitioning the court for an annulment, saying that friends advised him in December, 1928, that Senora Clarkson had died. Recently he learned she was still living, he said.

Letters Assert Mrs. Parsons Died in Hands of Kidnapers

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A series of letters asserting that Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons was the victim of a kidnaping, but died of pneumonia before ransom could be collected, was reported today in the possession of agents of the department of justice.

Mrs. Alice Parsons.

A jeweled brooch, said to have been worn by Mrs. Parsons when she disappeared from her Stony Brook, N. Y., farm home early in June, was inclosed in one of the letters, according to the reports.

One letter from the purported kidnapers was received before Mrs. Parsons died, and no demand for ransom was received after that, it was announced.

Truth Not Authenticated.

But whether the letters really were authentic or only an unusually well planned collection of crank notes was not determined, it is believed.

Mrs. Parsons lived with her husband, Will, and a Russian woman, who came to the place as a servant and became more or a companion, and the latter's son, on a farm at Stony Brook devoted to pigeon raising. Both Mr. and Mrs. Parsons came of families with good connections, and Mrs. Parsons was heiress to an estate, only partly available in liquid investments, at the time of her disappearance.

The Russian woman, whose position in the household never has been established precisely, is Mrs. Anna Kupryanova.

Tells of Drive to Estate.

According to this woman's story after the disappearance, Mrs. Parsons left the farm shortly before noon one day in June, saying she was being driven with two strangers, a man and a woman, to look at an estate in Huntington, N. Y., in which Mrs. Parsons had inherited an interest.

It never has been definitly proved that Mrs. Parsons was seen later.

Both department of justice agents and Suffolk county, N. Y. authorities worked on the case for many weeks, until finally both Mrs. Kupryanova and Parsons left the farm to live in relative retirement in New York City.

The abductors said in the letters, postmarked in Elizabeth and Newark, that they had disposed of Mrs. Parsons' body.

VAN NUYS HITS FOES; MAY RUN ON OWN TICKET

Defies Townsend, Others on Court Issue.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Preparing today for a six week trip through this state, United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys repeated that he expects to be a candidate for reëlection.

"I'm going to be a candidate for reelection irrespective of whom or what candidates they may bring forth," the senior senator said. He described as "absolutely without foundation" a published report that he might enter into a compromise with the statehouse organization, withdraw as a candidate before the Democratic state convention and throw his support "behind a candidate acceptable to both sides."

Senator Stands on Record.

His statement strengthens the rumors he may run as an independent.

"I have nothing on which to compromise," the senator added, "I'm standing on my record in public office and on the Democratic principles to which I subscribe. I think I stand for something in the Democratic party that needs a spokesman in Indiana as it never needed one before. I've made no attacks either on Gov. M. Clifford Townsend or his henchmen. Win, lose, or draw, I expect to continue doing all I can for the state of Indiana as long as I am in the senate.

"Summed up, it simply becomes a question as to whether the rank and file of the party or a handful of party manipulators will determine who shall represent them."

Senator Van Nuys declined to express an opinion as to the political future of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt, but said, "Gov. Townsend has interfered more in the duties of the two Indiana United States senators in the last four months than Gov. McNutt did in four years."

Doubts Renewed Court Fight.

As to efforts to pack the United States Supreme court, Senator Van Nuys said:

"I doubt seriously whether the President will renew his proposition, at least not in its original form. I would be as heartily opposed to any requirement such as a two-thirds vote to declare a congressional enactment unconstitutional. I don't think they could do that legally or constitutionally. But I shall always be agreeable to submitting an amendment to the voters. By that I mean to a convention selected by the voters to pass on the one subject and not to the state legislature sitting as a convention. I favor an amendment to require that one associate justice come from each of the eleven districts."

DECREASE IN NEW PARALYSIS CASES CHEERS FIGHTERS

Only Three Are Reported in Last 24 Hours.

LESSON BROADCASTS.

The schedule for today's school lesson broadcasts for Chicago pupils, with stations, times, and subjects listed according to grades, appears in this edition with the other radio programs on page 25.

Although hopeful because of a drop in the number of new cases, public health authorities said yesterday it will be impossible to tell until next week whether the peak of the infantile paralysis outbreak has been reached.

In the 24 hours ending yesterday at 9 a. m. only 3 new cases were reported to the board of health. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board, said this was the lowest daily number since the beginning of the outbreak, and made a total of 17 in four days. One death occurred during the day in Lake county.

223 Cases Since Aug. 1.

Since Aug. 1, and including Monday, the total cases in Chicago have amounted to 223, compared with 148 during a comparable period in 1918, known as the epidemic year. Additional cases before Aug. 1 made the total to date 245. There have been 18 deaths in the city.

After a two hour conference with Dr. Bundesen, representatives of several motion picture chains agreed to continue their ban against children under 16 years of age. A group of children from six schools pleaded with Dr. Bundesen for reopening of the schools.

The time of school reopening, however, cannot be determined, Dr. Bundesen said, until the course of the disease definitly has been arrested. Teachers and students will be given 24 hour notice before classes are resumed.

Teachers to Report Today.

Teachers were instructed by Supt. William H. Johnson to report today at all public schools to start the fall inventory and to do other book work necessary before schools are reopened. Dr. Johnson made it clear this announcement did not mean any date for reopening has been set.

A clinic for teachers who specialize in such work as child adjustment also will be conducted today. Dr. Johnson said that next week he probably would start a series of meetings to familiarize teachers with the latest trends in educational work so the time spent waiting for classes to resume will not be wasted.

Children Attend Radio School.

Meanwhile grade school children continued to go to their radio school. A seventh radio station was added yesterday to the list of those coöperating with the board of education by donating time for classroom lectures. It will begin broadcasting lessons tomorrow.

Miss Minnie E. Fallon, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools, said the radio experiment is meeting with success and coöperation from children and parents. The school board believes the radio lectures will keep children abreast of their classroom work until schools are reopened, she said.

Death in Lake County.

The Lake county death was that of Beverly Carey, 8 years old, daughter of L. Eric Carey, Zion city attorney. She was taken ill last Saturday in her home at 2218 Elizabeth avenue, Zion, and was removed to the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan, where she died.

Only three other cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in Lake county and only one death has occurred, the first six weeks ago. After a conference last night with health officers Edgar T. Stephens, superintendent of schools of Zion, announced that schools of the city would remain open.

The Wheeling Elementary school of District 21 opened Sept. 7 and has not been closed, Henry Brandt, president of the school board, said yesterday. This school was incorrectly included Tuesday in a list of suburban schools closed as a preventive measure during the outbreak.

FAULTY HABITS OF EATING BLAMED FOR NEW WAR SCARES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The world's current war jitters can be laid in part to faulty diets, it was explained to scientists attending the first food technology conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology today.

"The fate of a nation is determined to considerable extent by what it eats," said Lewis W. Waters, research vice president of the General Foods corporation. "The food technologist, with the soundest of reasoning, can point out that war, war threats, and international suspicion may be dietetic, as well as economic and political.

"The food technologists of all nations should eventually help solve the jitters of nationalities by helping to correct malnutrition and undernutrition. A generation ago we said, 'Foods will win the war.' Our civilization today would be better served by the slogan, 'Correct eating and food in sufficient quantity will help avoid war.'"

DIES SUDDENLY ON SIDEWALK.

Are your bills extra big this month?

1% a Month on any Loan from $1 to 5,000

We will lend you from $1 to $5,000 on the security of jewelry, watches, diamonds, silverware at 1% a month interest.

NO OTHER CHARGES OF ANY KIND

This Society was founded by the Merchants Club for the public good and is operated under the active direction of prominent Chicago business men who serve without pay. Since 1899 it has made 1,800,000 loans amounting to over $76,000,000.

LOANS MAY BE PAID BY INSTALLMENTS

This is the only institution in Chicago regulated by the Special State Pawners Law which limits interest rates to 1% a month on ALL loans from $1 to $5,000.

Capital and surplus $3,000,000

Perhaps you've a well-earned vacation to pay for—or an emergency hospital bill—or unusual business expenses—or necessary repairs to the house . . .

Whenever extra or unforeseen expenses jolt your budget temporarily out of balance, it is worth remembering that the family's jewelry and other personal valuables are good loan collateral.

You can bring us a precious stone or a watch, an article of silverware or jewelry—and on that security we will make you a loan that's just as dignified and honorable as the loan any banker would make you on the collateral of stocks or bonds.

You get your money immediately; without questions, note, endorsement or any assignment of salary—and there's no need for you to borrow from friends.

Whether you borrow $1 or $5,000, the interest charge will be only 1% a month. There are no other charges of any kind whatsoever.

That rate of 1% a month is established by the Special State Pawners Law under which we are chartered. This is the only institution in Chicago regulated by that law.

NEW "STREAMLINED" MAGAZINE SETS STANDARDS OF READER INTEREST NEVER BEFORE ACHIEVED

★ Today the 15th issue of LOOK is on the newsstands. The magazine that is changing the reading habits of the nation again presents—in dramatic pictures—eye-witness feature stories from every nook and corner of the globe.

It brings to 1,700,000 families a graphic new portrayal of life—things, occurrences, ideas, of absorbing interest — gripping narrative-in-picture that outmarvels the movies — camera-eye stories that instruct, entertain, satisfy the eager curiosity of active minds, young and old:

No wonder advertisers look on approvingly as nearly 2,000,000 people step up to the newsstands and pay 10c for a magazine that has not yet seen its first birthday. Already 700,000 more newsstand circulation than its nearest competitor among the weeklies!

LOOK offers not only a colossal audience but an intensely receptive STATE OF MIND! The most fascinating editorial matter in the world sharpens the interest of its readers to razor-edge keenness, carries them from cover to cover, minds on tip-toe with attention.

And when advertising does appear in LOOK, in the November 9 issue (on the newsstands October 26), it will share the reader interest of this irresistible picture magazine. For LOOK's editorial matter stimulates rather than monopolizes — captures attention, and then passes it along to YOUR story.

Already many advertisers have expressed the opinion that LOOK marks the most significant advertising development since radio. As vivid and compelling as radio—yet with the added advantage that LOOK's impressions are visual, therefore more lasting and influential.

MAJ. GEN. DRUM TAKES 6TH CORPS AREA COMMAND

Native of Michigan; Born at Old Army Post.

Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who has been an army officer for almost 40 of his 57 years, took command of the 6th corps area yesterday, hoping, he said, to become "a part of this Chicago community."

Gen. Drum comes to his post after a tour of duty as commander of the Hawaiian department, and will be succeeded there by his predecessor here, Maj. Gen. Charles D. Herron. The new commander was born into the army as the son of Capt. John A. Drum, who was killed at San Juan hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American war. Hugh Drum grew up in army posts and was commissioned a second lieutenant from civil life at the age of 18.

Back to His Birthplace.

Chatting in his headquarters at the new postoffice building yesterday, Gen. Drum remarked that he now commands the area in which his birthplace is located. He was born in 1879 at Fort Brady, Mich., on the Sault Ste. Marie locks. The 6th corps area comprises the states of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Gen. Drum's chief of staf, Col. R. M. Danford, whom he brought with him from Hawaii, is a native of Illinois, having been born in New Boston, on the Mississippi river, in Mercer county.

Commanding 7,156 officers and men on duty in the area, Gen. Drum also will direct the work of 178 Civilian Conservation corps camps in the three states under his juridction. He is enthusiastic about the CCC and believes the army has made a big success of running the outfit.

Gen. Drum feels that the army is well on the way toward modernization and emphasized the importance of keeping it up to date.

Tells of Food Shortage.

One of the problems before him for solution during his Hawaiian tour of duty was the shortage of food on the islands occasioned by the 86 day maritime strike on the Pacific coast. The islands were stocked for only 60 days and for a time it was a nip and tuck game, Drum said.

The new commander has had a varied military career. Shortly after his appointment as a second lieutenant, he was sent to the Philippine Islands, where he was cited for conspicuous action.

In the world war, Gen. Drum, as chief of staf of the first American army, was given large credit for the battle plan of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. With Mrs. Drum and their daughter, Anna Carroll, 20, who will enter Northwestern university for her senior year this fall, Gen. Drum is making his home at Fort Sheridan.

JUNK WORKER FINDS FORTUNE AND LOSES IT

Police Seize Bonds; Hunt Owner's Widow.

About a month ago, while he was salvaging brass in a junkyard for 1½ cents a pound, Adam Czakowski, 70 years old, 1454 North avenue, found a fortune.

No ordinary fortune, either. It included $190 in currency and coin, $500 in postal savings certificates, and $3,500 in bonds. All of it came out of a brass bed that Adam and his son, Leo, 12 years old, were knocking to pieces in a lot at Elston avenue and Cortland street.

But now the cash is all gone and the postal saving certificates and the bonds are in the hands of Assistant State's Attorney Blair Varnes, who is seeking the legal owners. Adam is going back to his old job.

Offers to Split Bonds.

The discovery was brought to official notice when Peter Janus, 1959 19th street, informed Mr. Varnes that Czakowski had asked him to dispose of the bonds. "I'll give you half if you do," was his promise.

When policemen took Czakowski and the paper portion of his fortune to the Criminal Courts building, Adam told his story and offered to split with the assistant prosecutor if he would act as broker for the bonds.

"My boy Leo," he said, "found some half dollars in one leg of a brass bed we were knocking to pieces. Then we knocked the other leg from the foot of the bed, but found nothing.

"We didn't give up. The next day we went back. My stepson, Joe Plucinski, went along with us. After looking for nearly a day we found the head of the bed and knocked off its legs and found the $190, and the paper that's as good as money. I took half the cash and Joe took the other half. I don't know what he did with his, but I paid some bills, hid $50 in a trunk at home, and took a little vacation. While I was on vacation the money in the trunk disappeared."

Seek Widow of Owner.

Czakowski said he tried to get several saloonkeepers to cash the bonds, but was unsuccessful.

The postal savings certificates were made out in the name of Apolinary Dembinski. Records of the coroner's office showed that Dembinski was found dead in a basement flat at 1217 North Damen avenue about two months ago. Investigators for the state's attorney's office learned that one of his relatives had searched the flat for the hoard Dembinski reputedly had, but gave up after a time and sold his effects, including the brass bed, for junk.

The bonds were secured by the property of the Keystone Court apartments, the Kedzie-Carmen, and the Elmwood Manor buildings. Dembinski's widow, from whom he separated several years before his death, is being sought. She may claim the fortune that is no longer Czakowski's. Failing this, the property will be turned over to the public administrator, according to Mr. Varnes.

MOOSE WILL GATHER AT ROCKFORD SEPT. 23 FOR ANNUAL SESSION

The Illinois Moose association, consisting of lodges affiliated with the Loyal Order of Moose, will hold its sixth annual convention at Rockford, Sept. 23 to 26. It is regarded as the principal gathering of the order.

The convention will be opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Charles Brown of Rockford. Al Selonke of Chicago, president of the Illinois Moose association, will respond.

In the last three years the association has given $33,000 to Mooseheart, the school and home operated by the lodge.

SAVED FROM BARRACUDA

Jilts Playboy After Strange Philippine Romance with Plantation Owner

ZAMBOANGA, P. I., Sept. 14—Jungle fever, this time carried by the love bug, has claimed Carol Franklin, wealthy California heiress.

Authoritative sources say she will wed Steve Kendall, well-known young planter in this copra country—and will own him lock, stock, and plantation.

The porch of the swank Overseas Club is buzzing with talk of how Kendall rescued the girl from barracudas, and how the crown princess of the Franklin money domains subsequently jilted her fiancee, Rudd Wilson, in favor of hacienda Memory Lane.

It will be remembered that Kendall is the one who saved Miss Franklin from almost certain death when she had an impulsive desire to go swimming with a barracuda off Pandalusan Island, following a sailing party, a few months ago.

OARSMEN TRAIN ON LAKE OF OATS

Cow College Crew Oars Way to Victory Over Strong Coast Shell; Grain Waves Help

LIST TO FAIR COXSWAIN

Co-Ed Trills Guidance in Sweet Soprano as Swains Paddle

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15—Colville College has made the crack Stanwood crew eat humble pie. The cow college from Oklahoma, trained to row in a sea of oats, took the measure of the coast oarsmen in handy style.

Al Bixbee, ex-Stanwood stroke coached the winners, coxswained by a comely co-ed by the name of Cleo.

As everyone knows, Oklahoma has been titled "the land where God forgot to lay water." But the Aggies gathered their waves from fields of grain and oared themselves into form.

On the day of Colville's arrival, a Los Angeles newspaper announced in headlines:

COLVILLE CREW SEES WATER FOR FIRST TIME

Followed a snappy write-up in which Bixbee's charges were alluded to as the "Oats Oarsmen of Oklahoma," and the "Dry Land Wonders."

The day of the race came. The lake was dotted with myriad small craft. The shore was jammed with spectators.

There was a puff of white smoke, and a clear, sharp report punctured the stillness. Sixteen broad, sunburned backs bent.

From the moment of the pistol crack one fact was apparent: Colville may have trained on oats but they had learned to row on water.

At the first half-mile flag of the two mile course, the shells were even. Then, gradually, Colville drew into a half-length lead. The Stanwood cox responded by putting up the beat and once again the boats were level. But comely co-ed Cleo was satisfied for the moment. Stanwood had needed to raise the stroke to keep the pace.

A quarter of a mile farther on, Cleo slid the stroke up. Again Colville pulled into the lead, and this time Colville stayed in front.

The halfway mark was passed with the Colville boat a quarter length ahead. Then came the upset. A boat

TWO MURDERED FORTY FLOORS UP

All Exits Blocked During the Stockholders' Meeting

POLICE SUSPECT MANIAC

Rowley, President of Process Firm, Probably Hurled from Window, and Whitfield, Lawyer of Company, Found Stabbed by Paper Knife

MYSTERIOUS NOTE IS CLUE

Murder marched up 40 floors in the Moderna Building and quenched the lives of James L. Rowley, president of the Leland & Rowley Process Co., and the firm's attorney, Samuel P. Whitfield.

Whitfield was stabbed in the heart. Rowley's battered body was found beneath his office window on a projecting roof, to which it was probably hurled by the killer.

Police are on the hunt for a man of maniacal tendencies.

One of the first clues to the double slaying was a note found in the typewriter of Mr. Rowley's secretary. It read: "This is to warn you that the merger with Pan American Dye is not going through. Of course you're planning to have it carried at the meeting by an overwhelming majority. But it is not going through.

"Remember it cannot become legally valid until midnight, anyhow. If enough of the largest stockholders died before then, fifty-one per cent of the stock could change hands, couldn't it? The heirs of the deceased would undoubtedly demand a new vote. Think it over when you turn in your ballot slips. Because if the merger is carried, I have decided to murder several of you—and, if necessary, all of you.

"You'll have plenty of time to consider whether you want to—EXIT BEFORE MIDNIGHT."

By the time police and detectives arrived soon after midnight, occupants of the Leland & Rowley offices had pieced together evidence which conclusively proved the murder to

WORLD SERIES FANS ALREADY PICKING GOATS

History Shows High Pressure Plays Tricks on Doughtiest of Baseball Heroes

By JOHN KIERAN

This October brings again one of the most exciting of all high-pressure tests that draw nation-wide attention.

That's the annual World Series, the national proving ground where husky professional athletes undergo the pressure treatment.

Strange things are bound to happen. Masked marvels bob up; heralded heroes go down.

Some players dote on the excitement, the fanfare, the roar of World Series crowds and the knowledge that there's a lot of current coin of the realm riding on every ball thrown or hit.

Some players turn jittery and are never the same afterward. It's positively painful to watch the poor fellows wilt under the pressure.

But it's a grand and glorious sight to see a real champion stand up and come through in a breath-taking test. For instance:

At Wrigley Field, Chicago, in the World Series of 1932, and the New York Yankees were curry-combing the hapless Chicago Cubs. With 35,000 wild-eyed Chicago rooters giving him the North Side version of the full-flowering razzberry, Babe Ruth stood at the plate facing chunky Charley Root, the veteran Chicago pitcher with a fiery fast ball.

The umpire called a strike. Babe Ruth glared. He didn't like that strike at all. The Wrigley Field rooters taunted the stout Yankee star. He was a big false alarm, or so they told him, with gestures. He couldn't hit the ground with his hat. He couldn't hit the water if he fell out of a boat. Old Charley Root would prove it! The Babe grinned at the mocking multitude and waved a sardonic salute.

Out on the mound Charley Root twisted himself into a knot, unwound and let another ball zip toward the plate. Ruth swung—missed—spun around and almost fell down. Strike two! A louder barrage of taunts, hoots and catcalls came from the uproari-

NEW DEAL GIRLS CAMPS MYSTIFY SOCIAL CRITICS

'Organized Disorganization' Is Label Given by Joseph Thomas to Government Youth Movement

TRAIN JOBLESS GIRLS AIM

Experiment Results in Good and Bad Which Bewilders Reporter of Project

MT. POCONO, Pa., Sept. 15—New Deal wonders are at work in the Pocono hills, site of one of the government's camps for unemployed girls.

Joseph Thomas, reporter for a great national monthly magazine, has just finished an essay of this product of the N.Y.A. and is bewildered by its "organized disorganization."

Regarded by some as rank communism, the effort is admittedly an experiment on the part of the New Deal.

To date, 28 such camps have been opened in 26 states and here 5,000 girls are learning self-discipline while fitting themselves for jobs and while the taxpayers of the country are footing the bill of about $45 per month per girl. Joseph Thomas reports, "Perhaps it is nonsense. Yet it might be wisdom. There were those girls I had seen at the Rhode Island camp, for instance. They were anemic, tired, slumped over, and devoid of energy when they arrived from their homes in Woonsocket, Providence, and the industrial cities of Massachusetts. It looked for a while as if the camp

Chosen 'Miss American' of Month

Miss Betty Hapworth Wins Honor for October; Will Appear Throughout Nation

Because of her innate charm and grace which complement her striking beauty, Miss Betty Hapworth has been chosen from all the thousands of pretty-girl models to be "Miss American for October."

As a result, Miss Hapworth was photographed in full natural colors, arrayed in the latest beach capes from De Pinna. Leaning gracefully against a red, green, and white beach pole, she adorns the cover of the current American Magazine. Her light brunette beauty is looking languidly from all the newsstands from coast to coast.

Miss Hapworth is the most recent of a long line of "Miss Americans"—a list which includes the most beautifully gracious of modern young girls: Cynthia Hope, Marguerite Falkenberg, Kathleen Williams, Katharine Aldridge, Anita Colby, Peggy Farley, Jean Lindsey, Marian Norton, Helen Stamps and Andre Loraine among others.

THERE IS NOT A CITY OR town in the United States that does not have enthusiastic American Magazine readers. And it is a favorite on every college campus.—Advt.

TEXAN RULES AS FEUDAL BARON

Ranch King Makes Own Laws on Domain Big as Rhode Island; Men Swallowed Up Within

KINGSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 15—Feeling is running high here between the retainers of Bob Kleberg's "kingdom" and Texans who live on the other side of the fence. Local residents demand to know what happened to Luther Blanton, 57, and his son, John Blanton, 24, who crossed over the Kleberg bounderies to hunt last year. No word has been heard of them since.

Asked about the mystery today, Kleberg said, "It's just communism." He takes no stock in the story, believing that outsiders are simply jealous of his property, 1,500 square miles in extent, on which 75,000 blooded cattle roam.

Here, men and women have lived almost in a feudal state since the founding of the ranch before the Civil War.

There can be no doubt that the last symbol and stronghold of American individualism and pioneer spirit is now regarded as high-handed imperialism. Kleberg is accused of fail-

Gadgeteers Have Field Day

It seems that despite the constant flow of new devices that make for added comfort and convenience in living, some people are still unsatisfied.

Here are some of the day-dream suggestions which have come to the editor of one of the nation's largest magazines within the past month. Well—why don't they:

KEEP all public libraries open on holidays, when people have the leisure to use them, and give the library employees another day off during the week?

PUT up onion juice in cans, and save housewives the bother of tears when all they want is a little seasoning?

DEVISE a darning egg of glass, with a small flashlight inside, so that one can darn in the evening with greater ease?

MAKE an oblong flower pot and dish to match, so that potted plants could be placed on a narrow window sill and not be broken?

INSTALL valves in bathtubs which will automatically shut off the water when it has reached the required depth?

MAKE hard rubber clothespins, so that women can hang up their stockings to dry without fear of their being torn by splinters?

DRAINS COUNTRY'S INCOME

Outlay Tops 10 Billion Dollars as Rich and Poor Alike are Crazed for Easy Money

NO WORKABLE CURB

Horses, Pin Games, and Jumping Beans Used in Wagers; Racketeers Dominate

Topping the huge figure of 10 billion dollars, an epidemic of gambling is sweeping through metropolitan areas, in cities and hamlets from coast to coast.

Betting to get rich quick, the already-rich, and the poor alike are fattening the purses of racketeers, says Thomas Sugrue, well-known writer reporter, in a comprehensive expose in this month's American Magazine.

Apparently Americans are seeking new roads to quick financial success now that their country's frontiers are closed and fortune-making opportunities do not exist on every hand. Willingness to work is not necessarily the open sesame to a house, a car, and two chickens in every pot. But money can be made: and a lucky number or a lucky horse is all you need.

According to croupiers, gambling machine dealers, and proprietors of gambling resorts, the fever began soon after repeal made drinking dull and cheap. People received so much change from the bills they offered in payment for liquor, they were puzzled as to what to do with it. Former bootleggers and racketeers soon supplied the answer. Policy numbers, and lottery games sprung up. Slot machines and pin games made their appearance by the hundreds of thousands. Even schoolchildren's pennies were coaxed out by candy store gambling devices.

Today guests pout, if a game of hearts, or bridge is suggested without playing for so-much a point. Crap shooting is a fashionable pastime.

Straight bets and dozens of combinations of bets are placed on baseball, whether the first pitch will be a ball or strike, which inning would have the most runs, which team would get the most scoring chances; and the same way in football. Some people even carry Mexican jumping beans. Placed within a circle drawn on a sheet of paper, the bet is on which bean will hop out of the circle first.

Barden Who Cracked Up at Cleveland Chooses Florida Farm and Schoolteacher

MAN-BIRD GROWS PEACOCKS

CLEARWATER, Fla., Sept. 15—Grant Barden, speed-ace who cracked up at the Cleveland Air Races last week, is reported to be doing nicely in his newly acquired Florida farm outside of Clearwater. And June McMasters, pretty young school teacher, and self-appointed guardian of Barden's five-year-old daughter, Holly, is doing well, too.

Grant Barden's new home houses eighty or ninety peacocks. Barden bought them with the farm, found the beauty of the birds pleasant but the amount of food they required a constant and expensive annoyance.

Barden's young daughter likes the birds and June McMasters has indicated that she would be sorry to see them sold and has suggested that Barden make money off them by charging an admission.

Barden, who came to Clearwater to escape crowds, insists he will have no curiosity seeker on his farm.

Despite the fact that he needs money, he steadfastly refuses to collect 25 cents admission from the crowds who pull up to the farm gates seeking permission to view the colorful birds.

But, when Barden was called out of town, progressive energetic June McMasters took things into her own

NAZI MENACE SIMPLE PIMPLE —WM. SEABROOK

Militant Organizations May Be Cancerous, Writer Says, But Are Not Serious Now

GERMAN STOCK PRAISED

Love of Uniforms Probably More Than Love of Hitler Is Cause; Make Fine U. S. Citizens

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—After a coast-to-coast trip into German-American strongholds throughout the country, William Seabrook, world-traveler and reporter, states in the current American Magazine, under the title, "American Uber Alles":

"I believe this Nazi stuff in America is a pimple—but there are two ways of looking at it. Numerically it is certainly no more than a pimple today on the face of German-Americanism, but I more than agree that the mere idea of a military-trained nucleus, no matter what its size, being formed in America today for any purpose other than the defense of America and all things American contains the germs of a malignant growth.

"Regarding Hitlerism in America, our still obviously Germanic population of more than 5,000,000 (including nearly 2,000,000 who are Austrian and Hungarian), divides itself numerically, I think, about as follows:

70 per cent indifferent
20 per cent anti-Nazi
9 per cent pro-Nazi in a sense consistent with loyalty to the U.S.A.
1 per cent, or less, rabidly, militantly Nazi in a not nice way.

"I dare to say that our 5 or 6 million German fellow citizens still in process of melting constitute the most important, most admirable, and least lovable of all our foreign-language race groups."

ANCIENT RITUAL MARKS ADVENT OF YOM KIPPUR

Chicagoans Join World in Day of Atonement.

Sundown last night began the Day of Atonement, known in Hebrew as Yom Kippur, the most sacred day in the Jewish religious calendar, which all members of that faith observe with fasting and prayer. In synagogues throughout the city, voices swelled in the ancient melody of "Kol Nidre," as members of the various congregations rededicated themselves to self-purification.

Until sundown tonight Jews all over the world will be united, as they have at this time for more than 2,000 years, in the ancient rituals and in the spiritual awakening and self-searching the day signifies to every serious member of the faith.

Pray Is Keynote.

In the great "Un 'Saneh tokef" prayer is found the keynote of Yom Kippur. This prayer gives divine assurance that guilt can be atoned for through penitence, prayer, and righteous action.

The ancient temple service included a dramatic moment when the high priest retired into the Holy of Holies to plead for the forgiveness of his people. In the modern ceremonies each individual seeks atonement without an intermediary.

Throngs of worshipers assembled at Temple Sholom, 3486 Lake Shore drive, where Dr. Louis Binstock preached on "Ghetto Judaism," and at Congregation Anshe Emet, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street. Rabbi Solomon Goldman, assisted by Rabbi Sidney Guthman of the Jewish Theological seminary, New York, conducted services at the latter recently completed building.

Another large body of worshipers gathered at the North Shore Congregation Israel, in Glencoe, where Rabbi Charles E. Shulman spoke on "A People That Have Outlived Time." Services will be held there at 10 o'clock this morning and 3 o'clock this afternoon. "The Character of Sorrow" will be the sermon topic this afternoon. BRITAIN INVITES LEAGUE TO PROBE PALESTINE SPLIT

Urges Fixing of Terms with Jews, Arabs.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today urged the league of nation's council to appoint a special commission to visit Palestine and negotiate terms with Arabs and Jews to make the British partition plan acceptable to them.

Britain, as the holder of a league mandate over Palestine, already has reported to the league mandates commission on its plan to split the Holy Land into separate Jewish and Arab nations and a British-mandated territory.

Eden suggested that the proposed body make necessary financial and boundary inquiries and submit a detailed plan to Britain. Later he said, a final boundary demarcation commission would be needed, but he conceded that settlement of the Holy Land question is a long way from sight.

Seek Real "National Home."

Eden expressed Britain's conviction that partition is the "only ultimate solution." He pointed out, for one thing, that it would establish Palestine as a national home for the Jewish people.

Noting the mandates commission's interest in the reduction of Jewish immigration to a total of 8,000 persons in the next eight months, Eden declared the limitation was merely a temporary measure. What happens after next March 31, he said, will depend on the progress made with the partition scheme.

A special committee consisting of the Rumanian, Swedish, and Latvian representatives was named to draft Eden's proposals into a resolution and offer it at the next council meeting.

Haile Selassie Gives Report.

Exiled Emperor Haile Selassie today told the league of nations his African domain still is bitterly resisting Italy's army of occupation.

From his refuge in England the negus sent a letter to the league asserting that Il Duce's legions occupy merely "strategic points" in Ethiopia. Italy claims complete dominion.

Italian exploratory columns sent into the interior have been withdrawn, said Selassie, because of hostility of the natives who severed communications and prevented arrival of supplies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

A speedy dissolution of the marriage is expected when the case reaches the court. An initial hearing was held in the court of the first instance on Sept. 3, when the countess' pleas was filed. The cause of action was given as "by mutual agreement."

The girls wore sunbonnets and gingham gowns and the boys wore straw hats, red bandannas, and overalls. The gents went 'round the ladies and the ladies went 'round the gents in an old fashioned dance, while the fiddlers fiddled such old tunes as "The Irish Washerwoman," "Raggedy Ann," and "Buffalo Gal" in the Grant park bandshell last night. The occasion was the square dance and old time fiddlers' contests, part of the Chicago Charter Jubilee farm week program. Marty's Hayloft dancers of Batavia, Ill., won first prize among thirteen square dance teams. Allen Breed of Iron Mountain, Mich., won the fiddlers' contest. Charles Cutshaw, 84 years old, of Joliet won the most attention. He drew a tuneful bow despite the loss of his right hand in a corn sheller forty-seven years ago.

U. OF CHICAGO TO GET PART OF ISHAM ESTATE

A large part of the estate of Ralph Isham, former Chicagoan, eventually will go to the University of Chicago and the Chicago Y. M. C. A., under terms of a will filed for probate yesterday at Santa Barbara, Cal. Mr. Isham, who was 72 years old, died Aug. 24 at Santa Barbara.

No estimate was placed on the value of the estate, but it is believed to be several million dollars. Mrs. Mary Otis Isham, widow of Mr. Isham, was bequeathed his estate in Montecito, Cal., and his books, paintings, and personal effects. Mr. Isham's properties in Chicago were left to the heirs of his brother, the late Dr. George Snow Isham, and to his sisters, Katherine Isham Farwell, and Harriet Isham Carpenter.

The rest of the estate, the will ordered, is to be placed in trust, the income of which will go to Mrs. Isham during her lifetime. At her death half of this fund will go to Mrs. Isham's heirs, one-fourth to the Y. M. C. A. for maintenance of the Lucy Keep Isham Memorial building at Larrabee street and North avenue, and one-fourth for the establishment of the Ralph Isham scholarship and salary fund at the University of Chicago.

SOUTH BEND GIRL FINDS A FATHER AFTER 15 YEARS

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Virginia Lee Cole, 19 years old, of South Bend, Ind., was reunited today with the father she had not seen for fifteen years.

Miss Cole, a singer whose last engagement was with a Winnemucca, Nev., orchestra, arrived in San Francisco twelve days ago to seek her father, Howard Trim Cole, last reported in that city. But the Howard T. Cole whom she found was not her parent, and the girl departed for South Bend.

In the meantime her father, Oakland beauty operator, had heard of the search. He succeeded in reaching her en route east. Yesterday Virginia returned to Oakland and found her father waiting.

COUNTRY JUDGE TEST CASE BOGS COOK CO. COURTS

Will Be Short Handed Pending Decision.

When Cook county courts resume their full schedules for the fall term next Monday, they will be handicapped by a lack of judges due to the questionable legality of engaging country judges to sit in Chicago.

Downstate judges have been sitting in the Circuit, Superior, County, and Probate courts for years, whenever the incumbent judges needed assistance. The country judges have been paid by the county in addition to the salary they receive from their own circuits.

Last Spring Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes questioned the county's right to pay the judges and Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee filed a test suit which is to be decided by the state Supreme court this fall.

Circuit Court Hardest Hit.

Pending this decision the Circuit and Superior courts have made no provision for outside help. This will be a greater hardship on the Circuit court, which has only 20 regular judges, and with assignments to the Juvenile, the Appellate and Criminal courts, there will be only 13 to handle the regular business of the law, chancery and divorce divisions.

The death of three judges have left the Superior court with 25. But only 15 are available for regular duty, due to Appellate and Criminal court assignments.

Help Jarecki Without Pay.

Should the Supreme court rule that no visitors can help out in Cook county, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's business would be seriously handicapped. He normally uses several downstaters to assist him. They are continuing to help, but have drawn no pay for the last several months, pending the Supreme court ruling.

While Probate Judge John F. O'Connell has several lawyers who serve as assistants, he also is assisted by visiting judges when the docket becomes crowded. The question of the Marriage court, presided over by a downstater, also will be determined by the high court's decision.

MRS. ROSE DOYLE DIES AT 88 AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Rose Doyle, 88 years old, a resident of Chicago since 1855, died yesterday at her home, 6533 Glenwood avenue, following an illness of several months. She was the widow of James M. Doyle, civil war veteran who served as captain with the Twenty-third Illinois Volunteers, commonly called Mulligan's guards.

Mrs. Doyle was born in Lexington, Ky., and was brought to Chicago by her father, Charles Donnelly. She was the mother of the late Leo J. Doyle, one-time assistant corporation counsel and Municipal court judge.

Survivors are a son, the Rev. Charles I. Doyle, and two daughters, Julia and Eleanor. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. from the residence to St. Ignatius church. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

CLIMBERS LEAD WAY FOR SCIENCE TO SKY FOREST

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Expert mountain climbers—vanguard of a scientific expedition, on the trail of biological history—chartered a perilous 1,200 foot ascent today to the Grand canyon's "forest in the sky."

Between the climbers and wild Shiva temple, a land jut believed untrod by humans, lie an encircling chasm and a precipitous, eroded wall. The scientists must depend upon the experience of their climbers, who will lower ropes when once they have conquered the forbidding plateau.

A signal fire, ignited by Supt. M. R. Tillotson of Grand Canyon National park, will herald the triumph. Then the scientists will begin an intensive exploration of the 275 acre area.

HAY FEVER'S END IN SIGHT, POLLEN EXPERT REPORTS

It will soon be safe for hay fever victims to return from their refuge in the north woods. O. C. Durham, botanist of the Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago, yesterday announced that the air should be almost completely clear of ragweed pollen, principal cause of hay fever, by Sept. 25.

The victims may possibly return with safety before then, Mr. Durham said, but some chance still remains of a rise in the daily count of ragweed pollen. There have been years when a count of 100 grains per cubic yard was noted as late as Sept. 25. On Monday the count remained low at 9, but a test made yesterday afternoon revealed a count of 68.

CZECHS MOURN MASARYK, FIRST CHIEF OF NATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 14.—All Czechoslovakia was in mourning today for Dr. Thomas Garrigue Masaryk, first president and national hero, who died at the age of 87 years.

Flags in Prague and at Castle Lany, the residence given Dr. Masaryk by the people, were at half staf. Country folk from the neighborhood of the castle uncovered their heads and bent their knees in silent prayer.

Masaryk became president of the Czechoslovakian state when it won independence in 1918 and was reelected in 1920, 1927, and 1934. He retired in December, 1935, because of advancing age, and spent his final years at Castle Lany as a country squire.

A special cabinet council was called to decide the details of the public mourning and the funeral. A death mask was made today. The body will be brought to Prague Thursday to lie in state for three days at the presidential residence. Hradschin, the ancient castle of Bohemian kings, high on a hill overlooking Prague.

49 FARMERS WHO CUT LIGHT POLES WILL FACE COURT

Bellevue, O., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Lake Erie Power and Light company faced tonight a court test with a group of farmers who felled 27 poles in an effort to avert construction of a new power line. The farmers are seeking to obtain service, instead, from the government's rural electrification administration.

The company abandoned its immediate efforts to construct the mile long line at nearby Fireside, O., after farmers sawed and chopped poles and left wires in a tangle along a road.

The concern, an independent power company serving a wide territory between Cleveland and Toledo, looked to a hearing tomorrow on an injunction suit to restrain 49 defendants from interfering with power company workmen and the construction of the line.

MISS AMERICA WANTS THRONE IF STILL THERE

Hackettstown, N. J., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Miss America climbed right back on her throne today, but the Atlantic City beauty contest officials were not so ready to forgive and forget.

Bette Cooper, 17 years old, explained it all was a mistake. "It was that $1,000 baby lamb fur coat I was supposed to get," the pretty high school senior said. "After I won, they handed me a letter saying I could have the coat for $800. Daddy thought the whole thing must be a gyp, so we left. I don't like baby lamb, so they said I could have a $1,000 mink."

Bette was willing to go back to Atlantic City, but that didn't seem to interest the beauty contest officials very much. Miss Texas, Miss New York, Miss Westchester County, and Miss Bronx, completed today their 5 day vaudeville engagement during which Miss America also was to appear. But Miss Cooper does not even want to go to Hollywood, unless she got a real good chance at a contract, then she even would go by air.

On Friday Bette will sit on a reviewing stand while her town parades in her honor. Then there will be a banquet during which city officials will present her with a watch and will make speeches.

X-RAY DETECTION OF FROST BITTEN FRUIT DESCRIBED

Radiology Congress Told of Novel Uses.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

During the severe frosts in California recently a large part of the orange crop was ruined. It was necessary to determine which oranges had been frost bitten and which had not. An X-ray apparatus was set up, and by its operation the ruined oranges and the good ones were separated.

This, said Dr. William D. Coolidge yesterday, is one of the latest uses of the X-ray, science's powerful contribution to the treatment of disease and the needs of industry. Dr. Coolidge spoke at the fifth international congress of radiology at the Palmer house. He is director of the research laboratory of the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., and is the inventor of the standard modern X-ray tube.

Describes Powerful Ray.

"We have developed an X-ray in our laboratories that will penetrate 5 inches of steel," he said. "X-rays are produced by the sudden stoppage of electrical charges by a target. With an electric charge of 100,000 volts, we find that about one-tenth of one per cent of the energy is used by the ray, the remainder of the energy being heat."

Discussing the use of X-ray therapy for cancer, Dr. Coolidge said that the present theory is that cancerous tissue is more sensitive to X-rays than is normal tissue.

"If we could increase the X-ray intensity by a great amount," he said, "the treatment might be more successful. We are now trying to do this by developing a 2,000 ampere tube. The present therapy uses a tube of only a few thousandths of an ampere."

Inventor Explains Device.

A new ultra-sensitive electrometer which measures accurately the quality, quantity, and intensity of X-rays emanating from a tube was explained to the radiologists yesterday by its inventor, Dr. Gustav Bucky of New York.

"The electrometer," he said, "is connected with the source of electricity feeding the tube and controls exactly the amount of X-rays set by the physician. If the X-ray machine varies, even in the slightest degree, the electrometer shuts it off immediately."

Dr. Hayes E. Martin, attending surgeon at Memorial hospital in New York, declared at one session of the congress that cancer of the tongue, lip, and cheek is becoming increasingly curable. Early diagnosis is aiding in the cures.

Tells Cancer Therapy Advance.

"In 1885," he said, "the medical profession considered that a cancer was cured if a patient even survived the operation. Today, three or five years, or even ten or twenty year cures, during which period the disease does not return, are the physician's yardstick for measuring the success of surgery or X-ray and radium therapy for cancer."

Dr. Arthur W. Erskine of Cedar Rapids, Ia., also emphasized that early detection of cancer is a great factor in its cure.

MEXICAN COLONY TO MARK 117TH YR. OF INDEPENDENCE

The 117th anniversary of Mexico's independence will be observed by the 30,000 members of Chicago's Mexican colony with four days of festivity, beginning tonight at the Ashland auditorium, Van Buren street and Ashland avenue. The opening ceremony will be of a solemn, official nature with Antonio L. Schmidt, Mexican consul in Chicago, presiding. It will recall, with pageant and song, the night of Sept. 15, 1810, when Hidalgo, a poor curate, uttered the famous Grito de Dolores [cry of the oppressed] which led to the uprising. Beginning at noon tomorrow a three day festival will be held at Pilsen park, 26th and Albany streets.

Mother Identifies Amnesia Victim; Police Hunt His Car

Police were searching last night for the automobile of Earl Luck, 28 years old, 415 East Auer avenue, Milwaukee, amnesia victim who was found early yesterday at Milwaukee and Peterson avenues. Luck, a school teacher, was identified by his mother, Mrs. Caroline Auer, at the Edgewater hospital. Luck said he left Milwaukee to drive to Chicago and could not remember what became of his car. Blisters on his feet indicated that he had tramped a long distance.

ILLINOIS OFFICIAL RENEWS FIGHT ON DISTILLERS' GIFT

Demands Showdown on Convention.

Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, yesterday reiterated his intention of resigning from the national council of state liquor administrators if an early settlement is not reached in the controversy concerning a contribution by the Distillers institute for entertainment and expenses of the recent convention of the council at Mackinac Island.

The Distillers institute is an organization of representatives of the distilling industry. The council is composed of representatives of state liquor control boards which have jurisdiction over the distillers.

Finds Reason Unsatisfactory.

Smith said an explanation made by George Eppley, who presided at the convention, concerning the offer of $5,000 by the distillers group is not satisfactory.

"If the $5,000 was received by the council and used to pay expenses of the convention," said Mr. Smith, "it must be paid back. If it is not returned I will resign as an official of the council and the Illinois board will retire from the organization."

Described as Fees.

Eppley, who is chairman of the Ohio liquor control commission, said in Cleveland yesterday that so far as he knew the $5,000 was accepted and spent by the convention officials. He denied, however, that it was a contribution.

He explained that representatives of the liquor industry are permitted to attend the convention on payment of a $25 registration fee. The $5,000, he said, was paid by the institute to take care of registration fees for such of its members as might attend.

Calls Affair Unfortunate.

Smith replied last night that Eppley's explanation sounded like a subterfuge. He asserted, however, that former officials of the council should not be blamed individually for accepting the money but that the whole occurrence was unfortunate and must not be repeated.

A meeting of the executive committee of the council to investigate the affair is scheduled at New York on Sept. 21. It was called by William P. Hayes, newly elected chairman of the council and chairman of the Massachusetts state board.

ORDERS INQUIRY IN RECEIVERSHIPS UNDER NEW LAW

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday he had ordered an investigation of all receiverships under the Skarda law, which empowered courts to name the county treasurer receiver for tax delinquent properties. Eugene O'Connor, investigator for the state's attorney's office, will be in charge of the inquiry and will be aided by Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall V. Kearney, William T. Crilly, and Frank J. Christenson. Since the Skarda law went into effect in 1933 tax receivers have handled properties on which millions of dollars' worth of taxes were delinquent. O'Connor declined to discuss specific cases involved in the inquiry, explaining the files on all cases would be scrutinized.

49 GAMBLING CASES DISMISSED.

Fifty-seven defendants charged with gambling were arraigned yesterday before Judge Eugene McGarry. Forty-nine were dismissed and the cases of eight were continued.

Report True Bills Against Absconding Office Boys

True bills were reported to have been voted yesterday against Francis Hecox, 19 years old, and Robert J. Potter, 18 years old, charging larceny. They were office boys who walked out of the Reuben H. Donnelley Publishing company on June 30, with $2,695, took a rented automobile and drove to Texas, where they were apprehended.

ENDS 54 YEARS' SERVICE AS RAIL LINE CONDUCTOR

Edward Patrick [Paddy] Carey will light his new pipe today, settle back in an easy chair in his home at 308 Grand Lake boulevard, West Chicago, and begin to take things easy for the rest of his life.

Paddy made his last run yesterday as a conductor on the Chicago and North Western railroad's Galena division, completing 54 years of service. Passengers on No. 42 gave him the pipe, a full tobacco pouch, and $10. It was a birthday as well as a retirement gift, for Paddy turns 70 today.

Walter A. Croake, 77 years old, 5724 Bishop street, retired yesterday after 60 years of uninterrupted service with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway company. Only one employé of the railroad has a longer service record. He is T. J. McDermott, commercial agent, who started three years before Croake and still is working. Croake started in 1877 on the Dolly Varden route of the Chicago, Danville and Vincennes Railroad company.

Lecture Series Announced by University of Chicago

The University of Chicago school of business yesterday announced that five lectures will be given at the Art institute this fall by faculty members on the general subject of government regulation and the business outlook. The lectures will be given Oct. 15, Oct. 22, Oct. 29, Nov. 5, and Nov. 12.

MY LIVING

It goes right back to my being in business all for myself. I can't afford to take chances on losing any customers. The finest way I've found to hold them, is by having an oil that isn't always making you add another quart, and keeps the engine quiet. That's why I specially want to tell you about my Conoco Germ Processed oil. Nothing mysterious. The big improvement you get is on account of a plain big difference. Now your everyday oil naturally just flows around. It can't stay up through the engine all by itself. But Germ Processed oil absolutely does. The patent Germ Process makes it form the nearest thing to a permanent layer of oil—a real plating of oil all through the engine. There's what they mean by Oil-Plating, which doesn't keep getting all used up. And it can't ever fail to keep real good lubrication on every last part of your engine, all the while you use Conoco Germ Processed oil. No other oil can Oil-Plate your engine. Which gives my station quite an edge with folks wanting to be economical but safe on their oil.

Questionnaire Will Help You Survey Charms

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Yesterday we gave you a little questionnaire on physical things such as your figure, your chinline, and your mouth corners just by way of inspiring a little heavy fall action toward better figures, firmer chinlines, and sweeter mouths. Today let's offer a short questionnaire on items of charm that, too, may be included in the fall improvement program.

1. Have you learned to handle your legs and feet gracefully in sitting position? Crossing a little above the knee rather than just at the knee? If you're fat you can't do it, but if your weight is right you can give a more charming line to yourself, frock, and company if you sit gracefully.

2. Have you looked into the tonal quality of your voice? If no one has ever told you that you had a good speaking voice the chances are that you haven't. The moral is obvious.

3. If you are asked to repeat what you said by several different people they can't all be deaf, so the fault must lie in mumbly speech. Check on it, anyway.

4. Any one told you lately that your hair always is so nice? If it is that's what people say. If it isn't they say nothing to your face but what they may say behind your back is something on which to ponder.

5. Have you corrected that common fault, if it is yours by chance, of interrupting people before they can finish their sentences so you can tell yours?

6. Are you what Gelett Burgess calls a mugger, giving vent to emotional exhibitions that distort the facial expression? Or a face feeler, pawing away at the cheeks, pulling away at the chin?

7. Do you keep your fingers over your mouth as you talk?

8. When you sit do you crowd your neck down into your chest like a turtle or do you hold that head up tall and handsome?

9. Can you take it when some one close tells you of a habit or mannerism that is unpleasant?

10. Do you keep yourself up to date by getting around and contacting new ideas, new styles, new departures? Or are you a Yesterday's Girl, always belittlin' the new order?

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some time ago a whole flock of preparations of a special formula for the care and feeding of sensitive skins made their appearance amid cheers. Women dashed madly for them and found them so pleasant and efficient that now their maker has them all nicely arrayed in a smart kit.

The bag itself is a sensibly sized one of alligator fabricoid in brown, with a quite handsome lining of moire in tan. The front sides of the bag falls down when you unsnap it, revealing the five preparations standing upright, easily reached.

Cream is what the beauty doctors order for the very dry skin. Here you have not one, but three, each designed to banish the condition and each specially concocted for the sort of skin that's paper thin and sensitive to the maddening point.

The largest jar in the kit contains cleansing cream, of course. This is a cream that has softening as well as cleansing virtues; you have the satisfaction of knowing that it does its bit in the oiling cause while it removes grime.

The special cream, about which all the preparations are arranged, is in the tissue cream class. It's marvelously rich and miraculously effective in clearing up the flaky state which is the bane of the dry skinned woman's existence. The third of the unguents is for dry skin of the body.

Even the powder is specially compounded for extremely sensitive skins. The tonic lotion, to be used after cleansing with cream, is mild as milk but more bracing and "clean feeling."

This kit of preparations is a beauty find. A good gift—but even better as private property if you're dry skinned.

Dashing Fall Styles Worn at Tennis Meet

The international tennis matches yesterday at the Onwentsia were a strong argument in favor of tennis as a spectator sport. As it turned out, even the uncertain weather was an advantage. As the crowds gathered there was much shaking of heads over the wind, but canvas screens kept most of it from the court and grandstands, and the overcoats and rugs that foresighted fans had brought proved superfluous.

The cloudy skies prevented both heat and glare, and only for rare moments did onlookers in the east bleachers have to shield their eyes from the sun.

There was just one drawback, the tennis was too good. The doubles matches between the Germans and the Americans were prolonged until almost 6 o'clock.

It was a colorful spectacle, with an array of dashing fall costumes and just enough summer clothes left to turn the grandstands into bands of vivid color between the terra cotta courts and the green background of elms. Not one of the 3,500 spectators—several dozen stood throughout the afternoon—was more than a few feet from the courts, and it was possible for every one to see the least movement and to hear every exclamation of the players.

After the women's doubles match there was a good deal of comment among the feminine spectators on the cut of Miss Anita Lizana's shorts. Smallest of the players, the new national women's tennis singles champion wore a costume cut on especially graceful lines, ending just short of the knees.

Among the many just back from vacations who were there were Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, in a white flecked blue wool suit and matching hat, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, who was with Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin.

Mrs. John Andrews King, tanned after her summer in Maine, had a party of friends in one box, and her young sons had several friends in another. Nearby her sister, Mrs. Charles S. Delong, was hostess to a dozen debutantes, friends of Miss Janet Gregory, the Stephen S. Gregorys' daughter.

Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. and Mrs. Hugh McBirney Johnston, who watched the matches together from a center box, were among those in summer clothes, though both wore woolen coats with their white turbans. Mrs. Conway Olmsted, in a red woolen hat and coat, Mr. Olmsted, Mr. Johnston, and Hulburd Johnston were with them.

Also in summer clothes, all white, was Mrs. Robert S. Pirie. She was seated with her mother-in-law, Mrs. John T. Pirie, who wore one of the new poke bonnet hats trimmed with a large pink rose. Mrs. Jefferson Currier was one of the hatless few, and another was Mrs. John L. King, who left early with Mrs. R. Martin Stevenson.

The Huntington B. Henrys had a family party that included the Gordon P. Kelleys and Miss Annie May Henry, who wore a becoming suit and turban of ochre wool. A party of boys were guests of Mrs. William Roy Carney and her sons, William and Otis.

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack wore one of the new plaid suits and a tan beret, and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors had a turban to match her checked suit.

Miss Virginia Winston, one of the many able tennis players among the onlookers, had on one of the pointed phrygian caps in the same nubby gray wool as her suit. Mrs. George A. Ranney, whose daughters, Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley and Mrs. Wyndham Hasler, both were there, wore a green and paisley turban with her smart green knitted suit.

Temple Sholom Presents New Choir of Eight

In its Kol Nidre service in observance of Yom Kippur evening, Temple Sholom last night presented for the first time a new choir composed of eight well known Chicago singers and directed by George Shapiro.

The members of the choir are Esther Hart and Agatha Lewis, sopranos; Ruth Slater and Sylvia Loder Stone, contraltos; Charles Sears and William Ross, tenors; Edward Stack, baritone, and Winfred Stracke, basso. Accompanied by Lawrence Goldberg, organist, the choir sang with commendable balance and beauty of tone. The solo parts sung by Mr. Sears were marked by a smooth and well inflected legato style.

A part of the liturgy was sung to ancient chants newly recovered and arranged by Mr. Shapiro. Some of these chants are said to date back as far as the twelfth century. To the untutored ear, however, they seemed to have been placed in a setting of too sugary harmony, thereby losing the quality of ecclesiastical austerity so valuable in old chants.—C. M. S.

Star Puzzle.

BY NANCY CABOT.

There are the well known "Yankee Puzzle" and "The Dutchman's Puzzle" and a half a dozen well known puzzle designs, but the one with the fewest patches is the simple and extremely good looking "Star Puzzle." The center star is composed of a combination of printed and white materials, while the outer star is done in solid blue. The finished star is appliqued on a 15 inch white square. These thirty applique blocks are set together with four inch bands of white material, and surrounded by a four inch border finished with a half inch bias binding. The bands between the blocks are not quilted, while the puzzle is done in outlines.

Less Expensive Cuts of Meat May Be Tasty

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The stubborn refusal of steak and chop addicts to admit the existence of other meats keeps butcher's bills unnecessarily high. Cheaper cuts of meat are just as nutritious and appease hunger just as well. Prepared carefully, they needn't suffer at all by comparison.

Hamburger balls prepared from ground beef may be served rare, medium, or well done, in the manner of a steak. When they are cooked gently in tomato sauce, according to today's recipe, they are every bit as delicious as the best of chops or steaks. And they're quite easy to prepare in a short time.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S DINNER.
Hamburger-Tomato Balls
Baked Potatoes
Carrot Sticks and Radishes
Grape and Apple Salad
Drop Biscuits [Prepared Mix]
Butterscotch Pudding
Coffee

Hamburger-Tomato Balls.

[Serves Six.]

1½ pounds ground beef
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 egg

Combine ingredients, shape into balls, roll in flour, and brown in a little hot fat. Cover with the following sauce and simmer for 20 minutes.

SAUCE: Two cups strained tomatoes, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, sprinkling of pepper, several drops Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup grated cheese. Gradually add tomatoes to blended butter and flour, and cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Add seasonings and cheese and stir until cheese melts. Pour over meat balls and finish as described.

If the potatoes are large cut them in two to shorten the baking time. Brush with unsalted fat on skin and cut surface and place in hot oven. The potatoes should bake in about the time required to prepare and cook the meat.

Diced apples and halved and seeded grapes need only the addition of a little mayonnaise to make the salad. If the apple skins aren't shriveled or tough they should be left on so that the salad may be as colorful as possible.

Drop biscuits differ from ordinary biscuits in that a little more milk is used to mix the dough, which is dropped by the spoonful onto a floured baking sheet. This will take only a few seconds with a prepared mix. The biscuits may be set aside until about ten minutes before serving time, when they may be popped into the oven to bake during the final potato baking period.

Butterscotch Pudding.

[Serves Four.]

1 tablespoon butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups milk
3 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt the butter, add brown sugar and cook over low heat until sugar melts. Add slowly to hot milk in top of double boiler and stir until blended. Mix cornstarch and salt to a paste with a small amount of water or cold milk. Pour into the hot mixture, stirring vigorously until the pudding thickens. Cover and let cook for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent lumping. Cool slightly and add vanilla. Pudding may be served with cream or be chilled and molded.

REPEAT ASKING BID AFTER FOUR NO TRUMP.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When the response to the first asking bid is four no trump, a repeat asking bid requires partner to specify the exact holding on which his four no trump response was made.

The responses to a repeat asking bid, when it follows a four no trump response to a previous asking bid in that suit, are as follows:

1. If the four no trump response was based on second round control in the asked suit, and two outside aces, the responder now signs off in the agreed trump suit.

2. If the four no trump response was based on the ace of the asked suit and one outside ace, the outside ace now is shown. If it is the ace of the agreed trump suit, a jump of one trick is required, to distinguish it from the sign-off.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade king and, when his partner followed with the deuce, shifted to the club jack. [East was correct in not high-lowing spades. He did not particularly want to ruff and, besides, knew that South probably had no more than two spades.] Dummy covered, South ruffed East's ace with a low heart and, his face lighting at the prospect of getting rid of the spade queen on the established club king, led a heart to dummy's king. When West showed out, declarer's face blanched perceptibly. But that was not an effective means of combatting the 5-0 trump distribution. Instead of guiding himself by the bad news in the trump suit, South went doggedly ahead with his cherished plan. He led dummy's club king, and discarded the spade queen.

In order to bring East back to his own trump level, declarer now began to run off diamonds. East ruffed the third round, and returned a club. Declarer ruffed with the heart jack and still found himself "one down to East" in the matter of trump length. The fourth diamond lead allowed the discard of dummy's last club, but East again ruffed and now returned a spade. Again declarer had to ruff. The play of another diamond and discard of dummy's last spade prevented the opponents from ruffing down declarer any further, since dummy's trumps now protected him. But East again ruffed, this time for the setting trick.

Declarer's passion to get rid of the "losing" spade had been his undoing. When the bad heart break came to light, he should not have dreamed of releasing the two guards that were an effective barricade against further forces by the enemy. I refer to the club king and the spade queen. At the point where dummy's heart king was used, declarer should have abandoned trumps to run diamonds. East could ruff the third round, but then would be helpless. His best return would be a spade. South's queen would lose to the ace, but dummy's jack would remain as a bulwark against further "forces."

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct opening bid on the following:

♠ 8 ♥ A J 9 6 4 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A K 8 5 4?

Close Shave—
Chintz—
Reminiscence—
Bible Reader.

IT is Huntington B. Henry's story. Says it happened in a La Salle street restaurant. A man came in, sat down at a table, and ordered a ham sandwich. When it was placed before him he looked at it critically, took the two thin slices of bread apart and gazed at the tiny little piece of ham which was sliced paper thin. Then he called the waiter.

"Who sliced this ham?" he inquired.

"The chef, sir," said the waiter.

"Tell him he almost missed," said the man.

* *

PERHAPS it has been out for a long time and we just caught up with it, but there is a "Gone with the Wind" drapery chintz. In the pattern are six pictures supposedly inspired by the novel—one of a Negro picking cotton, one of confederate soldiers loading a cannon, one of a fort being shelled, one of a steamboat, one of three or four young women riding with a chaperon, and one of four figures idling in front of a southern mansion, supposedly Scarlett, Rhett Butler, Melanie, and Ashley.

THE other day an elderly man picked up from a sidewalk a long piece of wire that had nearly tripped several pedestrians. Then he took out a little notebook and made a notation. One of our volunteer stooges—ever faithful—went right up and asked him about his notation. The man told him, too. Said he tried to do three good deeds a day, and that was the second for the day.

* *

HIS action brought to mind the little verse we had learned as a child when we were made to memorize a little moral precept for every letter of the alphabet. The one for "C" was, we remember, "Count that day lost whose low descending sun views from thy hand no worthy action done." The ones for "A" and for "B" come to mind, too, but the rest have been forgotten. The "A" one was the golden rule—"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." The "B" one was "Be loyal to truth always." Wonder if children nowadays learn such moral quotations?

* *

EVEN a person given to snap judgments might have been a little confused about the young man on the elevated on a recent morning. He was reading his Bible. And for a bookmark he had a list of cocktail recipes.

Fall Fashions Are Accorded Full Approval

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Just as exciting as a movie première are the current fashion showings of new fall and winter clothes. With just as appreciative audiences, with all the lights and color, the fashion parade gets off to a perfect start. Huge hats, the dramatics for the simple, smart black dresses, sometimes are veiled and sometimes not. Inky black accessories of bags, gloves, and matching footgear have the barbaric gleam of heavy gold or silver jewelry.

Skirts are definitly shorter, streamlines are as smooth as the skin of a grape, and never has there been such a lavish display of fur trim on skirts, dresses, and coats.

Slithering long dress parade gowns of fabulously beautiful metallic brocades and wide skirted cocktail dresses of equally opulent metallics are high lights of the newly unpacked collections. And velvet is used for everything from slim street suits to full skirted evening creations. Two-toned taffeta lines beautiful evening coats of velvet and taffeta bands alternate with wool in crisp, smart daytime dresses you'll wear with or without furs. Muffs of fabric or wool or fur or any and all of these in combines are sensational accessories for simple streamlined street clothes.

New color contrasts for the veil addicts are found in navy blue and brown. When you've seen navy blue veils worn with otherwise black outfits you'll cheer this new fashion trick just sponsored by a famous hat maker that knows all the tricks of the game.

Big suede bags made like gypsy pouches are new. They come in brown and black and are worn over the wrist. They look delightfully casual and go with afternoon as well as daytime clothes. Inside, a generous sized flat envelope purse to carry cash and mirror and extra gadgets . . . these go especially well with all the big hats and thickly wrinkled gloves of suede.

Early fall hosiery gets more torrid in tone, if that is possible . . . copper, carrot, and a new breath taking shade almost like grape. Suits that consist of a slim straight skirt with a deep hem of flat fur and a boxy type jacket coat are the big surprises of the showings and despite their expensiveness they are going out fast.

Fashion photograph . . . ready for the first nippy morning . . . the lounging robe de luxe . . . fashioned of soft wool similar to the fabric in a swanky polo coat. Even the tailored lines of a polo coat have been copied in pockets, lapels, and tie sash belt. This robe reaches the ankles and comes in a lovely shade of pink, beige, and a gray oyster white. The ascot scarf is of scarlet printed silk. The robe will be found in a Chicago shop.

St. Louis Playgoers Seek to Guarantee Stage Runs of Hits

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 14.—(AP)—"Tovarich," international comedy hit, will be the first play from Broadway to test a new attendance plan designed to give stage productions a reasonable opportunity for success in St. Louis.

When the play opens here Sept. 27 the audience will include members of the Playgoers of St. Louis, Inc., a newly organized group seeking to lure New York hits by promising a minimum guaranteed attendance.

Under the plan members agree to deposit $25 for seats desired during the theater season and tickets are issued against the deposit. When depleted additional funds are requested. The group seeks 1,500 subscribers.

Looking at Hollywood

BY ED SULLIVAN.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—At 1:30 p. m. on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot, Shirley Temple's teacher, Frances Klant, called the curly haired youngster away from the rehersal stage [where she's practicing her part in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"] to go to school.

The California law insists on four hours' schooling a day for children and there is no exception made. . . . On the Universal lot, an hour later, I saw Deanna Durbin, 1⁴ year old Canadian sensation, learning arithmetic from her private tutor, Mrs. Mary West.

A few nights ago, at the Pantages theater, hard boiled cinema veterans toasted Miss Durbin's performance in "100 Men and a Girl," but today she was just another school girl. . . . In Beverly-Wilshire, Al Jolson, Ben Bernie, and Herman Bernie plotting out a radio program. . . . In the Brown Derby the smart-crackers giggling over the Wallace Beery accident. . . . Beery recently was made a sherif, the papers pointing out that he was a crack shot. . . . A few days later he wounded himself with a blank cartridge on the Metro lot.

On stage five, at Metro's giant studios, Joan Crawford and Director Frank Borzage interrupt a scene in "Mannequin" to welcome this reporter to his new assignment. . . . "The night we had dinner at '21 in New York I said you belonged in Hollywood," remembers la Crawford, "and here you are." . . . Borzage, the Salt Lake City boy who made good, is making a pipe as he supervises the huge derrick or boom on which the cameramen are riding. . . . It is to be a camera shot of Joan mounting two flights of tenement steps, and the climax of the scene comes when she breaks the electric light in the hallway, the flickering light that epitomizes all of her sordid tenement surroundings.

They are just about to make the scene when Joan gets an idea: "Hey Frank," she says, "which way does an electric bulb fly when you smash it?" . . . She tries it out, boffs the bulb with her pocketbook and the glass sprinkles clear. . . . The boy in the scene with her, who will play opposite Spencer Tracy, is Alan Curtis, a Chicagoan, who is going places. . . . He was an advertising model, a bill collector, and a taxicab driver. . . . Now he's sharing the spotlight with Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy.

On stage 12, at the RKO studio, Director Raoul Walsh telling Lily Pons she ought to buy a racing stable. . . . "Hay, Hay" cracks Jack Oakie, and draws a pained frown from Edward Everett Horton. . . . On lot 2, at Metro, ponies are hitched to racks outside a Wells-Fargo express office and your reporter stares in amazement at a typical western mining town street. . . . This is where they are shooting "The Bad Man of Brimstone," but the bright yellow sweater of Director J. Walter Ruben offers an effete note. . . . I am talking with Virginia Bruce, who is really an eyeful, when Bruce Cabot, Guy Kibbee, and Joseph Calleia break in on me. . . . "Go away and leave me alone," I tell these Broadway duffins, but it is no go.

"How's your golf, sucker," asks Cabot. . . . I tell him that it is probably good enough to beat him. . . . "Well, on Sunday, you and Fred Astaire and myself have a date". . . . He fingers the revolver at his side suggestively. . . "You'll be there, of course." . . . Kibbee and Calleia close in on me, each thumbing a revolver . . . so I said yes . . . but when I turned back, the Bruce lovely had departed, and she is much prettier than Bruce Cabot, just between you and me . . she's even prettier than Guy Kibbee or Joseph Spurin-Calleia, if you ask me or even if you don't ask me.

In the Fox commissary, Irving Berlin lunching with Sir Clyde Morrison Bell, former aide-de-camp of Canada's governor general. . . . Near by, Bert Lahr aiming bread balls at the Ritz brothers. . . . "Be elegant," Lahr urges Harry Ritz. . . . "You can't even spell it" says Lahr.

On stage, at Universal, I finally see a reminder of Broadway, the night club set in Buddy de Sylvia's picture "A Young Man's Fancy." . . . It is the Harmony club, according to the sign over the door, and in it Alice Faye, George Murphy, Bill Gargan and Charlie Winninger are cutting up dialog touches . . . but I've never seen a night club like this one . . . John Otterson, son of the former Paramount head, designed it and the ceiling is a glittering mass of musical notes, and the bar is made to resemble a band horn. . . . Raspy-voiced Andy Devine notices my amazement: "You ain't seen nothing yet, Ed," he says, and I believe he's right.

But the payoff of my first day in Hollywood came in the office of Eddie Mannix, M-G-M executive. . . . I had dropped in there about 6 p. m. and it was a reunion of New Yorkers, because Bill Grady and Nick Nayfack were there and I hadn't seen them in a long time. . . . Mannix, about to leave to see Wallace Beery at the hospital, chatted about this and that: Said that he would prefer to start Norma Shearer in "Idiot's Delight" with Clark Gable, but doubted that Robert Sherwood's script would arrive in time . . . then he showed us a cablegram from London . . . the most amazing cablegram ever written. . . . London had cabled him in all seriousness if he had an actor who could be rushed to England to play the part of an Englishman in the Robert Taylor picture. . . . "How do you like that?" asked Mannix, "we've gotta dig up an English actor to send to England, because they can't find one." . . . I'm going to like this place.

Chaplin to Talk in New Clothes for Next Film

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—This is farewell to the bewildered little fellow in the baggy trousers.

For twenty-four years movie audiences have laughed—always with a tinge of pity—at the antics of the pathetic tramp who scuttled around corners on one foot, poked his springy bamboo cane into trouble and wore a mute expression of wonder at the havoc he brought.

But he's through now.

Charlie Chaplin announced today he was casting aside the buffoon in last year's derby hat.

A new Chaplin will make his screen debut in a year; a Chaplin without the oversized shoes and undersized coat; a Chaplin who will talk as the tramp never did.

Charlie has been toying with the idea for years. It is said that he even has taken tests of himself as he appears on the street and with other getups, but just exactly what he has in mind still remained his secret today.

Just when Charlie made his decision is a matter of conjecture, but movieland is of the opinion his latest picture, last year's "Modern Times," forced him to it.

"Modern Times" was a hodgepodge of Chaplinesque comedy, some new, some old. If its writer-producer-director-star thinks it didn't measure up to the standards set by some of his earlier films, such as "The Gold Rush" and "The Kid," he hasn't said anything about it, but many believe Charlie was disappointed in the film.

Chaplin has been anti-sound since its screen inception, but he made concessions to sound in both "City Lights" and "Modern Times."

Product of the music halls of England, Chaplin came to this country a quarter of a century ago with a vaudeville team. Mack Sennett hired him, at the then stupendous salary of $125 a week, but Chaplin wasn't nearly so funny as Sennett thought he should be. So Charlie borrowed a derby that was too small, an undersized mustache, shoes, and pants that were too large, and a coat that he had to squeeze into. He completed the costume with a bamboo cane.

Parents Plan Reception for Young Morses

BY JUDITH CASS.

TO welcome home Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosmer Morse Jr., his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosmer Morse, and sister, Baroness Wolfgang Beck von Peccoz, will give a reception on Sunday, Sept. 26, from 5 to 7 o'clock at 45 Stone Gate lane, Lake Forest, the Morse home.

All of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Morse who have not had the opportunity of meeting their only son's bride will be able to do so at this party. The wedding of the former Elisabeth Bonbright to Mr. Morse Jr. took place in Grosse Pointe, Mich., last June, and many old friends of the Morse family were unable to attend the wedding or reception.

Since June young Mr. and Mrs. Morse have been traveling in Europe on a honeymoon. They arrived in Lake Forest a few days ago and will be well settled in their own Lake Forest house—formerly that of Baroness Beck—by the 26th.

The reception the Morses are giving for their new daughter-in-law will not be the first party that has been given for the bride in the Morse home, for the former Miss Bonbright was the center of a number of gay parties there preceding her wedding. Most of young Mr. Morse's friends already know his bride, for she has visited frequently in Lake Forest and was widely entertained here last May.

Son Born at Bombay to Junior Churchills.

From Bombay, India, has come word of the birth of a son on Sept. 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Asaph Churchill Jr., the former Dorothy Moorehead. He has been named Asaph Barrett Churchill. The baby's grandparents, Mrs. Hirst Moorehead and Dr. Frederick B. Moorehead, will not have a chance to see him for at least another year, since the young Churchills do not expect to come home for a visit for some time. The Churchills also have a daughter, Carol, who is 2 years old.

Two Recovering After Accidents.

Convalescing at hospitals are Miss Veronese Beatty and Miss Mary Grubbs, both of whom were in accidents recently. Miss Beatty is nursing a cracked shoulder at the Presbyterian hospital, the result of a fall from her horse while hunting last week.

In true sportsmanlike style, Miss Beatty remounted after her fall and finished the run, taking several jumps. It was not until later that she realized her injuries were so serious. She will be allowed to go home to Highland Park next week, but the cast on her shoulder will remain until Nov. 1.

Miss Grubbs must remain in the Highland Park hospital for six weeks. She and her fiancé, Hugh M. Seyfarth, were injured in an automobile accident last Saturday night. Miss Grubbs, daughter of the Robert W. Buckleys of Barrington, suffered a broken leg. Mr. Seyfarth escaped with cuts and bruises and was able to leave the hospital Sunday night.

Two Debutantes Will Bow Today.

There is no let-up in debutante parties, even in the middle of the week, and today two more young women will be introduced to their parents' friends. Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Bull are giving a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club for their eldest daughter, Miss Ellen Prindiville Bull, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Roach are giving a tea at home in Highland Park for their elder daughter, Miss Lorraine-Marie Roach.

From 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Bull, the debutante, and her grandmother, Mrs. Charles H.

"Find This Girl"

SYNOPSIS.

Bessie Mersand, a nurse, is acquitted of the charge of administering a fatal dose of medinal to an elderly patient. After the trial, as Bessie Mathews, she is given a job by Gwynneth Bentley, caring for Gwynneth's invalid husband. Gwynneth plans to kill her husband and plant the blame on Bessie so that she can marry her lover, Roy Gleason. Medinal tablets are placed in Bessie's charge. Gwynneth hides a valuable jeweled dagger, then puts the ground medinal tablets in her husband's food. She then gives Bessie the day off. In London Bessie meets her friend, Jim Watkin, who has learned of the crime. He hides Bessie in his apartment. To his friend, Inspector Rason, Jim introduces Bessie as his sister. Jim gets Roy Gleason to admit that he and Gwynneth attended Bessie's trial. Rason becomes suspicious. Hiding Bessie in a caravan, Jim visits Gwynneth for clews. A trowel in her hands gives him a hunch that the dagger is buried in the garden. He warns her the garden will be dug up, then sets a private detective to watch. Gwynneth sees through his plan. She trails him to Bessie and forces her to go with her. She tricks Bessie into digging up the dagger. Bessie is caught by the detective.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

IN HER ENEMY'S STRONGHOLD.

Bessie was beside herself for walking into the trap. "She meant you to. She arranged with you to catch me—just like this." She was spared the irony of knowing that it was Jim Watkin himself who had posted this watchdog in the garden.

"I can't argue, miss. You'll have to come along."

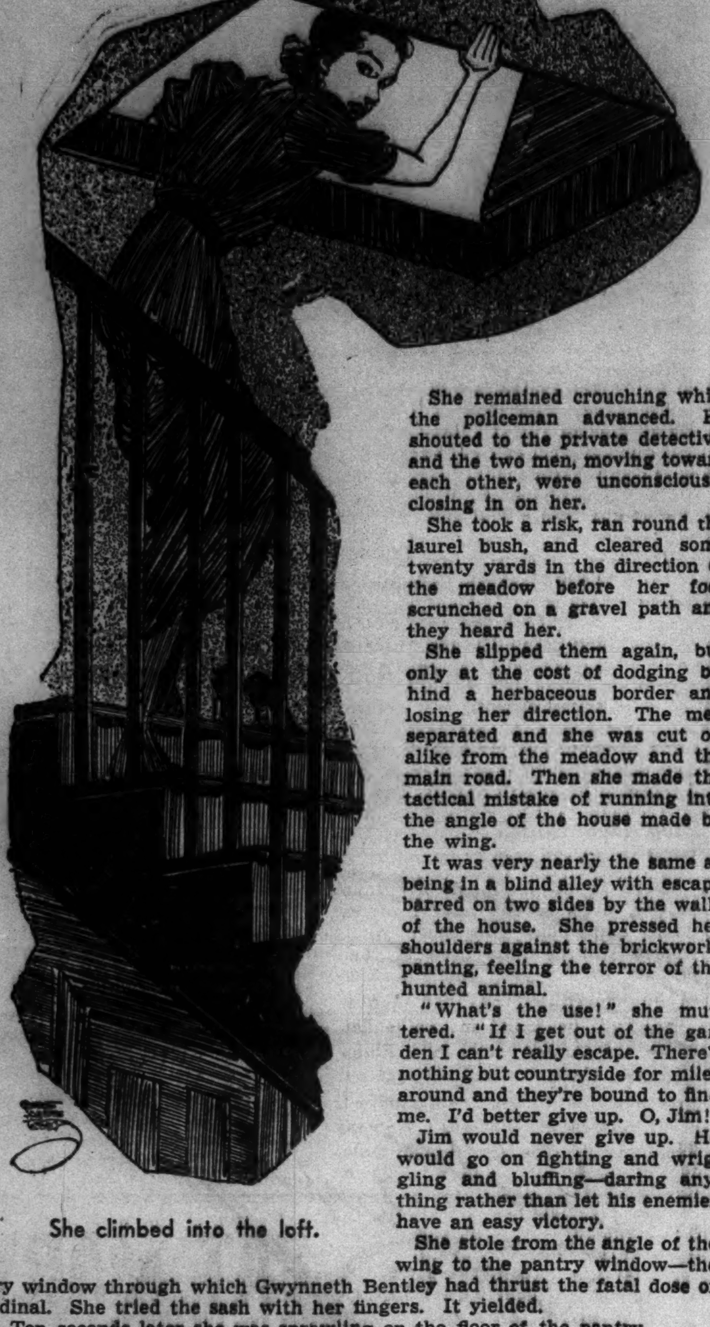
Bessie walked meekly out of the summer house. But the man was more than a little suspicious of that meekness. He took hold of her wrist.

At the touch of a strange man Bessie's fury broke out afresh. With a sudden wriggle she freed herself and bolted to the rose garden.

The private detective drew a whistle and blew it hard. There came an answering police whistle from the main road and another from the lane.

Bessie knew the garden far better than her pursuer. He could pick her out with his torch; but she zigzagged through the rose garden. He crashed into a rose tree, stumbled and lost her.

She was making for the lane when a second torch bobbed up, and would have found her if she had not dropped behind a laurel bush. The meadow was still a possibility, but that meant breaking cover to cross the kitchen garden.



She climbed into the loft.

She remained crouching while the policeman advanced. He shouted to the private detective, and the two men, moving toward each other, were unconsciously closing in on her.

She took a risk, ran round the laurel bush, and cleared some twenty yards in the direction of the meadow before her foot scrunched on a gravel path and they heard her.

She slipped them again, but only at the cost of dodging behind a herbaceous border and losing her direction. The men separated and she was cut off alike from the meadow and the main road. Then she made the tactical mistake of running into the angle of the house made by the wing.

It was very nearly the same as being in a blind alley with escape barred on two sides by the walls of the house. She pressed her shoulders against the brickwork, panting, feeling the terror of the hunted animal.

"What's the use!" she muttered. "If I get out of the garden I can't really escape. There's nothing but countryside for miles around and they're bound to find me. I'd better give up. O, Jim!"

Jim would never give up. He would go on fighting and wriggling and bluffing—daring anything rather than let his enemies have an easy victory.

She stole from the angle of the wing to the pantry window—the very window through which Gwynneth Bentley had thrust the fatal dose of medinal. She tried the sash with her fingers. It yielded.

Ten seconds later she was sprawling on the floor of the pantry.

Wriggling, bluffing, daring anything. The spirit of the man she loved had entered into her. And something of his cunning, too. For she silently closed the pantry window to avoid giving her pursuers a clew.

Through the kitchen and into the hall. Up the stairs. Then a check. With less than a second to spare she slid into the room that had once been hers, not daring to shut the door behind her.

The servants had been roused by the men shouting to each other in the garden. A door had opened on the landing above, then another.

"Turn on the light, Cookie." It was the voice of Ledbourne the parlor maid.

"Not me. It's safer in the dark. They can't see to shoot you."

There were nervous giggles and then from the cook:

"It's only the police arrestin' each other in the dark. It gives me nerves the way they're always poppin' up around here at all hours. I'm goin' back to bed."

But not, of course, to fall straight asleep. And Bessie must not delay an unnecessary minute. She took off her shoes and crept into Gwynneth's room, groped her way to the washstand, and removed the water carafe. It was possible, she knew, to do without food for a long time, but not without drink.

With the carafe in one hand and her shoes in the other, she went up the stairs to the second floor—past the servants' bedrooms. A creaky board now might ruin her. But her luck held.

At the end of the corridor was a flight of wooden steps with a trap door at the top giving on to the loft.

It took her an unconscionable time to unfasten the bolt in silence. As she pushed the flap back she held a shoe on the far side so that it would not bump on the floor. It made a soft thud which seemed to her overstrained nerves like a clap of thunder.

Scarcely able to believe that no one had heard her she climbed into the loft and closed the trap door after her.

Gwynneth Bentley, waiting in the lane with her lights out, could see the intermittent flash of the torches in the garden, could hear the whistles.

"Thank you, Mr. Jim Watkin! You have been very useful. I couldn't have caught your girl without your help."

She was thinking then more of Watkin than of Bessie. For his mockery of her she hated him with a deep and passionate hatred, whereas Bessie had never been more than a pawn in her game.

She lit a cigaret. There were still lights in the garden. But she supposed that the police were looking for a confederate or just going over the ground as a matter of routine.

She continued to smoke contentedly. Jim Watkin had said that she would never dare to face cross-examination in her evidence against Bessie. But that was before Bessie had been found with the rajah's dagger—before there had been any concrete proof of a motive for the murder.

But now—thanks to Jim Watkin!—There was a cast-iron case against Bessie. And the cross-examination, if any, would be a trifling matter.

When the cigaret was finished she judged she had waited long enough. She switched on the car lights and started the engine.

She had her first shock before she reached the main road—in the form of a police car stopping her.

"Have you seen a young woman, please? During the last five minutes or so. By herself and probably running."

Gwynneth felt as if her heart had missed a beat.

"It's Superintendent Carvick, isn't it? I'm Mrs. Bentley."

"Nurse Mersand has been back, Mrs. Bentley. A private detective found her in your garden and she got away from him. She can't be far off."

The police car passed on. Gwynneth drove to the main road and turned into Uplands.

Here she learned most of the story from a sergeant.

"Take this latchkey, sergeant," she ordered as if she were his superior officer. "Let yourself into the house and telephone for more men. Where's that private detective?"

"Here, madam. I had hold of her, and she——"

"You'd better come with me and see if you can get hold of her again," said Gwynneth icily.

No one on foot could have covered even as much as a mile in the time. In a few minutes Gwynneth had satisfied herself that Bessie could not be on the main road in either direction.

Shirley Temple Pins Own Police Badge on G-Man Hoover

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Shirley Temple pinned a brass badge today on J. Edgar Hoover, G-man, and made him a member of her own special police force.

The chief of the federal bureau of investigation staked his bodyguard of five detectives outside the Temple bungalow as he visited the 8 year old star at 20th Century-Fox studio.

Hoover beamed, Shirley's face fell, when they met.

"I think she expected you to be carrying a machine gun," said Mrs. George [Mummy] Temple.

Hoover wrote: "To the sweetheart of the G-men," in Shirley's autograph book.

Rehersals of Service Club to Start Oct. 4.

At a board meeting yesterday at the Saddle and Cycle club it was decided to hold the first rehersal for the Service club revue on Monday night, Oct. 4. The big first rehersal will mark the start of a little more than a month of intensive training for the revue, which is to be given Nov. 6. The theater has not been selected.

Miss Marian Newcomet, president of the club, is giving a tea at home, 1242 Lake Shore drive, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for the officers, committee chairmen, and all of the debutantes who will take part in the show. Miss Mary Lou Laird, chairman of the advertising committee, will hold a meeting at her home in Winnetka Friday morning.

Plans for an early autumn benefit will be made by the Wells College Alumnæ association at luncheon today at the Chicago College club. The association has taken over the box seats for the Don Cossacks' matinée on Sunday, Oct. 10. Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Robert G. Walker [Jane McMurray] is the new president of the Chicago Wells club. Mrs. Albert R. Martin is in charge of ticket reservations, assisted by Miss Helen Hench of Hinsdale.

St. Luke's Board to Meet Monday.

From, east, north, and west members of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital are rushing home from vacations to be here for the first fall meeting on Monday, when plans for the annual fashion show on Oct. 19 will be discussed in detail. The meeting will be held at a luncheon at Mrs. George A. Ranney's home in Lake Forest. Mrs. Ranney has just arrived at home from a motor trip with her son, George Jr., and invitations to the luncheon-meeting were sent out immediately.

Mrs. Ranney and her son visited the junior Edward L. Ryersons at their summer home at Marion, Mass., while they were in the east. Among others of the board who will be at the meeting on Monday will be Mrs. Grant Laing, who is coming home today from Castle Park, Mich., where she has had a house for the summer; Mrs. Selim McArthur, who will arrive at home Sunday from her summer home on Mackinac Island, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, who is coming home also on Sunday from a visit with her brother, Allen Pettit, in Parkersburg, Pa. Mrs. Wolf's daughter, Mrs. Walter F. McLallen, who also is a board member, came home last Friday from a visit with her uncle in Parkesburg.

Mrs. Charles F. Glore Returns from Honolulu.

Another board member, Mrs. Charles F. Glore, is just back from a trip to Honolulu with her family; Miss Frances Glore remained in Pasadena for a visit. Mrs. Frank Hibbard, one of the most active of the St. Luke's board, will not be at home for the meeting, for she will not return from her summer home at Watch Hill, R. I., until Sept. 27.

Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Mrs. J. Beach Clow, and Mrs. John L. Cochran are among others of the board who will have returned from vacations in time to be at Mrs. Ranney's. Mrs. Drake has been visiting her father, Frank O. Lowden, at the Thousand Islands; Mrs. Clow has been with her parents, the Horace Newcomets, at Oconomowoc, Wis., and Mrs. Cochran will return from her summer place at Mackinac Island today.

Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. and her daughter, Miss Mary Melville Clow, have returned to their Lake Forest home after spending most of the summer in New York.

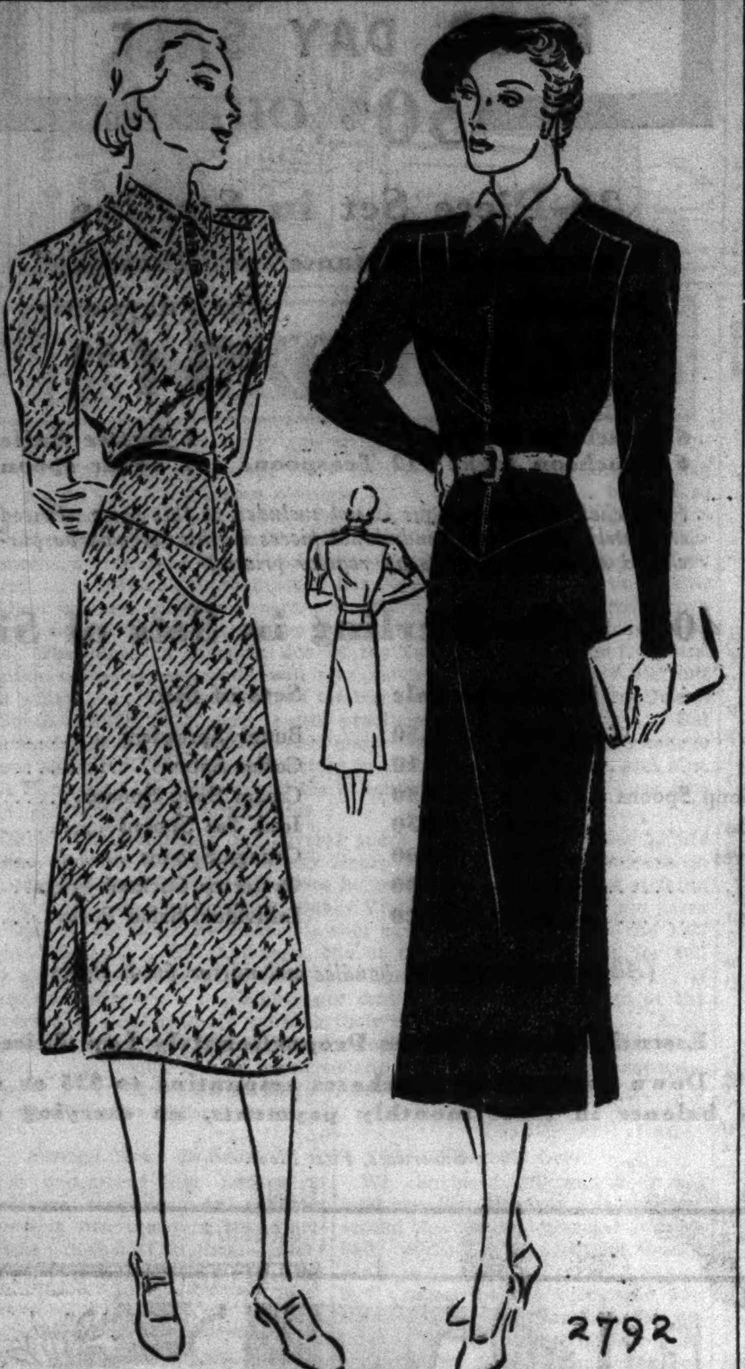
Distinctive for Any Age



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Both maid and matron may wear this frock with distinction. It is styled to slenderize and to flatter. This is the sort of costume you will find useful for almost any time of the day. The original is fashioned of sheer black woolen, and a slide fastener was used to finish the front. The contrasting lingerie collar is of white piqué, detachable, and easily washable. We particularly like the broad shoulder yoke, which is cut in one with the upper sleeves. The point just below the waistline has a slenderizing effect on the silhouette, no matter how fulsome its proportions. The skirt is virtually straight, which makes this frock exceedingly simple to sew.

Any color other than black may be used for this dress, of course. Navy and wine, as well as dark brown and green, are excellent choices. The lingerie collar may be of pink or pale blue, too, if you wish to avoid white. Novelty woolen weaves make up beautifully, and heavy silks tailor well, too.

Style No. 2792 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Wife Unwise to Listen to Sour Neighbor

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"It just seems that the more you do for them [husbands], the less they appreciate it and you!"

The introduction above starts a complaint from Mrs. J. D. on the ingratitude of man toward the little woman in his home. Only the man in this particular instance hardly could be called an ingrate. Mrs. D. is under the influence of another woman whose object plainly is to undermine her home. She tells Mrs. D. that she worked her fingers to the bone for her husband No. 1, and "Look, see, he runs away with a woman that won't lift a finger!"

Our first suggestion to Mrs. D. would be to keep on listening to advice like that if she would like eventually to spend six weeks in Reno.

◆

You know exactly what kind of woman the adviser is. She didn't work her fingers to the bone, or she wouldn't be telling her kind of tall story. The workers who have been deserted by ingrate mates are not the trouble makers. It's women who haven't paid their score into the partnership and are abandoned for their inefficiency who like to use the alibi.

But the story is not unusual. There is a regrettable number of marriage failures in this world who like to go about destroying what is beautiful in others' lives. They can't bear to see others happy. It is the old story of misery loving company.

Then, there are some women who get notions into their heads that if they are kind and considerate of their husbands, the latter will think they are just simple saps. So, they adopt a chip on the shoulder attitude, dealing sharply in act and word. All of which is perfect tommyrot. True, there are women who seem to be treated with more consideration because they demand an extraordinary lot, but what sane woman would change places with these ingrown, selfish monsters? They're not happy in consequence. They're always wanting more and more. And sometimes the worm does turn on them, leaving them wiser and sadder women.

So, Mrs. D., if you want to make a success of your marriage, if you are going to make a go of it, slam the door in your adviser's face. And believe that the more you do to keep that home of yours attractive and your man in cheerful mood, the surer you'll be to have him by your side for life.

ENGAGEMENT

Unnecessary to Cure Left Handed Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Though these little children are not of school age, I think it important to teachers as well as mothers that I quote their mother's letter now as the school year starts.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I shall be thankful if you will kindly favor me with your advice on the following:

"I have twin boys who will be 4 years of age next month. One of them has always shown a tendency to left-handedness, and this has become quite pronounced this summer, especially in the matter of throwing a ball, in playing games, and so forth.

"I have in mind to try to train him to use his right hand properly while eating. However, I hesitate to try to train him to use his right hand in preference to using his left, not only in eating but also in all other things as well.

"I would appreciate very much any information with which you may favor me on this matter."

Time was when the child in school caught writing with his left hand had his knuckles rapped! Even now many parents and teachers make determined efforts to correct left-handedness in the children in their charge. That this is most unwise and may be definitely and seriously harmful has been proved to the satisfaction of those who have made a searching study of the subject.

One of the noticeable tieups is between handedness and speech. Speech defects like stammering frequently develop when a change of handedness is enforced. In this connection it is interesting to learn that no pronounced handedness, right or left, is noticed until the seventh to twelfth months of the baby's life, and this is when speech starts. By speech I don't mean talking, but the sounds that give evidence of being first attempts, babbling and unintelligible to be sure, in the direction of speech.

◆

There is a great deal that isn't known about handedness, but among the things we do know is this: that, whatever accident or coincidence or natural tendency is responsible for a child being inclined to use his left hand dominantly, it is harmful to insist on his trying to use his right. Among the results that follow this effort are nervousness, nervous physical habits, stammering and stuttering, difficulties with academic studies, such as writing [mirror writing is an example] and reading.

What seems the wisest procedure with the child who shows itself left-handed is to allow him to use his hands instinctively, giving him, however, every possible opportunity to develop manual dexterity with his left hand just as one does with a right-handed child. If you don't think this is possible just consider some of our eminent "southpaws" and you will see what I mean.

Further explanations and suggestions will be found in our leaflet, "The Left-handed Child in a Right-handed World." It will be sent out on receipt of a large 3 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Bvans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Well, the Monday evening Radio Theater from Hollywood is back with us, Cecil B. DeMille's plugs for his latest picture, "The Buccaneer," included. First choice for fall, "A Star Is Born" with Janet Gaynor and Robert Montgomery, was not altogether a happy one. This is the technicolor picture that has been breaking records everywhere all summer. Presumably there are many persons who have not yet seen it, so its presentation on the air may stimulate further interest in it. But to the multitudes who recently viewed it, the radio version was just like sitting through the show again with the film darkened and only sound available.

Many listeners have asked why the Radio theater does not go for more original plays, or at least plays that have not been in the theatrical or movie spotlight in recent years. It is a fair question. First Nighter, for example, has won a high place in fans' favor by using original plays. The Rudy Vallee hour also has used many original short plays.

Wayne King, who despite his many years here, never has played a local hotel engagement, is to open Saturday, Sept. 25, at the Empire room of the Palmer house with a W-G-N-Mutual wire as he had when at the Aragon ballroom. This engagement puts him on all three networks, his sponsored shows being aired over NBC and CBS.

The Court of Missing Heirs, a pretentious dramatic show portraying the lives of persons who have left large unclaimed estates, is to bow in via local WBBM-CBS studios Monday evening, Oct. 11, with the objective of locating actual heirs as well as entertaining listeners.

Radio associates and friends of Joe Sanders are descending on the Blackhawk tonight to salute him on the eleventh anniversary of his opening at the restaurant. Joe has been there seven out of these eleven years, all of that time on W-G-N, a record probably unequaled by a band leader anywhere.

◆

WBBM is cooking up a new program that ought to make many a listener happy. Show, to be titled the WBBM Bandwagon, will enable fans to cut in by short wave, tell the performer his stuff is awful, and ask him to try something else. It will be aired at 5:45 Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting tomorrow. The rolling studio will be set up in the street or some public place at some distance from the studio. And Milton Charles, singing organist, will be the victim of the hecklers who will break in while he performs in the Wrigley building.

DRISCOLL SEEKS BUIVIDS, GUEPES FOR MARQUETTE

Needs Backs to Go with Old Line.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 14.—More than a decade ago a cardinal shirted quartet stood on the sidelines each Sunday at Chris O'Brien's Normal park and shrilled in prohibition harmony: "We'll hit the line with Paddy Driscoll." To be sure, the following year, when Paddy had joined the Chicago Bears, the Cardinal Songsters boosted for Ike Mahoney, but still it was a mighty slick aria.

Paddy Driscoll.

Now that John Leo Driscoll is director general of Marquette university's football destinies, it occurs that John L. [Tarzan] Taylor, long an advocate of community singing for his linemen, well might teach the Hilltoppers, "We'll hit the line for Paddy Driscoll."

At first glance, the Marquette boys who last year raced through seven games, including the University of Wisconsin, Michigan State, and St. Mary's, without defeat before losing to Duquesne and then to Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., will need some expert line hitting, not to mention forward passing. For Ray [Buzz] Buivid, Ward Cuff, and the Guepe twins have been graduated.

One Veteran Back Left.

Ray Sonnenberg, only member of last year's expert back field, remains. Around him Driscoll and his back field coach, Red Dunn, who once was a teammate of Paddy's on the Cardinals, must develop an attack for a campaign which undoubtedly will be as rigorous as that of a year ago.

Marquette, now practicing twice a day, a program which will be continued another week, opens against Ripon college Sept. 25. Then comes Wisconsin, the first major objective. No intra-state rivalry is greater than this and by reason of Marquette's victories in 1935 and 1936, it follows that the battle in Madison Oct. 2 is considered as significant in the Badger state as a subway world's baseball series in Manhattan.

Marquette scrimmaged this afternoon on the stadium gridiron following a morning signal drill. From this scrimmage it can be predicted that a veteran line remains the most important factor for the coming season. Inexperience is a blanket charge against the ball carriers and back field blockers, which, however, may not be so momentous a criticism should the Hilltoppers win from Wisconsin.

Wanted—A Full Back.

Michigan State, Santa Clara at Soldiers' field in Chicago, Villanova, and Duquesne are subsequent barriers to success in the nine game schedule. Santa Clara, beaten only once last season and victor over Louisiana in the Sugar Bowl, definitely appears to be a more fearsome opponent than the Gaels from St. Mary's, who were beaten at Soldiers' field last fall.

Full back, according to Driscoll, is the position now causing insomnia if, indeed, this may be singled out since Marquette begins rebuilding the back field with only Sonnenberg. At the moment, David Braden, a guard on the freshman eleven last fall, has been moved to full back.

BUDGE AND MAKO LOSE AGAIN TO GERMAN RIVALS

Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel of Germany, who won the national doubles championship from Donald Budge and Gene Mako at Brookline, Mass., two weeks ago, repeated that victory by defeating the Americans 9-7, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5 at the Onwentsia club yesterday.

The victory gives the Germans an even break in the now famous duel between the two doubles teams. Budge and Mako defeated the foreign pair at Wimbledon and again in the Davis cup finals, only to have Von Cramm and Henkel come back to win the two matches played in this country.

3,500 Watch Matches.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 attended the first half of the two day exhibition, which brought to Chicago the outstanding players of the year. The players who competed yesterday will appear again today in a series of five matches starting at 2 o'clock.

Budge and Mako got off to a lead in their doubles match with the German pair by breaking Cramm's service to win the first two games. They maintained this lead until the sixth game, when the foreigners broke Budge's service to tie the score at 3 all. From there on through the fifteenth all games went with service. In the next game the Germans broke Mako's service to win a love game and the set.

The Americans swept through the second set with ease. After Von Cramm and Henkel won two of the first three games, the United States pair rallied to win five games in a row. This drive carried over into the third set, in which Budge and Mako took a 3-1 lead. The Germans broke Mako's service in the eighth game and took the next two games to win the set, 7-5. With Von Cramm growing more accurate with his placement shots, the Germans won the fourth and final set by the same score.

Jones Fights Back.

In the opening match of the afternoon Mako defeated Charles Jones of Great Britain, 6-4, 6-4. The Englishman proved a stubborn opponent, capturing the first two games of the opening set before Mako settled down.

They divided the next two games, but Mako came with a rush to win the next four. Jones interrupted the drive momentarily to win his fourth game, but the American won the set game with a series of brilliant placements.

Jones made a fight of it in the second set, taking a lead of 4 to 3. Again Mako turned on the pressure to take the next three games, largely because of superior volleying.

The spectators got their first glimpse of the foreign women stars in the doubles match between Anita Lizana of Chile, winner of the na-

Big Ten Lifts Professional Ban on Officials—or Does It?

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Western conference football officials are seeking a more explicit interpretation of the Big Ten rule relative to their participation in professional games.

Maj. J. L. Griffith.

Previously they were prohibited from officiating in the National Professional league by the rule which also barred former professional players as coaches in the conference. Despite the rule, a number of former pro players have been hired as head coaches in the Big Ten. Officials, however, were not allowed to stray from the letter of the law.

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Big Ten, explained yesterday that the rule had been changed at the December faculty meeting.

Few Expected to Double Up.

Griffith added, however, that he did not expect many of the conference regulars to avail themselves of the opportunity for additional revenue because it would entail enforcing one set of rules on Saturday and another on Sunday.

Later he intimated that officials accepting professional assignments would be ignored when conference schedules were drawn next year.

Several leading Western conference officials said they had not been notified of the rule change and still were under the impression that professional contracts were frowned upon. Among these were J. J. Lipp of Chicago, Nick Kearns, De Paul; John Schommer, Chicago; James Masker, Northwestern; Meyer Morton, Michigan; Lee Daniels, Loyola, and W. S. Knight, Dartmouth.

Masker Interprets Rule.

Masker, for more than a score of years one of the leading officials in the country and who refereed the first All-Star game, said it was his impression that an official had to declare himself at the start of each season. He could officiate in the conference or he could take assignments in the National league, but that he could not be affiliated with both simultaneously.

National league owners were pleased with the announcement of the rule change. They have sought for years to break down the conference's antipathy for professional football. The availability of Big Ten officials would eliminate one of the major problems in the western division of the league. Eastern division games are handled by the leading college referees along the Atlantic seaboard.

HUBBELL IN FORM AS GIANTS BEAT PIRATES, 12 TO 2

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Though the New York Giants could get no better than an even break out of their double-header with the Pirates today, taking the opener, 12 to 2, and then losing the second contest, 6 to 2, they picked up a full game over the second place Cubs. The Chicagoans dropped two games to the Boston Bees, and thus fell two and a half games behind.

Carl Hubbell coasted to his nineteenth victory in the first game, while Al Smith left in the seventh inning of the second after giving up nine of the Pirates' ten hits.

Starting off with home runs by Mel Ott and Hank Leiber, each with a man on base, in the first inning to send Hubbell off to a four run lead, the Giants clinched the game with an eight run offensive in the sixth.

Joe Moore was the big gun in the big inning, doubling with one out to start the rally and driving in two runs with a triple his second time up.

Cy Blanton went the route for Pittsburgh in the second game and the Pirates won with four runs in the sixth. Brubaker's double and Lloyd Waner's double were the payoff hits. Blanton's victory was his thirteenth. Score:

DROP BRUINS 2½ GAMES BEHIND LEADING GIANTS

Rout Carleton in First Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The poor Cubs are down again, dazed for the time being by stings inflicted yesterday by Boston's Bees. The latter, fresh from two triumphs over the Giants, sent the second place Chicagoans into dreamland by capturing both ends of a double-header, 9 to 0 and 4 to 2, leaving the home guard two and one-half games behind the pacemaking Giants, who broke even at Pittsburgh. And for added entertainment of 13,906 customers the Bees threw in a triple play at no extra charge.

Danny MacFayden.

The triple play was accomplished on Clay Bryant's line drive to Rabbit Warstler in the third inning of the second game after Phil Cavarretta and Bill Jurges had singled. Warstler threw to Tony Cuccinello to double Cavarretta off second and Cuccinello's throw to Ebbie Fletcher caught Jurges before the Cub shortstop could get back to first.

In both battles, at least so far as the Cubs were concerned, it was the old story of not hitting at all or fading in the pinches. First they were worried into distraction by one John Lanning, who didn't object to letting men get to base, but was set on leaving them there. Between his shaky control, a few hits, and his skill in dodging damage in the pinches, he forced the Chicago boys to pile up a total of seven stranded runners in three of the first four innings. Meanwhile something happened to Tex Carleton's famed skill as a Bee tamer.

Bees Get Rough.

The Bees, who usually are addicted to feeble hitting, unwrapped a devastating blast for Tex, their old tormentor. For three innings he was excellent. In the fourth, he was able to escape from a full house with one out. But in the fifth the Bees let him have it. Eight of them scored, seven of them after two were out, and 13 men went to bat before Bob Logan, the newly acquired southpaw, could catch up with the third out. The ninth Bee run was at Logan's expense in the last inning.

In the second game the Cubs found Deacon Danny MacFayden, the one time American leaguer, almost as elusive as Lanning had been. The triple play pulled him over a rough spot, a double play helped him in the fourth, and another twin killing in the fifth assisted him to his ninth victory. By this time the Bees had accumulated four runs off Clay Bryant and just by making sure that this would be sufficient for his purposes, the bespectacled MacFayden throttled the Cubs on two hits in the last four innings.

Reynolds in Debut.

Carl Reynolds, former White Sox outfielder, made his debut in a Cub uniform, but it wasn't exactly a success. Carl was able to notch one hit—a double—off Lanning in the first game. Against MacFayden he produced one single, lined into a double play, and fanned once. And in the ninth inning of the second game, when Charles Root was pitching, Reynolds charged into Galan, knocking

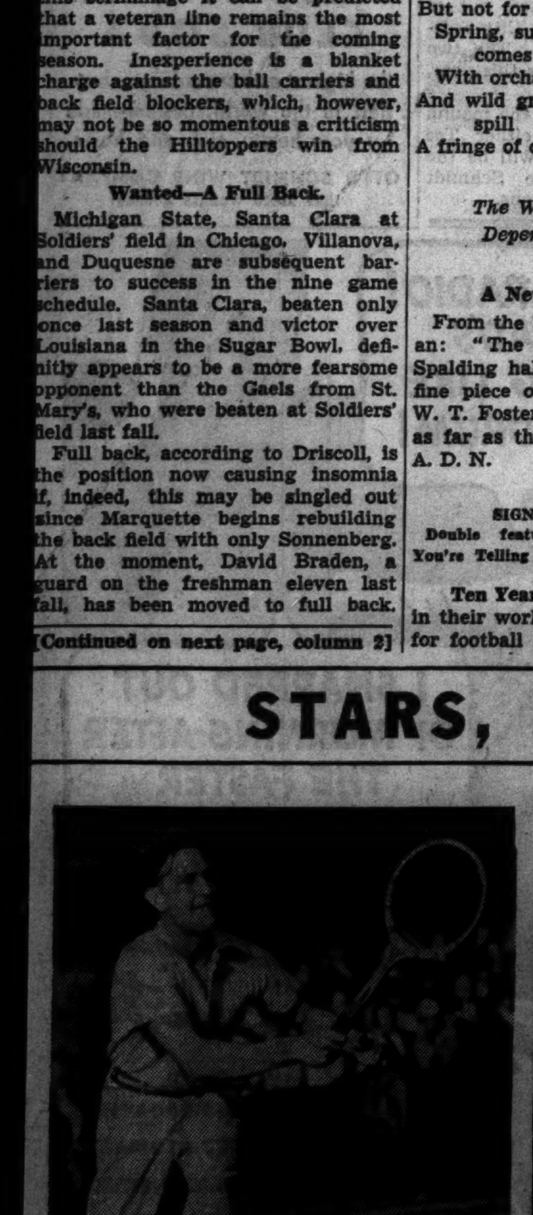
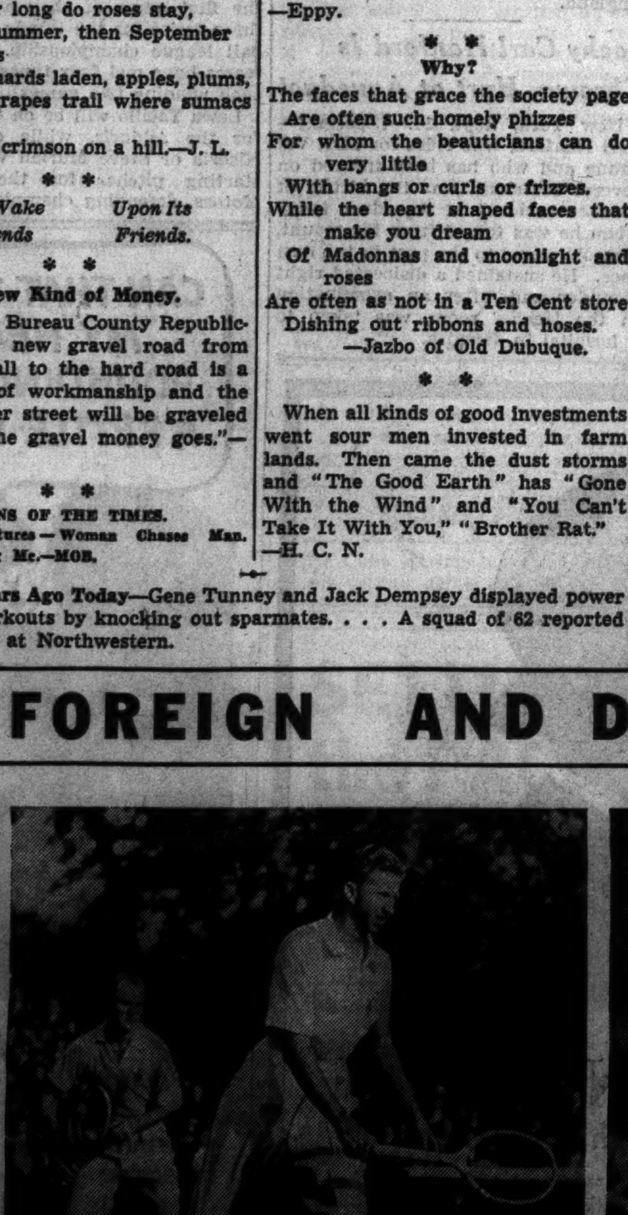
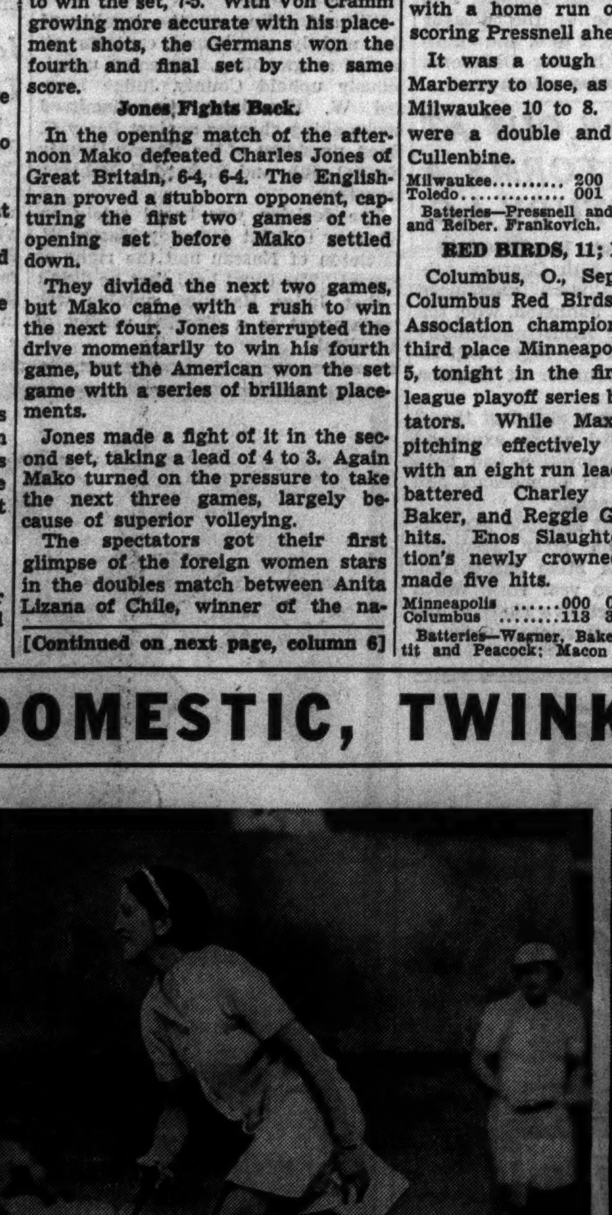
STARS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC, TWINKLE ON COURT AND DIAMOND



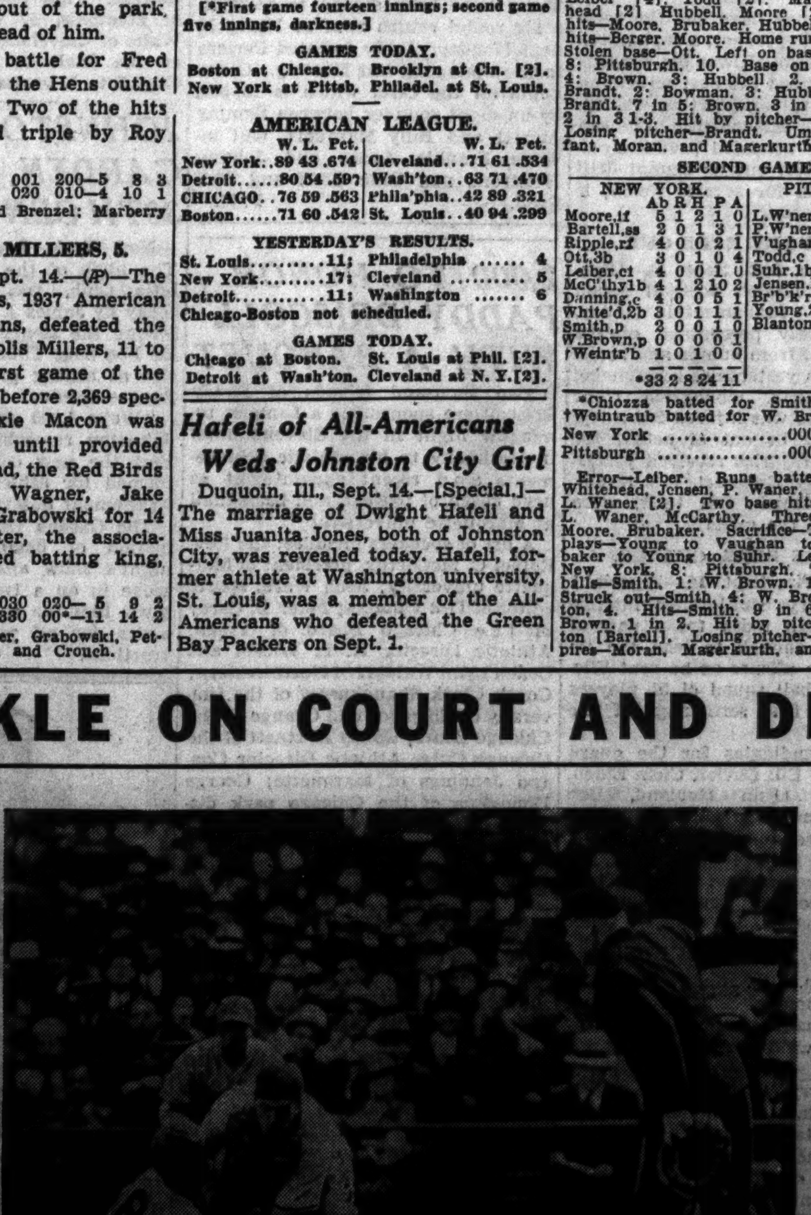
Baron Gottfried von Cramm, Germany's No. 1 tennis player, wins in doubles at yesterday's matches at Onwentsia.



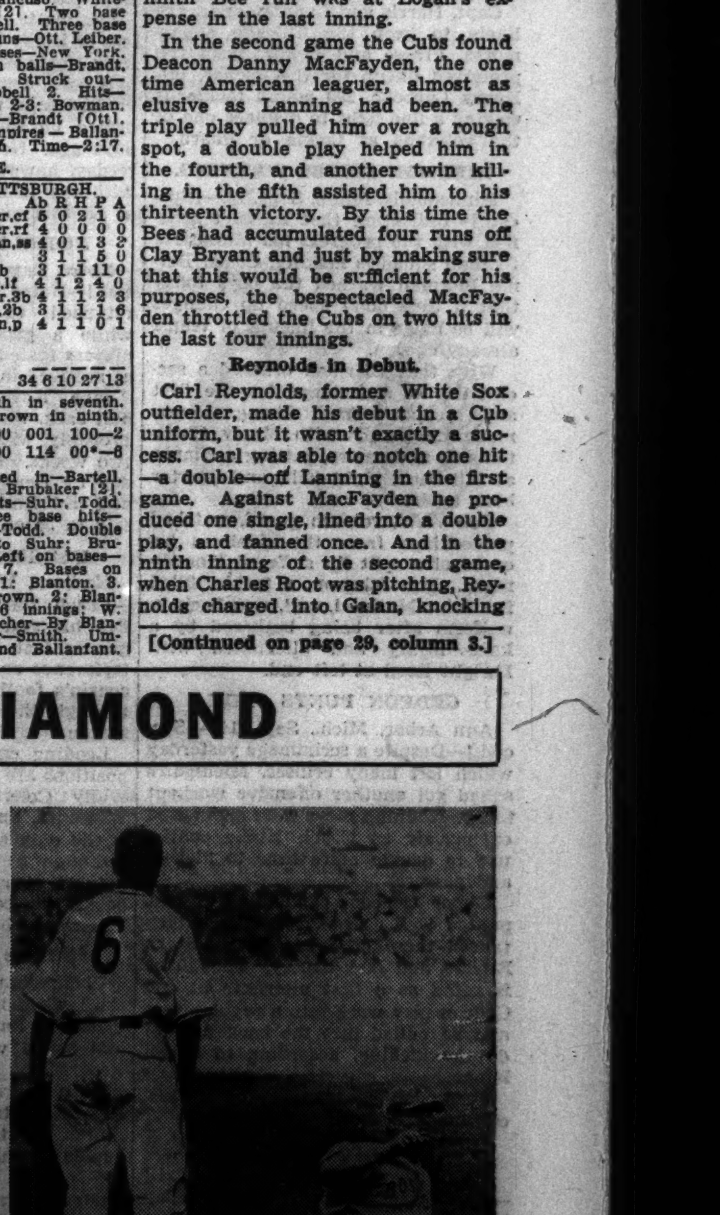
Gene Mako (rear) and Donald Budge, American Davis cup champions, are beaten by Baron von Cramm and his partner, Henner Henkel, 9-7, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5.



Anita Lizana of Chile, recent winner of the U. S. singles championship, pairs with Louis Horn of Germany and loses to Jadwiga Jedrzejowska and Gracyn Wheeler.



Kenny O'Dea of the Cubs tags out Rabbit Warstler of the Bees in the seventh inning of yesterday's first game. Warstler, attempting to score on Mueller's hit, was nipped by Galan's throw. The umpire is Barr.



Gene Moore of the Bees slides into third after tripling in the fifth inning of the second game. Stan Hack waits in vain for the throw.

INDIANA CALLS ON FROSH TO AID SKIMPY VARSITY

Player Shortage Is Acute at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Because of the smallness of the Indiana university varsity squad, which numbers only 39 players, Coach Bo McMillin today ordered Freshmen Coaches Paul Harrell and Tim Tamerario to prepare two first year elevens for duty against the Crimson in scrimmage.

Plays and defensive tactics used by Indiana's opening game foe, Centre college, which plays here Sept. 25, will be taught the freshmen.

Today's drill consisted mainly of blocking practice for the ends and backs, with stress on defense for the kicker and passer. Filchock called signals for the first team backfield, which includes Anderson and Fowler at half backs and Corby Davis at full.

The first intra-squad game will be played at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

MAROONS DON UNIFORMS.

Donning uniforms for the first time, Chicago's Maroons got a taste of contact yesterday when they attacked the dummies and bounced each other around in blocking and tackling drill.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy is pleased by the speed with which the first team has picked up new formations in the signal drill which has served as conditioning exercise the first three days.

A new recruit for the line, Bert Warshaw, 221 pound guard who transferred from Wright Junior college, reported yesterday. Shaughnessy is giving especial attention to two second team linemen, Dick Wheeler, 200 pound center, who saw some action last year, and Earl Pierce, 210 pound sophomore tackle, who was an All-State high school player at Box Elder, Utah.

N. U. SHIFTS RYAN.

Jack Ryan, versatile sophomore, yesterday war shifted from half back to full back on Northwestern university's first team. The Milwaukee boy can run, kick, and pass.

Barring injuries the Wildcat starting back field for the Iowa State game on Oct. 2 will consist of Capt. Don Heap and Bernie Jefferson at the half backs, Fred Vanzo at quarter back, and Ryan at full. That was the way the team lined up yesterday and it appears to be about the strongest combination available.

Tom Irving and Jack O'Leary, reserve linemen last year, were shifted from guard to right tackle. Bob Voigts, a letter man, has first call on the position, but Coach Waldorf hopes to develop more supporting strength at the post. John Rose, a junior, was shifted from full back to center.

The first scrimmage is scheduled for today.

IOWA PASSES, KICKS.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A pair of passing and kicking workouts were held at Iowa today. Real tackling is expected tomorrow when the running game is likely to be given an overhauling. The veterans Balazs, Schenk, and Lamb hurled passes in the aerial workouts. The sophomores, McLain and Kinnick, the latter a fast 160 pounder, appeared to be the most impressive of the punters.

Capt. Harris and Lannon, ends, are likely to keep the Chicago sophomores, Prasse and Evans, from the preferred lineup for the opener, but Henry Luebcke, 260 pound tackle, is waging a fine fight to displace one of the veterans at tackle or guard.

BIERMAN ISSUES WARNING.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Indicating that he isn't satisfied with the progress his Minnesota football squad is making, Coach Bernie Bierman warned the boys today that if they don't speed up changes will be made in the lineups of teams already chosen.

With that Bierman ordered a second day of scrimmage for the first and second teams. Changes were made frequently with Marty Christianson, sophomore, getting a chance at full back, right half, and quarter back again.

Bob Weld, veteran guard, watched proceedings from the sidelines because of a split lip suffered Monday night. Bob Johnson, a tackle, filled in. John Mariucci, end, was back in uniform after being bothered by a knee injury and alternated with Dwight Reed at left end.

GEDEON PUNTS WELL.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Despite a scrimmage yesterday which left many bruises, Michigan's squad got another offensive workout today. Running plays were again used exclusively as Coach Kipke continued to devote more time to kickers and passers.

Elmer Gedeon, candidate for end, punted well. Gedeon's punts outdistanced those of Fred Trosko, Stark Ritchie, and Jack Kinsey. Though he is rated as a first alternate at end Gedeon may work into a regular spot and be pulled into the back field to do the kicking, according to Coach Kipke.

Fred Janke, transformed tackle, continued to work at full back.

PURDUE STRESSES PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Aerial tactics predominated today in an extended scrimmage that brought to a close the day's double drill for Purdue's football squad.

Although there was considerable raggedness in running plays, the veteran pass catching trio of Jim Zachary, Don Powell, and Bill Vergane took turns in teaming up with Cecil Isbell to turn in an impressive performance.

Lowell Decker, letterman of two years ago, who dropped out of school last season after he had been burned in the shower house fire, is being given much attention in the search for a successor for John Drake at right half back.

Driscoll Seeks More Buivids at Marquette

Braden, who weighs 205 pounds and is 19 years old, is not a novice. He played the position while attending St. John's Cathedral High school in Milwaukee.

Morgan Busch, a junior from Algoma, Wis., who earned his varsity letter last year when Cuff was injured, is another possibility. Other candidates include Delbert Rider, a junior, and four sophomores, John Kelekovich, Dan Koster, Rush Niles, and Arnold Wilhelm.

Pilot Is Light.

Sophomores quite likely will make or break the offense. Johnny Maitsch, despite his 146 pounds, which still is a bit more than Pete Stinchcomb or Tippy Dye ever weighed while playing at Ohio State, is present first choice at quarter back. Colonel Betz, a passing, kicking half back from Trinity High school, Sioux City, Ia., is second choice as field general. And, of course, there's Sonnenberg to direct the team if necessary.

Reginald Coldagelli, a red headed sophomore from Eveleth, Minn., may be at right half back. This sturdy Italian youngster only needs seasoning. He's something of a kicker also, but at this time a lot of the boys including Betz and Sonnenberg are punting. Maitsch and Andy Bakula, a graduate of Marquette university high school, are the best of the forward passers.

Marquette may have lost the services of Harry Leysenaer, a sophomore from North High, Milwaukee, for this half back, deemed the best all-around performer in spring practice, was operated on for appendicitis nineteen days ago. He attended practice yesterday, however, but he cannot drill with the team for several weeks, if at all this season.

NOTRE DAME BACK OUT.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's football squad returned to fundamentals today, while a goodly percentage of the players rested from bumps and bruises received in yesterday's scrimmage.

Jake Kovalcik, monogram right half back, who was injured Saturday, probably will be out of action for two weeks. Injuries received yesterday by Denny Emanuel, left tackle, and Ed Simonich, full back, were said to be on the mend.

BADGERS SEEK GUARDS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Stuhldreher intensified his search today for a pair of guards fast enough to lead the interference on offense as he sent Wisconsin's football squad of 51 players through the first scrimmage of the season.

Leading candidates for the guard positions are Bill Davies, Clem Elden, Wally Cole, Lynn Hovland, Bob Weigandt, and John O'Brien. Elden is the only sophomore in the group, although at several other positions, notably at center and the two half backs, newcomers were giving the veterans a battle.

SOPHS LEAD ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Sophomores continued to dominate the lineup as the Illinois football squad went through two practices today.

With Harry Lasater, last year's sophomore tackle, still held back by illness, the tackle positions were occupied by newcomers. Jim Reeder, 185 pound candidate, and Willard Cramer, former Austin High school player, got off to good starts in their bids for positions.

Ken Zimmerman, last year's sub full back, and Jack Berner and Jay Wardley, quarter backs, are the best kickers located to date.

RABB TWISTS ANKLE.

Columbus, O., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Johnny Rabb, first team full back, twisted his right ankle in a dummy scrimmage with Ohio State university's football squad today. Although he retired from practice, Rabb was expected to be able to work out again tomorrow. Forrest Fordham took his position.

Christy, Milling Continue Work for Friday Bout

Four additional bouts were arranged yesterday for the show at White City Friday as Jimmy Christy, junior lightweight of the Catholic Youth organization, and Varias Milling of the Pacific coast continued training for their ten round main event. Nate Bolden of Chicago will meet Bobby Matthews, Fulton, Ky., fighter, now making his home in Rockford, in the semi-final at six rounds. A five round bout will bring together William Thomas, 1937 welterweight title holder of the Illinois Athletic club, and Lester Francis. Matches at four rounds pair Steve Karas of South Bend with Elby Johnson, and Pat Little with Phil Saell.

An amateur boxing show at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, and a wrestling card at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, will be held tonight. Jack Stamper, South Chicago heavyweight, who has scored six knockouts in his last eight fights, is matched to meet Sidney Moss for five rounds at White City. Sammy Sferas clashes with Jimmy Dunnington, Bill Murphy tackles Wendell White, and Eddie Conroy faces Willie Tyus in three of six other scraps.

Frankie Talaber and Jack Conley will appear in a featured match at Marigold. Bobby Burns and Pat Kelly will be opponents in the co-feature. Each bout is booked for one hour. Cliff Thiede clashes with Rudy Kay, Billy Goelz with Bobby Samson, and Eddie Schoen with Pete Holtz.

Chester Rudy, California welterweight, and Midget Mike Periera of Texas have been signed to meet in a six round return bout at Marigold next Monday. Rudy defeated Periera in the same ring last Monday. Other bouts on the card, which is topped by an eight rounder between Sammy Angott and Billy Marquart, will involve Frankie Agnes and Johnny Helstrom, and Ollie Graff and Phil Saell.

Cleveland and Detroit Take Softball Titles

Detroit and Cleveland carried off championships in the national softball tournament which was concluded at Soldiers' field last night before 3,000. First honors in the men's division went to the Briggs Manufacturing team of Detroit, which vanquished a club of mixed nationalites from Sapulpa, Okla., 1 to 0, in the final game.

The girls' title was retained by the National Manufacturing company entry of Cleveland, which turned back the Rayles of Detroit, 7 to 1.

This Was Expected.

The Briggs' triumph was no surprise as the Detroiters had eliminated the Bendix Brakes, 9 to 0, in the semi-finals yesterday. The Hoosiers had been strongly considered for championship honors by reason of their conquest of last year's champions, the Kodak Parks of Rochester, N. Y., earlier in the tournament.

Sapulpa entered the final bracket by defeating Miami, Fla., 3 to 0, in the semi-finals.

A Feminine Bob Feller.

The feminine Bob Feller, 20 year old Mary Skorovich, pitched for Cleveland against Detroit. She allowed only three hits and struck out 14. In addition she got two hits and scored a run. In the opening game of the tournament, she pitched a no-hit no-run game against Toronto.

The Cleveland girls, in their championship sweep, shut out four opponents and were not scored upon until tonight. They downed Toronto, 1 to 0; Memphis, 12 to 0; the Weaver Walls of Cleveland, 2 to 0, and entered the finals by beating Oklahoma City, 5 to 0, yesterday afternoon.

JOHNSTON, OUT AT GARDEN, FORMS A 30TH CENTURY A.C.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The birth of the 30th Century Athletic Club, Inc., was announced today by James J. Johnston, who, following the Henry Armstrong-Johnny De Foe bout Thursday night, will retire as boxing promoter at Madison Square Garden.

"We're 1,000 years ahead of time," Johnston remarked as he explained that the new corporation had been formed for athletic promotions and amusement enterprises.

The Garden will abandon the promotion of boxing after Thursday night's show and Mike Jacobs will move in on a two year lease which gives him the exclusive right to the arena for all professional fistic attractions.

Fast Field Will Compete Sunday at Fair Grounds

The farewell auto program at the Fair Grounds next Sunday figures to bring out a fine field of pilots, despite the fact that racing talent is beginning to move to the west coast for the winter season.

With George Connor, Frank Wearne and Jimmy Snyder, all winners of races, already signed for the event, Promoter Carl Stockholm believes Bob Sall and Hal Cole, winners of the other two races this season, will have signed entry blanks by tomorrow night.

Stockholm also held out hopes yesterday that the entry of Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis might be obtained before tomorrow night. Cummings is one of the most colorful figures in the racing game and with his type of driving, even the five winners of previous events will realize that there will be need for more speed than they ever have shown before at the Fair Grounds.

Recent rains, coupled with the oil treatments and work on the track bring the assurance that the Fair Grounds track will be at least a full second faster than ever before.

DOG RACING MAY GO ON, NEW YORK COURT HOLDS

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Dog racing at Mineola, N. Y., was assured for the rest of the season, ending Friday, by a decision today of the Appellate division of the Supreme court in Brooklyn.

Without ruling on the legality of the nightly greyhound contests attacked as gambling, the court unanimously upheld County Judge Richard W. Hawkins, who dismissed bookmaking charges against Percy C. Reed, president of the Nassau County Kennel club, and Richard F. Roberts, secretary.

The decision was based solely on whether District Attorney Martin W. Littleton of Nassau had the right of appeal. The court held that he didn't—that Judge Hawkins' opinion was tantamount to a directed verdict of acquittal.

tional singles title, and Louise Horn of Germany and Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland and Gracyn Wheeler of California, member of the United States Wightman cup team. The latter pair won the match, 6-4, 6-3.

Polish Girl Sets Pace.

The stocky Polish girl, who lost to the Chilean in the national singles final last week, put on a fine exhibition of volleying. Her terrific drives piled up frequent points.

With Jadwiga blasting the ball to all parts of the court, the Polish-American team won four of the first five games. Senorita Lizana executed several neat drop shots to win the next three games and tie the set.

Miss Jedrzejowska broke service to win the next game, following this with several excellent placements to take the next and final game.

The next set was tied at four games each when the Polish girl and her American partner again rallied to win three games in a row and take the set and match.

The singles matches on today's program will pit Budge against Henkel; Von Cramm against Bobby Riggs of the United States; Miss Jedrzejowska against Miss Horn, and Senorita Lizana against Miss Wheeler. The card will conclude with a doubles match between Riggs and Wayne Sabin and Patrick Hughes and C. E. Hare of England.

He sustained a dislocated right shoulder and, after an examination in the jockies' room, was taken to a hospital in Jamaica.

Lewa Yacillo will be on the mound for the Adducis, while either Tee Nicosia or Steve Murian will be the starting pitcher for the Schmidt Motors, defending champions.

RESUME PLAY IN NATIONAL POLO TOURNEY TODAY

Greentree Meets Argentine Four Tomorrow.

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Play will be resumed tomorrow in the national polo tournament with the first of the semi-final games at the Meadow Brook club in Westbury.

Returning to the Hitchcock field, where the opening game saw them overwhelm Aknusti on Saturday, Old Westbury meets Winston Guest's Templeton team—the winner to go into the final round.

Close Matches Promised.

On Thursday on the big international field, the Argentine riders come back to meet the threat of Tommy Hitchcock and the Greentree riders.

Both matches promise extremely tight play. There are favorites in each—Old Westbury and Greentree—but in both cases the opposition is strong enough to turn the tide the other way without that result's being justly labelled as an upset.

Templeton will ride with a rearranged lineup. Winston Guest has gone from back to No. 1, his brother Raymond goes to back and Capt. Humphrey Guinness, the British internationalist, rides at No. 3. Earle Hopping stays at No. 2.

Greentree Team Intact.

Thursday's game brings together the rivals who furnished the excitement in last year's match for the cup of the Americas. Greentree is riding with the same lineup as that which faced the Argentines last year and lost in two straight games, Pete Bostwick, Gerald Balding, Tommy Hitchcock, and Jock Whitney. Three of the members of the San Jose team, Luis Duggan, Andres Gazzotti and Manuel Andrada, were with last year's team. Heriberto Duggan, the fourth of this year's combination, has not been here before.

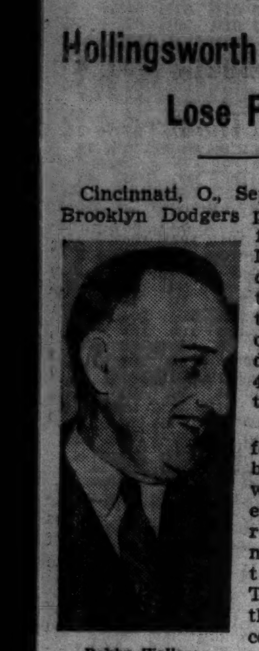
Hollingsworth Weakens to Lose First.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pushed the Reds further into the National league cellar today as they swept through the first of three straight double-headers, 4 to 2 and 11 to 2.



Bobby Wallace.

Held to one hit for eight innings by Al Hollingsworth, the Dodgers put over four runs in the ninth inning of the opener. Three walks and three hits accounted for the scoring.

Rookie Buck Marrow, who, with Outfielder Goodwin Rosen, reported this morning to the Dodgers from Louisville of the American association, blanked Cincinnati until the eighth inning of the second game.

The games marked the debut of Bobby Wallace as the Reds' acting manager. Scores:

NEWARK BEATS SYRACUSE, 2-1, ON 2 HOMERS IN 9TH

Newark, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Two home runs fashioned from three pitched balls in the last half of the ninth inning provided a story book finish to the first International league playoff game today and gave the Newark Bears a 2 to 1 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs. The other league playoff game, between Baltimore and Montreal at Montreal, was postponed because of wet grounds.

Center Fielder Harry Craft hit a home run for Syracuse in the fifth.

With two out in the ninth Flash Gordon, Newark's second baseman, hit the first ball pitched by Earl Cook over the left field bleachers to tie the score. Left Fielder Jimmy Gleeson followed. Cook's first pitch was a ball. Gleeson hit the second squarely and the ball rode into the right field stands for another round trip. Score:

Providence, R. I., Sept. 14.—(AP)—C. S. Howard, California sportsman and owner of Seabiscuit, famous handicap star, said today he was shipping his entire stable to Rockingham Park for the fall meeting, and that Seabiscuit would run throughout the New England racing season. The fall meet at Rockingham, at Salem, N. H., opens Sept. 20 and continues to Oct. 16.

Cubs Lose Two Games to Bees, 9 to 0 and 4 to 2

FIRST GAME

The Cubs' futile swinging in the first game was noticeable as early as the second inning. Hartnett walked, Hack singled and Cavarretta walked with one out, but Frey tapped into a double play. In the third inning Herman walked and Reynolds doubled after two were out. Demaree popped to Mayo to conclude the inning. It was the same in the fourth. With one out, Hack singled and Cavarretta walked. Frey grounded to Fletcher and a pass to Carleton loaded the bases. Then with a 3 and 2 count Galan let a third strike zip past.

The Bees' eight run fifth inning was quiet enough at the start. Mueller tripled to left center, Lanning fanned and Garms sent a fly to Galan, Mueller scoring. Then things really started to pop. Mayo doubled to left and Moore was purposely passed. Cuccinello dumped a single in short left, Mayo scoring. Fletcher singled to center and Moore ran home. Di Maggio singled to left and Cuccinello registered. That much accounted for four runs.

The Bombardment Continues.

Warstler slapped a single past Frey and moved Fletcher across the plate. Mueller, whose triple started the barrage, kept it going by singling to center to score Di Maggio. Carleton by this time was so deep in despair or something that he passed Lanning. Garms singled to center, Warstler and Mueller scoring. For fear that the inning might never end Logan came to Carleton's rescue and accomplished the long overdue third out on Mayo's tap to Frey.

The run scored off Logan's pitching in the ninth was started on a pass to Di Maggio with one out. He worked around to the plate on singles by Warstler and Mueller.

The only hits produced by the Cubs in the last five innings were doubles. Herman sent a two bagger to the left center field wall to open the fifth and still was on base when the inning ended.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs started the third inning of the second game with what they intended to be a rally, but it turned out to be the aforementioned triple play.

Bryant apparently hadn't recovered from his embarrassment when the Bees' fourth got under way. Mayo singled and Moore walked, both being shoved up a notch on Cuccinello's sacrifice. Fletcher purposely was passed, but the scheme didn't work. Reis, who took Di Maggio's place, singled off the wall in left, Mayo scoring. Moore counted on Warstler's fly to Galan.

The Cubs picked up a run in their half of the fourth despite a double play. Galan singled and Herman survived on a fumble by MacFayden. Reynolds lined to Cuccinello, who doubled Galan off second, but Herman managed to scramble back to first in time to stave off another triple play. Demaree then doubled to left, Herman scoring, and Hartnett was thrown out by Warstler.

Three hits were involved in the little affair by which the Bees scored another pair of runs in the fifth. With one out Garms singled to right and Mayo flied to Reynolds for the second out. Moore bounced a triple off the left center field bricks, Garms scoring. Moore skipped home on a single by Cuccinello. In the Cubs' half Hack doubled past third and scored on Warstler's fumble, making the count 4 to 2.

Curt Davis, who has a winning streak of two in a row, which is something considering he has won only six all season, will try his hand with the Bees in the third game of the series at Wrigley field today. A rookie named Milburn Shoffner will oppose the Cubs.

SOX SEEK SECOND PLACE AND FEAR PLUNGE TO FIFTH

Dietrich Opposes Red Sox in Boston Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—The White Sox are here ready to resume their drive on second or fifth place. Whereas second place seemed very nigh last Saturday noon, fifth place now is as close mathematically and much more threatening.

The White Sox will play the fourth place Red Sox only one game tomorrow, which on form is most fortunate. The White Sox have lost seven of their last eight games here, despite the fact they were able to win seven of their last eight games with the Red Sox at Comiskey park.

And Then Those Yankees.

There may be some who doubt the Sox will fatten up immediately upon their departure from Boston. They go to New York for games Friday and Saturday. The Yankees have lost only ten games on their home grounds this season. Two of these defeats were accomplished by the White Sox, but these were in the first half of the season when the Chicagoans were feeling much more heroic and ambitious than at present.

Bill Dietrich has been designated as the proper person to pitch the game in Boston. He may be opposed by Lefty Grove, who has a September shutout victory over the Sox to his credit. Lefty's 2 to 0 triumph was the only success the Red Sox salvaged out of their last visit to Chicago.

Lee to Oppose Champions.

If it rains here tomorrow the White Sox will be obliged to stay over and play Thursday, which is a scheduled day off. Otherwise, they will go to New York tomorrow evening and spend Thursday in relaxation and rooting for Thornton Lee to resume his wizardry over the Yanks in the opener there.

TOM PIATT MUST BE A VERY HAPPY HORSEMAN TODAY

His Dixie Girl Pays $72 and Flip Flap $42.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 7,000 racegoers who gathered at Hawthorne yesterday will not soon forget Thomas C. Piatt, Kentucky horseman, whose thoroughbred breeding place is located on the outskirts of Lexington.

He came along during the afternoon to slam over two of the longest priced horses of the Chicago season. His 2 year old filly, Dixie Girl, sneaked home by a length and a half to win the six furlong second race. She paid $72.40 in the betting.

His 3 year old filly, Flip Flap, caught nearly everybody at the track looking out the window in the Commodore purse at 6½ furlongs, when she drove up on the outside to win by two lengths and a half. Those who backed her got $42.80 for a $2 ticket after she had turned in the best speed of the day over a dull track.

Sallee Trains Both.

Both horses are trained by J. P. Sallee but they were ridden by different jockies. George South was in the saddle on Dixie Girl. Paul Ryan rode Flip Flap to her victory.

If the Piatt-Sallee combine wagered, they made the biggest cleanup that has been staged at a Chicago track this season, and there was no reason for them to have been afraid to bet, as both fillies scored easily. It was a case of their excellent condition having been overlooked while they tuned up for the engagements.

Mrs. C. E. Dale of Chicago, whose long shots this year have added much zip to the Chicago season, delivered with another one yesterday when she sent her route runner, Kairack, out to win the mile and a sixteenth fourth race.

Martin Barton at 9-10.

The crowd wagered heavily on Martin Barton and he was at 9 to 10 when they went to the post.

He would have been the winner, if Kairack had not been in the race. Kairack rushed to the front at the start and hustled along throughout the journey. He was in front of Martin Barton by about three lengths most of the way. He became a bit weary near the finish, but managed to win by a length and a half.

Martin Barton was second and Marie Jean third. Those who speculated on Kairack received $25 for each $2 they invested.

Still another upset came in the Dearborn purse at a mile and a sixteenth, which engaged nine of the best 3 year olds on the ground. The winner was Masker, owned by B. F. Whitaker of Dallas, Tex., shipped here from the east recently. He beat the stoutly backed Warfellow by two and a half lengths after he had let Oddesa Girl make the pace for him to the last turn. The latter saved third money.

Masker paid $16.20. The players of favorites were retreating by this time in wild disorder.

Weights were assigned yesterday for the Hawthorne Speed handicap and Hawthorne Juvenile handicap, the two $2,500 stake races that are to be run on Saturday. Silverette and Pompa will carry top weights in the Speed handicap. Each has been assigned 119 pounds. One pound back is the South American mare, Sahri II. Co-Sport will tote 124 pounds in the Juvenile, top weight in the field.

Jocky H. Chall, shaken up in a spill on Monday, did not go back into action yesterday, but expects to resume riding within the next couple of days.

Mrs. Joe Foley, wife of the Hawthorne public relations chief, underwent an appendicitis operation in St. Joseph hospital yesterday.

Paul Ryan is the jocky leader at Hawthorne, with twelve victories. L. Haas and J. G. Wilson are tied for second place, each with six winners.

TRIBUNE GOLF WRITER BARTLETT MARRIES TODAY

Miss Shannon is a niece of Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle church and former editor of the New World.

WHATA QUESTION, away fast, was kept under light restraint for about three-eighths, opened up a good lead on the stretch turn and, holding on well, stalled off HONORED MISS. Latter, raced very wide the last three-eighths, moved up fast on the stretch turn, stood pressure gamely and was wearing down the winner. NIGHT GAIL, away slowly and rushed to contention on the extreme outside, was under stout urging the last five-sixteenths and weakened in the final eighth.

DIXIE GIRL worked her way up gradually, was placed to increased urging when racing on the inside in the stretch, drew into command in the final eighth but was ridden out. DOUG BRASHEAR, fractious at the post and away slowly, was in close quarters on the stretch turn, rallied when clear but could not get to the winner. ETHELMONT, raced wide throughout, bettered her position steadily and was going evenly in the final stages.

TOP BILLING was under hustling tactics from the start, failed to withstand BLAUFUSS' challenge after they had straightened away in the stretch, but held on fairly well and got up for a lucky win. BLAUFUSS, brought over sharply soon after the start, forced the early pace under restraint, took command when called upon, stumbled badly when he hit a path soon after entering the final eighth and never fully recovered, though he barely failed to last. CAU-TIVO, away slowly, was rushed to contention in the first quarter, raced very wide the last three-eighths and weakened in the late stages.

Winner trained by C. E. Dale. Went to post at 3:52. Off at once. Start good, from gate. Won ridden out, place driving.

KAIRACK took command easily, was rated under a strong hold for three-quarters and holding on well, held MARTIN BARTON safe, though he had to be shaken up in the last sixteenth. MARTIN BARTON, well in hand for three-quarters, did not rally when urged yet held on well. MARIE JEAN, under stout reserve for about five-eighths and saving considerable ground, could not reach the leaders.

Time, :23 1-5, :47 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:21 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Flip Flap, $42.80 straight, $14.60 place, $9.20 show; Keokee, $7.00 place, $5.40 show; All Devil, $17.60 show. Winner trained by J. P. Sallee. Went to post at 4:21½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving.

FLIP FLAP, racing improved and taken out for the firmer footing after reaching the turn, was restrained for five-eighths, took command gradually and won with something left. KEOKEE had speed from the start, raced HY SONNY into submission before reaching the stretch turn and weakening in the final eighth, readily submitted to the winner, yet held others safe. ALL DEVIL, blocked by MARY VITO shortly after the start, was slow to respond, but came with improved speed when racing wide in the stretch.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Masker, $16.20 straight, $7.00 place, $5.20 show; Warfellow, $4.40 place, $3.80 show; Oddesa Girl, $3.60 show. Winner trained by J. H. McCoole. Went to post at 4:51½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

MASKER forced the pace under steady reserve, veered out badly on the stretch turn, took command quickly when straight and swerved over when drawing out. WARFELLOW, away slowly and slow to settle into full stride, began to move up fast after a half mile, lost much ground in the last three-eighths and weakened in the last eighth but outstayed ODDESA GIRL. Latter took command easily, was placed to pressure after reaching the final quarter, but gave way steadily in the final three-sixteenths.

FLINT SHOT, under a strong hold for five-eighths, was vigorously shaken up on the final turn, gained a short advantage when straightening up in the stretch, and staying on gamely, held it thereafter. SAFE AND SOUND, on the inside throughout and under steady reserve for almost three-quarters, failed to hold the winner entering the stretch, but held on with good courage and appeared the stronger of the two at the end. VEEKS saved much ground and taken back slightly on the second turn came again before tiring.

SARACEN took command quickly, was rated under a steady hold for three-quarters, and mildly shaken up in the stretch, continued strongly, winning with something left. ALMAC bettered his position gradually and holding on with determination, wore down FIRE ADVANCE in the last fifty yards. The latter, well rated, held on with good courage. MARFEU had no mishaps.

GREYHOUND SETS RECORD FOR 1½ MILES OF 3:02½

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—E. J. Baker's five year old trotter, Greyhound, set a world record for one and one-half miles today, going the distance over a poor track in 3:02½ in a special time trial at the state fairgrounds.

Sep Palin, Greyhound's driver, elected to send the horse a mile and a half today rather than a mile because of the condition of the track and a strong wind which swept the course. Greyhound raced the last mile in 2:00½. His time for the full distance broke the record of 3:12¼, set recently by Rosalind, winner of the 1936 Hambletonian.

If weather conditions are favorable, Palin plans to send Greyhound out for the mile record on Saturday.

TECHNICAL CORN CORNER PROBED BY GRAIN BOARD

Sellers Unable to Make Delivery.

Fears that a technical corner had developed in the September delivery of corn on the Chicago Board of Trade, due to inability of sellers of futures to obtain sufficient supplies of cash grain to fill their contracts, resulted yesterday in sudden decision by the business conduct committee of the exchange to obtain the facts in regard to the total of uncompleted contracts in corn for September delivery.

A demand was made yesterday by the committee for information concerning the amount of September corn held by any speculator or cash firm, with the name and address of the commission house customer. Correspondents of Chicago grain firms were notified by wire to make immediate reports. This was said to have been the first time such action has ever been taken.

Prices Fluctuate Sharply.

For a number of weeks trade reports have indicated that an unusual situation had developed in September corn. The sharp price fluctuations which have been an almost daily occurrence, have tended to create a belief that there might be untoward developments before trading in the September future ceases on Sept. 27.

The Cargill Grain company is reported to be the largest holder of September corn contracts. The short interest is understood to be widely held and for the account of speculators throughout the country. Part of the sales were said to represent hedges against holdings of Argentine corn. This grain cannot be delivered on future contracts under department of agriculture regulations governing trading on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Large Contracts Uncompleted.

At the opening of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday there were 15,754,000 bushels of uncompleted contracts in September corn. About 25 per cent of this amount was believed to be represented by spreads between job lots [transactions in units of 1,000 bushels] and round lots [or 5,000 bushel units]. During the last six weeks the total of uncompleted contracts has been reduced only 3,500,000 bushels, which leading members of the exchange yesterday said was an unusual situation.

Supplies of domestic corn in the United States at the present time, as indicated by recent reports by the department of agriculture, are the smallest on record, and corn receipts at Chicago during the last six weeks have been among the smallest ever known. This has prevented the accumulation of a stock of grain needed for delivery on September contracts.

Consumers Import Corn.

As the result of their inability to obtain supplies of domestic grain, leading industries, feed manufacturers, distillers, and others have been forced to import approximately 75,000,000 bushels of Argentine, South African and other foreign corn during the crop year which began Nov. 1, 1936.

The business conduct committee of the exchange is understood to have been holding almost daily conferences recently in an effort to induce the holders and sellers of September corn to even up their positions in the market. The commodity exchange administration is reported to have been represented at the meetings.

Since trading in September corn was begun on the Board of Trade the price has fluctuated between 89¾ cents and $1.16½ a bushel. It was quoted yesterday around $1.03 a bushel, or about 30 cents over the October delivery, and at a premium of about 40 cents over corn for December delivery.

The December and May contracts represent grain which will be harvested this fall. New corn from this year's harvest is not expected to be available for delivery on September contracts unless it is shipped from Texas or Oklahoma, and high freight rates are said to preclude any large amount being shipped to Chicago.

ILLINOIS FARMERS GET LARGER CASH INCOME THIS YEAR

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The cash income from Illinois farm marketings in July was $52,164,000, or 3 per cent more than for the same month a year ago and 73 per cent larger than in July, 1935, the federal and state agricultural departments reported today.

Higher prices received for a larger winter wheat crop were credited for boosting the total income from farm sales to $271,463,000 for the first seven months this year, compared to $243,493,000 for the same period in 1936.

Farm Leaders Told Plan for Crop Control

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Farm leaders, called here to formulate a 1938 program, disclosed tonight the administration will make a definite attempt to control acreage of major crops next year.

The leaders were handed a tentative draft of a 1938 program which calls for definite limitation on cotton, corn, tobacco, potatoes, peanuts, and rice. Secretary Wallace and AAA officials, who summoned the farm leaders here, declined definite information on the proposals.

The farm delegates explained that a national "goal" or limit on acreage for the six crops was proposed. Each state, county, and individual farm would receive a share or "goal."

These limits, proposed in the confidential memoranda distributed to the farm leaders only, represent considerable reductions from this year's acreage of cotton and rice, with attempts to maintain the acreage of corn, tobacco, potatoes, and peanuts near the present levels.

Plan to Subsidize Farmers.

The $500,000,000 authorized by congress annually under the soil conservation act would be used to induce farmers to participate in the acreage limitation. Deductions would be made from these payments if the limits were exceeded.

The national "goals" suggested to the farm delegates were: Cotton, 29,000,000 to 31,000,000 acres; corn, 92,000,000 to 96,000,000; tobacco, 1,585,000 to 1,660,000; potatoes, 3,100,000 to 3,300,000; peanuts, 1,500,000 to 1,600,000; rice, 825,000 to 875,000.

The indicated acreage of these crops for harvest this year and the five year [1928-'32] average acreage follow: Cotton, 33,736,000 and 40,541,000; corn, 96,146,000 and 103,419,000; tobacco, 1,690,000 and 1,872,000; potatoes, 3,224,000 and 3,327,000; peanuts, 1,666,000 and 1,417,000; rice, 1,003,000 and 925,000.

Explain Use of "Goals."

The farm delegates said the county "goals" for cotton, tobacco, and rice were proposed for every county where these crops are grown, and those for corn, potatoes, and peanuts would be established only in principal commercial producing areas designated by the AAA. County and farmer AAA committees would be given authority to establish the goals for individual farms.

The farm leaders called into conference here included more than a hundred state AAA officers, state agricultural committeemen, and others.

OFFICIAL RAPS REALTY MOVES TO LIMIT TAXES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Organized campaigns by real estate interests for fixed tax limits, Charles J. Fox, city auditor of Boston, said today, constitute the "most serious menace to the stability of municipal government and finances in this country." He spoke at the annual conference of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada.

The campaign for fixed tax limits, Fox added, "still persists despite the evident and proven fallacies of the proposals." He traced the various moves of campaigns for tax limitation on real estate in various parts of the country, and asserted that "it is incumbent upon us to take up the cudgels in a most positive manner against this insidious proposal if we are truly interested in the continued maintenance in this country of stable and sane municipal government."

The chief sponsor of the fight for real estate tax limits, Fox said, was the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with headquarters in Chicago.

1938 SUGAR CANE QUOTA IS FIXED BY SEC. WALLACE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace estimated today that sugar cane growers in the United States must produce 439,071 short tons of sugar in 1938 to meet the estimated quota for next year.

The estimate is a requirement under the new sugar quota legislatoin. The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced a conference of cane growers to determine how next year's quota would be split up among factories and growers. A portion of the crop is produced by growers under contracts to factories. The meeting, to which Louisiana and Florida growers have been invited, will be at Baton Rouge, La., on Sept. 20.

AAA officials explained that the new legislation permits a cane grower to produce any amount he desires, if he does not wish to share in the benefit payments. If he wishes to receive the benefit payments, estimated at $50,000,000 annually, he must comply with the allotment schedule to be worked out.

GRAINS REVERSE RECENT SLUMP; CLIMB SHARPLY

European Countries Buy Wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.05	$1.02⅞	$1.11½
Corn	.63⅝	.62½	.95⅝
Oats	.30⅜	.29¾	.42¼
Rye	.77⅝	.76⅝	.81⅞
Soy beans	.94½	.94⅛	.....

Grain markets reversed their recent downward trend yesterday. Wheat futures closed with gains of 2 cents a bushel or more, and corn and rye were up sharply. Strength in security markets and an advance of 2⅛ to 2⅞ cents a bushel in the Liverpool market were said to have been largely responsible for the strength in wheat.

European countries came into the market for large supplies of North American cash wheat yesterday for the first time in a number of weeks and sales in all positions were finally estimated as high as 3,000,000 bushels, including 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain.

Traders Less Apprehensive.

Removal of hedges against the export sales of cash grain had considerable influence on North American markets. There also was a marked lessening of the uneasy feeling which has prevailed recently.

Pronounced strength in the Liverpool wheat market was attributed to a scarcity of ocean freight room and a marked revival in the demand for flour in the United Kingdom. The latter factor necessitated large purchases of foreign wheat. Export sales of nearly 1,000,000 bushels of American wheat yesterday were said to have been the largest day's business since the new crop started to move late in June.

A freight rate of 18 cents a bushel was reported being asked for wheat for shipment from Galveston to Europe. Shipping interests attribute the high rate to the big demand for space for shipments of metal, as well as a close adjustment of the world's supply of ocean vessels to the demand.

September Corn Erratic.

September corn fluctuated erratically within a range of about 3 cents a bushel. Longs showed a disposition to sell on the advances and shorts were buying on the recessions. Closing trades were at $1.03⅞, a net gain of 1⅝ cents. There was little comment on the part of brokers regarding the action of the business conduct committee of the exchange calling for a complete list of uncompleted contracts in September corn.

New crop deliveries of corn were firmer in sympathy with the September option and with wheat. Weather conditions were generally regarded as favorable for development of the crop. Trade reports indicated a moderate amount of American rye had been sold for export yesterday.

Sales of 400,000 bushels of Argentine corn which had been held in bond at New York were reported to have been made yesterday for shipment to Antwerp and Rotterdam.

BOOST ASPIRIN; DUE TO HEADACHE IN STOCK MART?

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—It might be due to the stock market or it might be the weather, but the price of aspirin is up five cents a pound, it was learned today.

The market for aspirin has been quiet in the last few months and the trade attributes the price boost to the recent advance in phenol and higher labor costs. In much less authoritative quarters it was suggested that wintry blasts and stock market gloom have nurtured a good crop of sniffles and headaches, respectively, hence the price rise.

In the event the thermometer and the stock market continue falling the following bulk quotations for acetylsalicylic acid [aspirin to you], might be pertinent: 225 pound barrels, 55 cents a pound; 25 pound drums, 56 cents a pound.

Commercial Paper Total Rises; Gain Below Normal

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A total of $329,000,000 of open market commercial paper was outstanding at the end of August, according to the Federal Reserve bank of New York. This compares with $324,700,000 at the end of July and $205,200,000 at the close of August, 1936. The increase in August was less than seasonal basis.

Fall Business to Exceed '36, Says Babson

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Roger W. Babson in a speech here today said that general business is certain to be better this fall than it was a year ago. He was less optimistic about the long term economic outlook but said that bumper farm crops assure an improvement in business during the remainder of the year.

Roger W. Babson.

Babson described himself as bullish on the stock market but warned that there were elements that make the outlook not entirely favorable. If a real inflation period gets underway it means that the bull market is only beginning, he said.

Finds Inflation Creeping On.

"Notwithstanding denials at Washington, inflation is steadily creeping upon us," he said. "To a large extent its harmful effects have thus far been offset by labor saving machinery and speeding up of production."

Babson figures the chances are 6 to 4 that the dollar will ultimately decline to 20 per cent of its predevaluation worth.

"How else will our huge personal, corporation, and public debts be paid," he asked. The alternative to inflation, he said, is debt repudiation.

Crop control, money management, and legislative wage and price fixing cannot solve the economic problems of the country, he said. A reckoning will inevitably arrive. The present tax on undistributed corporation earnings, he added, is likely, if continued, to make the next depression worse than the last.

FARM PROSPERITY.

The agricultural population is now enjoying greater prosperity than other classes of American workers. Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, said yesterday in his monthly business review.

"Farm income will be almost as high in 1937 as in 1929," he continued. "Costs of living for the farmers are much lower now than they were eight years ago. Wages paid to farm laborers are not nearly so high, and farmers have been relieved, largely through federal subventions, of a burden of interest payments on loans and mortgages amounting to several hundred million dollars a year."

The bulletin also calls attention to the fact that business thus far in 1937 has made remarkable gains without the bonus stimulant that bolstered trade last year."

An unfavorable factor in the current outlook, Ayres said, is that industrial recovery in the United States has so far failed to keep pace with the rapid expansion of activity in the rest of the world.

French Franc and Other European Currencies Sag

The French franc declined yesterday in terms of American currency in the exchange market. Other European currencies were also lower against the dollar. The franc closed 0.00875 cent lower at 3.56625 cents. The British pound dropped ¼ of a cent to $4.95. The engagement yesterday of $12,426,000 foreign gold for shipment to this country was reported by the New York reserve bank. The total included $3,900,000 previously engaged but not reported.

ONLY MONEY PINCH PRESIDENT IS SURE ABOUT IS HIS OWN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP) President Roosevelt confided to newsmen today that he has his own financial troubles.

He was asked at his press conference about the general monetary situation and particularly if he thought there was any prospect of a "money pinch."

The chief executive referred his questioner to the treasury. Then he added, with a smile, that he himself is always in a money pinch.

NEW HUDSONS DIRECT APPEAL TO WOMEN BUYERS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Appeal to women buyers is to be emphasized in the 1938 models of the Hudson Motor Car company, A. E. Barit, president, said here tonight at a showing of new models to the company's dealers. Details of changes from 1937 cars will not be made public until a formal announcement in the middle of October.

Barit said the 1938 line will consist of four completely new models—the Hudson eights and sixes—and two models of the new Hudson terraplane.

"Women pass their approval on a large number of the cars purchased," Barit said, "and for that reason we have had our cars designed to attract them at the start."

He said the new models will continue the 55 inch front compartment width and will have greater interior body length which is used to gain leg room. New treatment has been given the front grille to acccentuate the longer hoodline. There will be a number of engineering improvements and new features will be built into the automatic gearshift.

The company plans to expand considerably its production schedule as compared with the model year just closed when about 130,000 cars were built.

UNION LEADER FLAILS CONDUCT OF LABOR BOARD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—An American Federation of Labor leader said today the recent election victory of an A. F. of L. affiliate in the National Electric Products company's plant at Ambridge, Pa., was a "rebuke to the administrative conduct of the national labor relations board."

D. W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the workers' margin of 105 votes over a C. I. O. affiliate in collective bargaining balloting would have been larger "if a sane environment had existed for the election."

Some weeks ago a Pennsylvania Federal court ordered the company to adhere to the closed shop agreement with the A. F. of L. union. But the labor board, to whom the C. I. O. appealed, ruled that the agreement was invalid because it did not represent the wish of a majority of the company's workers. At the same time, it ordered the election to determine whether the A. F. of L., or C. I. O. should represent them.

Rise in Meats and Vegetables Boost Food Bill

Higher prices for both meat and vegetables have caused the cost of feeding the average Chicago family to rise sharply in the last two weeks, a survey of wholesale food prices in the Chicago area indicated yesterday.

Pork and top grades of beef showed the largest advance among meats. Since Sept. 4 best grades of pork have climbed in the wholesale market from 24½ to 31 cents a pound and poorest grades have moved up from 17½ to 19½ cents.

Poorest Beef Is Cheaper.

Poorest grades of beef actually were 1 cent a pound cheaper in the wholesale market yesterday than two weeks ago, but such a small decline was not likely to be reflected in retail prices. Lamb, however, declined about 2 cents a pound for all grades.

Almost all vegetables moved up. Carrots, string beans, tomatoes and spinach made substantial advances. The advance in cabbage was more moderate. Some grades of celery and tomatoes were slightly lower.

Eggs advanced more than 1½ cents a dozen and butter climbed about 1 cent a pound in the Chicago wholesale market. The average price of potatoes, however, declined from $1.51 a hundred pounds to $1.23.

Comparisons of Prices.

Yesterday's wholesale prices on a representative group of food articles going into the family market basket and comparative prices follow:

	Sept. 14.	Aug. 27.
Potatoes, cwt....	$1.23	$1.51
Eggs, extra, doz.	.23⅛	.21½
Butter, 92 scr, lb	.34	.33

KATY TO OMIT ADJUSTMENT BOND INTEREST

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Matthew S. Sloan, chairman and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, said today that in order to maintain the "present favorable cash position" of the company it was decided not to make a further payment on the adjustment 5 per cent bonds at this time.

Sloan said a full year's interest on these bonds was paid last April; that maintenance expenditures had been substantially increased; and that the company will expend during the year, in addition to the proceeds of equipment trust certificates, more than $1,000,000 out of current cash in the purchase of new equipment.

Omission of the coupon representing semi-annual interest on the adjustment 5s will bring the accumulated interest to 10 per cent, a two year accumulation.

STOCK MARKET INSTRUCTION
(Not an Advisory Service)

It is the history of all markets that their progress is periodically interrupted by violent reactions in which the public invariably sustains great losses.

You can avoid stock market calamities.

The Wyckoff Course clearly instructs students how to see, before a severe reaction, the indications to be out of the market "on the long side" and in "on the short side."

It proves furthermore that ALL market commitments can be protected by scientific limitation of risk. The Method insists on this sound procedure and shows exactly how it is done. This phase of the Method alone is worth its total cost.

The Science and Technique of Stock Trading and Investing definitely can be learned and should pay lifelong dividends! If you would have this proved to your entire satisfaction, clip and mail the attached coupon—Today!

Landis Quits SEC; Suggests Greater Curbs

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—James M. Landis, Harvard law professor who became Wall street's "boss," resigned today as chairman of the securities and exchange commission. He will return to Harvard as dean of its law school. Landis said after submitting his resignation to President Roosevelt that the commission had made "substantial beginnings, but there is no end."

James M. Landis.

"Its work, like that of the interstate commerce commission, will go on forever," he said. "These are public corporations. The masses have their money invested. Eventually the commission may be something like a ministry of public finance."

He said he hopes congress will enact "some further legislation" regulating financial reorganizations and investment trusts.

Replies to Gay's Charges.

He replied to the charges of Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock exchange, that excessive regulation by the commission resulted, among other factors, in thin markets and destroyed their liquidity. Landis defended the commission's policies, asserting that buyers in small lots and not the short term speculative traders had provided the only cushion during the recent sharp declines in the stock market.

"The cushion," he said, "was provided by the backbone of the country, not by speculative activity in the street. Surely, if we are looking for stability in the market, it must rest on that type of small lot buying and selling."

Mathews to Fill Gap.

Pending appointment of a new member of the commission, George C. Mathews, vice chairman, will be acting chairman. The commission will elect a new chairman when it again has a full membership. William C. Douglas, a member, has been mentioned frequently as Landis' successor.

President Roosevelt, in a letter, accepted Landis' resignation "with real regret." Recalling Landis' activities as a federal trade commissioner, a collaborator in drafting the 1933 securities act and an original member of the commission, the President said Landis had been "a leader in a field of financial regulation where most of the supposed experts were sure that government could not intelligently intervene for the protection of the public."

UNION BAG-PAPER STOCK SPLITUP CIVEN APPROVAL

Stockholders of the Union Bag and Paper corporation at a special meeting yesterday in New York approved a four for one splitup of the company's common shares and the issuance of $7,000,000 of convertible debentures. The recapitalization provides for an increase in the authorized stock from 300,000 to 1,500,000 shares.

President Alexander Calder told stockholders that net profits of the company for the first eight months of 1937 would aggregate $984,167, compared with $387,391 for all of 1936.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Stocks rallied sharply today on short covering and speculative buying which sent prices up fractions to more than 4 points for leading issues. Higher priced equities climbed 6 to 15 points. Although volume diminished on the upturn, trading was brisk and the quotation ticker fell 2 minutes behind floor trading at times. Transactions totaled 1,508,450 shares, compared with 2,561,820 yesterday.

After a strong opening prices fell back for a time but soon recovered. This selling was ascribed to professionals who, it was believed, preferred to test the market's vulnerability before assuming other positions. The failure of this move to turn the market about forced them to seek immediate cover, causing demand to outstrip offerings and making for sharp upturns between sales.

Foreign Buying Reported.

Brokers reported a moderate amount of the buying today for foreign and large corporation interests. This was especially true of industrial and rail leaders, they said.

U. S. Steel common jumped 2¼ points on its first sale. Chrysler rose a similar amount and Anaconda, Sears-Roebuck, and Republic added from 1 to 1½ points.

Following the early selloff the second rally resulted in wider gains. U. S. Steel common extended its rise pushed ahead to 100½, but reacted to 99⅛ for a net gain of 4¼ points. Deere, up 8 points at one time, fell back for a 5 point net increase.

In the railroad division New York Central advanced 1¾ points. Atchison, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, and Chesapeake and Ohio registered gains averaging 1½ points. Union Pacific proved an exception, easing a point.

Utilities Rise in Light Trade.

Utilities also worked higher but on smaller volume. Favorites, such as North American and Consolidated, advanced a point or so, while fractional increases were the rule in the main body of power shares. In the electric equipments General Electric was in good demand and improved 1½ points. Westinghouse jumped 4¼ points.

Anaconda was outstanding in the coppers, advancing 2½ points in heavy demand. Other leaders, including Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, and Howe Sound added similar amounts.

In the farm equipment group only moderate buying was necessary to lift prices as much as 6 points. That increase was made by Case. International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers and Oliver Farm Equipment added 3 or 4 points each.

Socony-Vacuum, Texas corporation and Pure Oil met good support in the oil group, gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. In the amusements, Paramount improved 1½. Zenith, Loew's and Warner Brothers advanced fractions to over 2 points.

Radio corporation was exceptionally active and rose a major fraction. Douglas, up 3⅛, and Boeing, up 2⅝, led the aviation group into higher territory.

Specialties and preferred issues to advance included American Can, up 6¾; American Telephone, up 6; Owens Glass, up 3¼; du Pont, up 5; Union Bag and Paper, up 5⅛; Radio preferred, up 3⅛; Johns-Manville, up 3¾; Sloss-Sheffield, up 15; U. S. Gypsum, up 8, and Commonwealth and Southern preferred, up 5 points.

FOREIGN PRICES MIXED.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Stocks reacted from a strong opening on the London exchange and closed irregular. Transatlantics continued in demand but rayon, steel, and shipping issues were easier. The Paris bourse closed irregular with trading inactive.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks advanced minor fractions to more than two points on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday after nearly a week of an almost uninterrupted decline. Low priced shares were heavily bought on the rally.

The TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed at 16.17, up 0.62 and only 0.12 below the best level of the session. Of the 105 issues traded, 59 advanced, 16 declined, and 30 were unchanged.

Issues up $1 to $2 a share included Bliss & Laughlin, Borg-Warner, Chicago Flexible Shaft, Dayton Rubber, Goldblatt, Jarvis, Marshall Field, Noblitt Sparks, Swift International, and Zenith Radio. Volume of trading contracted to 50,000 shares from 81,000 shares Monday.

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A substantial upturn in federal loans led the bond market to higher ground today. Domestic corporate obligations moved forward from fractions to more than 4 points and foreign dollar issues were in good demand.

Following in the wake of the treasury's announcement of freeing $300,000,000 in "sterilized" gold, government bonds extended yesterday's gains to finish in some cases as much as 14-32 point higher. Turnover in governments was almost twice that of Monday, with approximately $2,170,000 par value changing hands.

Convertible and lower priced carrier liens were strong. Industrial and utility obligations were generally higher although there were a few exceptions.

Western Union 5s broke 4⅛ to 80 in anticipation of an announcement which came shortly after the close that the company had deferred payment of the quarterly dividend on common stock.

Foreign dollar obligations advanced along a broad front, gains ranging from fractions to around 2 points. Japanese loans scored the largest advances.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust company stock slumped $20 a share yesterday to a new low for this year. American National and National Boulevard each declined $5. Continental Illinois advanced $8 a share, First National rose $4, and Mercantile Trust and Terminal National each climbed $3.

Commodities

Most commodity prices again followed the leadership of stocks yesterday by rallying from the low levels reached in the sharp decline on Monday. The improvement did not extend through the entire list, however, and some staples continued to lose ground.

Egg futures advanced ⅛ cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange and eggs for immediate delivery gained ½ to 1 cent a dozen. Traders said the improvement was due to heavier storage withdrawals in leading markets.

November butter closed ⅜ cent a pound higher at 34 cents and cash butter was marked up ¼ to 1 cent a pound.

Chicago dealers reported a broader inquiry for frozen whites of eggs from users who formerly looked to China for supplies. May whole frozen eggs were slightly lower on the exchange, however, with offers at the close at $18.75 a hundred pounds and no bids.

Coffee futures were irregular and cash coffee was unchanged.

Export copper slipped in afternoon trading to sales between 13.75 and 13.80 cents a pound after early transactions were made as high as 13.90 cents. Copper futures slipped 0.02 to 0.10 cent a pound. Lead futures improved 0.11 to 0.13 cent a pound, and tin futures gained 0.30 cent a pound.

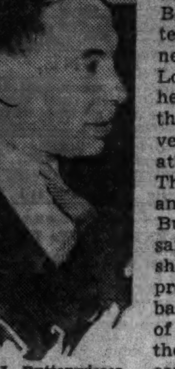
PUBLIC OPINION GREATEST LAW, BANKERS TOLD

Buttenwieser Says SEC Principles Sound.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The force of public opinion surpasses in regulatory effect any legislative act, Benjamin J. Buttenwieser, partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., said here today before the Financial Advertisers' association convention. The securities and exchange act, Buttenwieser said, could and should be improved, but the basic philosophy of the statute—the principle of complete disclosure—is unassailably sound, he asserted.



B. J. Buttenwieser.

"Investment bankers who value their relationship with the public, can find no fault," he said, "with any legislation which seeks to codify what has always been the first business principle of any investment banker of standing."

Security Types Differ.

The rôle of the investment banker is not confined to issuing only the highest grade of ultra conservative securities, he continued.

"When one considers the varying degrees of investment security which various strata of the investing public seek," Buttenwieser asserted, "and the capital requirements of vastly different types of borrowers, one can readily appreciate that investment bankers must be prepared to sponsor manifold types of securities.

Variation Wanted.

"Otherwise, many a worthy borrower, possibly in some infant industry, would be deprived of the opportunity for development through failure to obtain the requisite capital."

He said that advertising has proven it pays but added that investment bankers, by the nature of their business, are prohibited from using it to the extent employed for so-called nationally advertised products.

William H. Neal, vice president in charge of public relations of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company, Winston-Salem, N. C., was elected president of the association for the coming year.

Pork Soars to Highest Price for September in Eight Years

Fresh cuts of pork yesterday soared to the highest September levels in eight years as retail butcher shops and meat dealers competed in wholesale channels to obtain pork for the expanding consumer demand. Top selected light loins in Chicago rose to $31 per hundred pounds, indicating a gain of $6.50 in ten days. Gains of 50 cents to $1 were registered here, and upturns at some of the relatively lower eastern distributing points ranged upward to $2.

Buyers scrambled for the scant supply of hogs offered at the yards yesterday in one of the wildest sessions witnessed in recent years.

Hog Prices Climb.

Prices were 25 to 50 cents higher than the average on Monday and $1.25 to $1.50 above the low spot of last week. There were many instances of considerably more gain in the lightweights under 170 pounds, as well as in the butchers over 250 pounds, as packers bought for numbers in an effort to fill their orders.

Some are inclined to regard the new sharp gains with skepticism, since the level of pork and hog prices is closely approaching the peak reached in August, which was the basis for the widespread consumer boycott that brought a severe collapse of the markets about five weeks ago.

Swine Average Is $11.95.

Selected 210 pound hogs topped the list yesterday at $13, compared with $11.70 a week ago. The average reached $11.95, compared with $10.65 for the preceding Tuesday.

A new nineteen year high on cattle for September was reached yesterday when prime 1,123 pound averages from an Iowa feeder sold at $18.90. Yearling steers averaging 1,083 pounds sold at $18.85, a new high for these weights. The bulk of beef steers brought $10 to $18. Steers were strong to 25 cents higher. Beef cows, hefers, canners, cutters, stockers, and feeders were steady to strong. Calves gained 50 cents.

Further advances of 25 to 50 cents were made in lambs, with the top at $11.35 and the bulk at $11 to $11.25. Old ewes at $4.25 showed 25 cents gain.

KING PREDICTS LOWER INCOME TAX BRACKETS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Senator King [D., Utah] said today that congress will find it necessary to lower income tax exemptions so as to reach more taxpayers. Tax revision is one of the administration's proposals for the next session of congress.

King said he would propose legislation to "codify and simplify" the tax laws, repeal of the capital gains tax, and to make material changes in the undistributing profit tax.

He asserted the capital gains levy had not produced substantial revenue and had retarded business activity, while the undistributed profits tax should be changed to permit corporations to make deductions in cases where they are prevented by special circumstances from declaring dividends. He said he was "disappointed" at the manner in which the board of tax appeals has functioned and will propose that the board's judicial powers be curtailed.

North Western Hearing Delayed for Four Weeks

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The interstate commerce commission postponed today until Oct. 15 further hearings on a reorganization plan for the Chicago and North Western railway. Hearing were to have been resumed today after a recess from May 28. The additional interval was allowed to permit completion of studies of North Western trafic and operations.

Everyday Economics

This daily feature is presented in response to requests for simple explanations of matters concerning finance, business, and the markets. Suggestions from readers are welcomed. Address "Editor, Everyday Economics."

The Meat Export Trade.

In the past, exports of the American meat packing industry have provided a large volume of business. In the last few years, however, exports have fallen sharply, the result of drouths in this country, government crop curtailment programs, and liberalized import restrictions. In addition, monetary difficulties of foreign countries, prohibitions against exports of funds, programs of national self-sufficiency, and other factors have served to cut down foreign markets of the United States.

Export trade is confined chiefly to pork and lard. Beef, veal, and lamb represent a small part of the amounts produced or of meat exports.

America exports pork products to fifty countries in a normal year. The United Kingdom purchases more pork and lard than any other country. Germany is also a large buyer, normally, but it has restricted purchases recently. Cuba, Mexico, and France and some Central and South American countries also buy large quantities.

The amount of meat exported depends on production here and abroad, and the vigor of international trade. Packers sell abroad in the following ways: Through branch houses located abroad; through foreign agents acting exclusively for one company or for several concerns; through coöperative export associations, and through export brokers.

Other Earnings Reports Disclose Mixed Trend.

Postal Telegraph Land Lines, a division of Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation, reported yesterday it lost $432,179 in July, against a loss of $121,085 in the same 1936 month. Loss for the first seven months of this year was $1,786,039, against a deficit of $848,573 in the 1937 period.

Crown Cork and Seal company had consolidated net profit of $1,130,966, equal to $1.70 a share on 517,582 common shares, in the first half of this year, against profit of $1,036,552, or $2.27 a share on 370,620 shares, in the corresponding 1936 period.

Subsidiary Operates at Loss.

The improvement occurred despite a loss of $494,460 incurred by a can making subsidiary which began operations in January, 1937. Extraordinary expenses of $215,000 were incurred and charged off during the period.

G. Krueger Brewing company reported profit of $191,906, equal to 76 cents a share on 250,000 common shares, in the six months ended July 31, against profit of $408,885, or $2.04 a share on 200,000 shares, in the same 1936 period.

STATE I. C. C. ASKS EARLY RULING IN GAS RATE FIGHT

Seeks Supreme Court Order to Get Books.

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday asked the United States Supreme court for an early hearing on the case involving the commission's fight to gain access to the books of the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America.

Harry R. Booth, attorney for the commission, announced that a motion was forwarded to the clerk of the high court declaring that the pipe line company case is closely related to one involving litigation over an increase of 3 million dollars in the domestic rates of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company.

Peoples Gas Owns 26.6%.

Natural Gas Pipe Line is an interstate company bringing natural gas from Texas oil fields to Joliet, Ill. From there the gas is brought to Chicago by the Chicago District Pipe Line company. Peoples Gas controls 26.6 per cent of the stock of the Natural Gas Pipe Line.

As part of its fight to prevent an increase in rates demanded by the Peoples company, equivalent to 16 per cent on the average household bill, the commission tried to get access to Natural Gas Pipe Line company's books to determine if its earnings on the sale of gas to the Peoples company were excessive. The pipe line company asserted that as it does an interstate business it is not subject to the jurisdiction of the Illinois commission.

Temporary Injunction Issued.

The United States District court here refused to restrain the commission from examining the company's books and an appeal was taken to the United States Supreme court. Justice Owen J. Roberts last month pending disposal of the appeal enjoined the commission from enforcing its order that the pipe line company produce its records.

FRANCE, ENGLAND REPORT LARGER FOREIGN TRADE

Reports from Paris and London received yesterday showed that 1937 imports and exports in both France and England are running well ahead of last year. At the same time, the commerce department in Washington predicted that 1937 exports of aeronautical products would total $33,000,000, an increase of more than 40 per cent over 1936, when the total was $23,143,000.

For the first eight months of this year imports into France amounted to $951,048,000, compared with $394,000,000 in the corresponding 1936 period, and exports totaled $516,300,000, an increase of $189,900,000 over the 1936 period. August imports were $112,740,000 and exports were $65,377,000.

British imports in August, as reported by the British board of trade, were $428,960,000 against $438,074,000 in July and $326,980,000 in August, 1936. August exports amounted to $210,600,000, compared with $235,500,000 in July and $99,392,000 in August, 1936.

WAR EXPORTS RISE.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—British exports of arms in August were valued at £116,710 [$583,550], compared with £43,965 [$219,825] in July and £58,628 [$293,140] in August, 1936.

LEHMAN URGES TAXING SYSTEMS BE CO-ORDINATED

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Stressing the seriousness of current conflicting taxation methods, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York called upon the federal government and the states today to launch a definite program for coördination of the entire tax system of the nation, federal, state, and local.

The governor set forth his views to 19 chief executives of states at the annual governors' conference. His expression of need for action found sympathetic audience, as all the governors have their own troubles with taxes back home.

The governors will visit with the President Thursday at the White House and it is believed that informal discussions at that time may pave the way for future action.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Gardeners Are Busy

September 14, 1937.

DIRT has been flying lately in the hardy flower borders and beds in the private garden at the Wheaton farm. The gardeners have been looking after the irises, peonies, and other perennials that come up from roots to be left in the soil over winter.

Iris rizomes or root stocks were dug up and reset to give the plants more room. The roots were first taken up, divided and cut down to about three eyes. All of the rotten parts were removed by cutting the roots back to live, healthy tissue. Before resetting, the roots were dusted with bordeau mixture to aid in preventing damage from diseases.

The gardeners changed the soil where the irises were not reset in a new location. While irises are native to damp spots, gardeners are most successful where they plant the roots in rich, light, well drained soil.

Autumn Is Best Time.

Many gardeners consider autumn the best time to start new iris beds or reset old ones. The roots in old beds become crowded and should be dug up, divided, and reset every two or three years. The tops should be cut back to within about six inches of the top of the roots. Then the roots should be covered with a thin layer of soil. In this region winter protection is advisable, according to the gardeners at the farm.

Peony roots also have been dug up, divided, freed from diseased spots, disinfected with bordeau mixture dust, and reset at the Wheaton place. It pays to mulch peonies in winter, farm gardeners say.

They find that when one or two peony plants wilt down it is a sign that the roots are diseased. It then is time to separate the clumps, disinfect, and reset in a new location, or in the same bed where the soil has been changed. Peonies are subject to rot in heavy soil or where the drainage is poor, according to experience on the farm.

The farm's head gardener says that in the case of both irises and peonies it is best to dig them up and reset them immediately.

He thinks September is the ideal time to dig up and reset large perennial phlox roots.

Protection from Winter.

By setting out the roots of iris, peony, and perennial phlox now they have time to develop fibrous roots and become fairly well established before severe winter weather sets in. Then they will have a fair chance of escaping winter kill.

This is the time of year when the gardeners start in cold-frames seeds of such perennials as delphinium, Shasta daisy, Canterbury bells, hollyhock, and perennial gypsophila. If started now and protected from frost the young plants will have time to make a good start and become well established before severe cold weather.

Two improved varieties of so-called summer lilacs — Buddleias hardwege and Buddleias fortuny—were successfully grown in a trial made this summer for the first time in the farm's private gardens. They really are not lilacs, but are given that name because the blossom resembles old-fashioned lilac blossoms grown on shrubs. The regular lilacs bloom here in May, while the summer lilacs open their blossoms from late July until frost. They are soft shrubs that die back to the surface in winter and send out new growth the next spring. They are started from roots, now handled by nurserymen, and grow to a height of 5 to 6 feet.

The Prairie club's regular weekly outing—Saturday walk No 1192—will be held next Saturday afternoon at the Wheaton farm. The hikers will take their lunches and will make a three hour trip over the test grounds and then through the fields and woods to study wild flowers. A special guide will conduct the tour.

WESTERN UNION DEFERS DIVIDEND AS COSTS MOUNT

Rise in Wages, Taxes and Materials Cited.

The Western Union Telegraph company yesterday announced that the board of directors had voted to defer action on the quarterly dividend due at this time. Quarterly payments of 75 cents each were made Jan. 15, April 15, and July 15.

The company's statement explaining the board's action follows:

"It was announced last December that the board of directors would give quarterly consideration to the matter of dividends, and, under the circumstances, it was the board's decision today to defer the subject until later in the year, when it is hoped that the business trend can be more accurately appraised.

Taxes and Costs Increase.

"While the volume of business is substantially the same as last year, it has been affected some during the last few months by the general slowing down of trade and the inactivity of the security and commodity markets. Taxes, especially social security taxes, the increased prices of materials, and increased wages have kept expenses running currently in excess of last year."

Directors of the Bank of America N. T. and S. A., meeting at Los Angeles, Cal., voted to raise the regular annual dividend rate from $2 to $2.40 a share by declaring a semi-annual dividend of $1.20 payable in two instalments on Sept. 30 and Dec. 31 to stockholders of record Sept. 15 and Dec. 15, respectively.

Pays Dividend on Arrears.

A dividend of $1.31¼ applicable to accumulations was declared by the Chicago Railway Equipment company on the cumulative preferred stock. After this payment arrears on the issue will amount to $3.06¼ a share.

The Aluminum Company of America declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred stock, and ordered payment of $2.25 on account of arrears. This will leave an arrearage of $4.50 on the issue. Similar payments were made in July.

An extra dividend of 37½ cents and a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents were authorized by directors of the Food Machinery corporation. On Aug. 25 a special dividend of $1.50 was paid. Previously quarterly dividends were 25 cents.

COTTON FIRMER AS U. S. REPORTS INCREASED USE

Sharp Rise Also Is Shown in August Exports.

Cotton prices moved higher with other commodities yesterday as figures issued by government agencies showed big increases in August cotton consumption and exports over the preceding month and comparable 1936 period. Final quotations on cotton futures in Chicago and other American markets were .01 to .07 cent a pound above the preceding day. Cotton for October delivery closed here at 8.67 cents a pound.

With the single exception of 1927, consumption of cotton by domestic mills in August was the largest on record for the month, the census bureau reported. The 604,380 running bales of lint cotton used by mills last month compares with the August, 1927, peak of 637,520 bales. August was the first month of the cotton year.

Record Set for Year.

Domestic consumption in the 12 months ended July 31 reached an all time high of 7,944,803 bales. A monthly consumption record of 776,942 bales was established in March this year.

August exports of raw cotton, the commerce department reported, totaled 220,000 bales, valued at $15,129,000. This compares with exports of 124,000 bales worth $8,627,000 in July and 182,000 bales valued at $12,027,000 in August, 1936.

The commerce department said that Germany, Poland, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Sweden purchased more United States cotton last month than in August, 1936. Shipments to the United Kingdom, Canada, and Japan were smaller than a year ago.

Hupp Motor Car.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Hupp Motors and the possibility of its stock being a safe long time investment.—A. N. W.

Answer: After being out of production since early last year the Hupp Motor Car corporation is making a fresh start. How much of its former standing in the automobile field the company can recapture will depend on its ability to compete with the big concerns that weathered the depression and have been making increasingly large sales for the last two or three years.

Operated in the red since 1929, Hupp was plagued with frequent but ineffectual changes in management, internal dissension, a bitter struggle for control, and lack of working capital.

Internal strife was settled late in 1936, and new money was obtained last spring through recapitalization and sale of additional stock to old stockholders and to the public.

Par value of stock was reduced from $10 to $1 a share, and the huge deficit wiped off the balance sheet. One share of new stock was issued for each two shares of the 1,318,628 shares of old stock, and 988,971 additional shares of new stock were sold. This produced a capitalization of 1,648,285 shares of $1 par value common stock.

Money raised through the stock sale is ample for satisfactory resumption of operations, said President Thomas Bradley.

Hupp will compete in the medium price field, as formerly, and will have both six and eight cylinder models in its 1938 line. Production now is under way, with orders for more than 3,000 cars received from dealers before any cars rolled off the assembly line. The company expects to be turning out cars at a rate of 1,500 to 2,000 a month by Oct. 1, and at a 100 car a day rate by Nov. 1, after which production will depend on retail sales.

The company figures it can break even on production of 15,000 cars a year. Its plant in Detroit has an annual capacity of 75,000 to 100,000 nual capacity of 75,000 to 100,000 units.

Loss of $350,000 was reported in the first half of 1937 and $1,079,000 for all of 1936. Losses amounted to $18,470,000 in the years 1930-'36. Net income was $3,469,000 in 1929, and a record of $8,790,000 was set in 1928. Sales dropped off from $5,129,000 in 1928 to a low [before production was stopped] of $6,119,000 in 1933.

The company's future depends on the public appeal its new cars have. Pending proof of such appeal, the stock should be considered highly speculative.
